PRESIDENT SAYS POWER IS HIS TO TAKE BANK GOLD

Denies Devaluation Is Imminent.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—With the treasury nearly out of ready money, President Roosevelt prepared today to pick three or four billion dollars out of the air through devaluation of the dollar.

After conferring with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and receiving an opinion from Attorney General Homer Cummings, the President said he is satisfied that he possesses authority without further recourse to congress to take over the 3 billion 600 million dollars of gold now held by the federal reserve banks.

The attorney general is understood to have ruled that the executive is authorized by the emergency banking act to take possession of all gold by whomsoever held.

Denies Action Is Imminent.

At the close of a day filled with rumors of immediate action to devalue the dollar and effect a quasi-stabilization of the currency the President denied that any steps are imminent, explaining that the course to be pursued is still under consideration. He flatly denied a report that he contemplated addressing a joint session of the two houses of congress on monetary matters.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt will act under the authority already conferred upon him or will pass the responsibility to congress is not clear and according to some officials has not been decided. From one source came the suggestion that if the President decides to act on his own authority he will take over the federal reserve gold without public disclosure of the step until it is accomplished and then will announce devaluation of the dollar out of a clear sky. By some officials such an announcement without warning is looked for almost any day now.

The fact that the President is beginning to scrape the bottom of the treasury till to find funds for his gigantic spending program convinces many observers that dollar devaluation is imminent.

Spending at Furious Rate.

Mr. Roosevelt is now spending money at a furious rate. Last week the expenditures exceeded receipts by 212 millions and left only 750 millions of cash in the treasury. At the rate money is being poured out on the recovery program the treasury balance will last only about three weeks longer.

Within the next three weeks, therefore, it will be incumbent upon Mr. Roosevelt to find additional money, either by borrowing on the credit of the government or by issuing paper money against the increased value of the gold reserve accruing from devaluation of the dollar.

According to treasury figures gold stocks now aggregate $4,322,865,873. Of this amount the gold reserves of the federal reserve banks account for $3,566,290,000. Physically in possession of the reserve banks is gold to the amount of $810,154,273 and gold certificates amounting to $946,133,120, but of the $3,201,740,958 of gold in the federal treasury, $1,767,949,566 is held to the credit of the reserve banks.

Amounts to 4 Billion.

It is well understood that the President will not devalue the dollar until the government has title to all gold stocks including those of the reserve bank system.

If the dollar should be devalued as much as 50 per cent, the treasury would come into possession of more than four billion dollars that it did not have to its credit before.

One of the suggestions under consideration is the issuance of a new variety of paper dollar backed by 40 per cent gold or gold and silver combined. If this scheme were adopted it would be possible to issue 10 billion dollars or more of new paper money against the increment of value of the gold stocks produced by dollar devaluation.

Propositions Discussed.

The White House conferences of the last two days have covered this range of propositions:

1. Devaluation of the dollar and the capture by the treasury of the profit on gold held by the reserve banks.

2. Freer use of silver as a base for currency issues, with the possibility of a bimetallic base.

3. The substitution of some agency other than the RFC to continue pur-

Universal Car Line Transfers Assured City

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday assured a committee of aldermen that he will order the receivers of the street car and elevated companies to establish a universal transfer between the two systems if the council will grant a six months' extension of the deadline for acceptance of the 1930 unification ordinance.

The interservice transfer plan could be put into operation about March 15, providing the council grants the extension at its next meeting, according to Attorney Walter L. Fisher, traction expert, who attended the conference which was held in Judge Wilkerson's chambers. The interval would be required to train employés of both systems in the transfer plan, enlarge elevated platforms and stations, and make other physical changes, he said.

Boon to Car Riders.

The transfer plan, which will be a boon to the thousands of street car and elevated riders, is expected to provide that street car riders transferring to the rapid transit trains would pay an additional 3 cents for the transfer. No extra charge would be made for the transfer from the elevated to the surface lines. Plans for the division of this 3 cents among the traction companies are to be worked out later.

The date on which the universal transfer will go into effect will depend, in part, on how soon the council acts. The committee which visited Judge Wilkerson yesterday is to report back to the council Monday morning. It was indicated yesterday that the aldermen will vote the extension at that meeting.

Extension Needed, Says Judge.

The six months' extension of time for the unification ordinance is necessary, Judge Wilkerson told the aldermen, in order to work out legal details of the foreclosure proceedings which must precede actual merger of the lines. Less time would be futile, he said.

The aldermen also obtained assurance from Judge Wilkerson that he would help them obtain three feeder bus extensions in outlying parts of the city if this can be done with the present facilities of the company and without any capital outlay. The extensions involve three and four mile stretches between the city limits and the nearest street car services on Archer avenue, the Northwest highway, and on West 87th street.

Attorney Fisher, in reply to queries from the committee, said that there was little likelihood under present financial conditions, of the traction interests spending $65,000,000 for street car and elevated extensions in the first three years as provided for under the terms of the ordinance.

DETECTIVES GET HEADACHE FROM CRAFTY SEERESS

North side police are beginning to get a headache. For the last three weeks they have been besieged with complaints from susceptible men and women who had been swindled by a woman fortune teller. Detectives have been unable to find the seeress thus far and are beginning to figure they will have to resort to a little mystic work themselves.

The newest victims of the fortune teller were Miss Florence O'Neill, 24 years old, 716 Buckingham place, a maid in the home of Police Lieutenant Louis Klatzco, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Sandin, 3157 Hudson avenue. Seeking information about her sweetheart, Miss O'Neill a few days ago called on the fortune teller, who was then operating as Mme. Howard at 2509 North Clark street. She didn't get the information, but she did lose a new $100 coat, a Christmas gift from her employers. The Sandins lost $450 cash trying to find out how Sandin could get a job.

Police said that Mme. Howard is the same woman who, as Mme. Palmer, holding forth in a Devon avenue flat, duped Miss Goldie Kuester, 5847 North Maplewood avenue, out of $2,000 on Dec. 28. The fortune teller has a husband and three or four children.

SHOT TO DEATH ON "RIDE"; BODY LEFT ON HIGHWAY

An unidentified man about 27 years old was shot and killed in gangland fashion early today and his body thrown on the pavement in State road at 81st street, Stickney, just south of Clearing and about one mile west of Cicero avenue.

He had been shot while riding in a car with his slayers. Passing motorists notified police, and Sergt. Ray Foley and Deputy Peter Brown, of the Willow Springs county highway station, responded. Sergt. Francis Donahue of the coroner's office too charge. He found the man had been shot five times in the head, apparently with an automatic pistol.

The victim wore a sport sweater, on the front of which was the name "Chick." A cleaning mark "H51-363" was found in the trousers. The man had grey eyes, dark hair, weighed about 140 pounds, was 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Slugged and Robbed by Armed Boy Bandit Trio

John Fegeler, 9821 Exchange avenue, assistant chief engineer at the University of Chicago, was slugged and robbed by three boys last night as he was putting his car into the garage in the rear of his home. The boys were not more than 13 years old. Two of them had guns. When Fegeler tried to resist one of the boys struck him on the head with a revolver butt. They took 75 cents, a pencil, and a cigaret lighter from the engineer.

Scan Incomes of Lindbergh, H. Hoover Jr.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Members of the senate committee investigating air mail contracts disclosed tonight they were checking the income tax reports of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, and Herbert Hoover Jr., who were among the approximately 200 persons asked to fill out committee questionaires.

Investigators explained in answer to questions by newspapermen that the mere fact that the income tax investigations were being made did not necessarily signify any further action.

Checking All Reports.

The committee, it was said, has been checking the returns from all questionnaires against income tax reports, to which it has had full access.

It was indicated tonight that Postmaster General Brown would be called sometime after next week to testify regarding his part in the apportionment of mail contracts in 1930 and the alleged burning of his official and personal records.

When Senator Black, chairman of the committee, was asked whether Col. Lindbergh and Herbert Hoover Jr. would be subpœnaed, he replied that any one would be called whose testimony was considered of value.

Recently Submitted Data.

Investigators said the former postmaster general's income returns had been looked into about two weeks ago, but that the request had just been made for investigation of Lindbergh's since he only recently submitted full data to the committee.

Those connected with the committee said they did not recall when inquiry was made into the returns of the son of the former President, but that all returning questionnaires had been submitted for tax investigation.

POLITICAL CHIEF DIES SUDDENLY AS TRIAL NEARS

Moe Rosenberg, Democratic committeeman of the 24th ward, died suddenly at 3:50 p. m. yesterday in the Frances Willard hospital after an embolism [blood clot] formed in the heart. He underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis on New Year's day.

Rosenberg, who was 44 years old, was taken to the hospital the night of Dec. 31, and the operation and his subsequent death precluded his trial in federal court on charges of income tax evasion. The trial had been set for Jan. 2, and a report on Rosenberg's condition was to have been made to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson next Monday.

Nephew Tells of Death.

Less than two hours before Rosenberg's death attending physicians had announced that the patient was "resting comfortably."

Michael Rosenberg Jr., Rosenberg's nephew, who was alone at the bedside when the end came, said his uncle had been lying quietly in his bed. Suddenly, he said, Rosenberg rose to a sitting position.

"I want air—give me air!" Rosenberg gasped, according to his nephew. Then the stricken man fell back and was dead in a few moments.

Other Relatives at Hospital.

In an adjoining room were Mrs. Annette Rosenberg, wife of the political leader; their son, Norman, 15 years old, a student at the John Marshall High school; Louis Rosenberg, a brother of the stricken man; Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg, widow of Michael, another brother, and Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg's son, Harold, a brother of Michael Jr.

Informed of her husband's death, Mrs. Rosenberg collapsed. She was taken to her home by her son, Norman, and Mort Kalils, a brother-in-law of Rosenberg.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], a close friend and political associate of Rosenberg, arrived at the hospital soon after the death was announced. Leonard Rosenberg, 21 years old, another son of the deceased man, was notified immediately at the University of Michigan, where he is a student. He planned to take a plane to Chicago.

Cause of Worry to Doctor.

After Rosenberg's death yesterday Dr. Marmor issued the following statement:

"Death was due, first of all, to appendicitis. In addition there was chronic colitis. When Mr. Rosenberg came to the hospital he had an embolism in the left leg. This traveled to the left lung, with a resultant pulmonary embolism. One of the heart muscles weakened and a third embolism took place directly in the heart."

Rosenberg's condition was reported good after the operation, and on Jan. 9, when the last report on his condition was made to Judge Wilkerson, the physicians said he was progressing favorably, but requested ten days more in which to make a definite statement.

Effort to Settle Tax.

Two days before being taken to the hospital Rosenberg returned from Washington, where he made a final attempt to settle his income tax case by tendering a cash offer, said in some reports to have been as high as $200,000. The offer was rejected by officials of the treasury department. The income tax indictment, voted on April 20, 1933, charged that Rosenberg tried to evade taxes of approximately $65,000, on an income of $345,000, for the years 1929 and 1930.

The sums of income set up in the indictment of Rosenberg indicated his rapid rise to wealth and political power. More than fifteen years ago he served a twenty month sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for conspiracy to steal from interstate shipments. At that time he was a junk dealer on a small scale, but this business, the Rosenberg Iron and Metal company, expanded after his return from prison, and the government estimated his income from this source at $165,000 in 1929. Income from "other sources" was set at $152,000 for the same year.

Rapid Rise in Politics.

Rosenberg first came into prominence in politics in 1928 when he was elected committeeman of his ward to

Vallee Uses Tapped Wire Against Wife

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Rudy Vallee's right to seek a Mexican divorce was upheld unanimously today by the Appellate division, which made public a series of documents recording "tapped" telephone conversations between Vallee's wife and a man named Leon.

One of the documents was an affidavit by the singer, in which he presented what purported to be a phonographic record of the telephone conversations.

The talks were punctuated by such endearing terms as "darling" and "dear."

Vallee identified "Leon" in the affidavit as Garfield Leon, a dancer, whose wife filed suit against Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee last spring for $100,000, charging alienation of her husband's affections.

Recites Dialogues.

Today's decision, handed down unanimously by the five judge bench, affirmed a lower court's ruling that Mrs. Vallee could not restrain her husband from going to Mexico for a divorce.

Other than to make public the heretofore undisclosed documents, the higher court made no comment on the case.

The affidavit about the phonograph transcription of the telephone conversations recited a dialogue of last March 23, in which the following passages are given:

Fay—Hello.

Leon—Hello there, you.

Fay—Hello, darling.

Fay—Listen. What are you doing tonight?

Fay—Will you be through at 10 o'clock?

Leon—Yes. Why?

Fay—Rudy is leaving at 10 o'clock to go to Philadelphia and I told him I would come to the station.

Leon—All right.

Say She Is "Stocking Up."

Fay—Listen. We have to be awfully careful, Garfield. I mean there are a lot of spies around watching us. But my chauffeur is my chauffeur, see? So would you get in a taxi and meet me in the park some place and we can ride around in the park?

Leon—O, that sounds kind of mysterious.

Fay—I want to see you so badly. It sounds nice, doesn't it?

The conversation continues:

Fay—That's too bad. Listen. He sends me orchids every night. Isn't that funny? Yesterday I bought five dresses and three pairs of shoes and three hats. I'm stocking up.

Leon—You better. You're no fool.

Leon—You come right up to room 825.

Fay—O. K.

Leon—O. K., sweet.

Talks to Rudy.

Vallee asserted that on last March 31 his wife, who is suing him for separate maintenance, said in a conversation with Leon:

Fay—I wish you were here. . . . I wonder what the boy friend is thinking. As long as they don't know it is all right.

Fay—I called up to tell you I love you.

Rudy—Really?

Fay—Uh-huh.

Rudy—How much?

Fay—O, about fifty thousand mil-

DR. WYNEKOOP'S LAWYERS TRY TO BAR CONFESSION

A motion to suppress Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop's confession to the police that she shot and killed her daughter-in-law, Rheta, will be made by counsel defending the physician when her trial for murder reopens in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph B. David Monday morning. This motion will constitute the chief bid of the defense for a not guilty verdict.

Attorneys Milton D. Smith and W. W. Smith, the defense counsel, revealed this late yesterday, a few hours after a jury had been chosen, and the proceedings adjourned over the week-end on motion of the state. The attorneys declared that the motion to suppress the confession—they termed it a "statement"—would be presented to the court before the opening arguments of either side are begun.

Charge Duress Was Used.

"We are going to ask Judge David to deny the state the right to mention Dr. Wynekoop's statement in the opening argument," said the attorneys. "We charge that the statement was obtained by duress and as such is not legally admissible."

The lawyers declared that if the defendant's confession is suppressed by the court it will remove the strongest point in the state's case. Without the confession only circumstantial evidence can be produced to prove Dr. Wynekoop's guilt, they said.

The legal definition of duress, the lawyers said, does not confine it to physical brutality, but also includes intensive questioning. They charged that Dr. Wynekoop had been questioned at the Fillmore street police station continuously for twenty-four hours before she signed her confession.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles S. Dougherty and Martin Ward, notified of the defense plans, announced that the state would oppose the motion. They asserted that Dr. Wynekoop had been questioned, but had made her confession "of her own free will and without pressure." They asserted that they could produce witnesses to prove this point.

Dr. Wynekoop to Testify.

During the afternoon Dr. Wynekoop announced that she would testify in her own defense. Two of her children, Walker and Dr. Katherine Wynekoop, said that their mother was eager to take the witness stand and give her own version of how Rheta died. The defense attorneys said that Dr. Wynekoop had insisted that she be allowed to testify. They said she was "too intelligent" to fear cross-examination by the state's attorneys.

Completion of the jury was accomplished yesterday morning at a session lasting only one hour and fifty minutes. A total of six hours and eight minutes was used in picking the jury during the two days, and the speed of the attorneys, according to Criminal court clerks, has set a record in a murder case. Judge David complimented both sides after the jury was sworn in.

Dr. Wynekoop, again garbed in the handsome new clothes which she wore in public for the first time Thursday, appeared to be in good spirits, although she complained that her health was unimproved. She said: "I'm terribly tired although I slept well last night. I don't believe that I could go through another day like Thursday."

Sits with Attorneys.

Seated at the table with her lawyers, her attitude was hardly that of an invalid. She stared at each prospective juror as he answered questions, and with her foot beat a soft tattoo on the courtroom floor. Occasionally she lifted the veil draped over her hat and wiped her lips with her handkerchief.

Dr. Katherine Wynekoop, wearing the unrelieved black which her mother prefers, sat at the counsel table also. Walker took his seat near by. For the second day Earle Wynekoop, who is the defendant's other son and the husband of Rheta, was absent. The prosecutors said that they wanted to question him and presumed that he is remaining in retirement to avoid a police squad which has been posted at the Wynekoop home, 3406 West Monroe street, to arrest him.

When the jury was accepted Dr. Katherine Wynekoop stepped to her mother's side and felt her pulse. To questioners the daughter explained that her mother had a fever of 99½ degrees when she entered court during the morning. She said she had wanted to assure herself that the strain of the session had not aggravated her mother's condition.

"I'm glad the jury is chosen," the defendant said as she fingered her white scarf. "It looks like a good jury to me. I'm satisfied to put my case in their hands. I feel as well as I possibly could under the circumstances. I didn't tell Dr. McNamara (Dr. Francis W. McNamara, the jail physician) about my fever this morning because I was afraid he'd not let me come. I want to get this over."

On the jury are eleven married men, eight of them fathers. One is a bridegroom of three months. Their occupations are varied, being: draftsman, photo engraver, bookkeeper, sales manager, head of a cartage company, salesman, mechanical engineer, CWA night watchman, CWA electrician, Surface Lines motorman, and manager of a commercial telegraph station.

Thirty-seven veniremen were examined Thursday and eighteen yesterday. Of this group ten were excused by the state and thirteen by the defense on peremptory challenges. Sixteen were excused when they asserted that they were opposed to the death penalty. Four others were excused because they had formed opinions of the guilt of the defendant or knew some one of the sixty-one witnesses the state is prepared to summon.

Judge Grows Impatient.

It took only twenty-three minutes yesterday morning for the completion of the second panel of four jurors. Then seven veniremen were summoned in succession, and all seven were excused. Judge David, apparently impatient with the seemingly slow progress being made at that period, jumped from his chair and paced the platform behind the bench.

Once when a veniremen was being questioned about his occupation and had said that he was working for the U. S. A., through the CWA, the judge shouted: "O, we can't keep track of all those alphabets." Another time he grew sarcastic when the fourth successive veniremen was excused after he professed to have "conscientious scruples" against a death penalty. "I presume the same scruples are being observed by the veniremen in answering counsel's questions," was the judge's comment.

Then suddenly the last panel was filled by four men who satisfactorily answered the questions of Attorney Frank Tyrrell, associate defense counsel. He held a short whispered colloquy with his associates, and then announced: "The defense will tender this panel."

Prosecutor Questions Panel.

Prosecutor Dougherty put a series of questions to the men, being careful to ask each if the age of the defendant would cause him to sympathize with her. The replies were in the negative. Then the prosecutor leaned back in his chair and in turn whispered to his colleague. The courtroom grew quiet.

"Swear the jury," came Dougherty's command.

Immediately there was an uproar in the courtroom and Judge David shouted above it: "Everybody sit down and stay down." The two other panels of eight jurors who had been taken from the courtroom as soon as they were chosen were brought in and sworn. The judge then gave the following instructions to the jurors:

"You now are officers of the court. While on the jury you are not to discuss this case with any one or with each other until you have heard all the evidence of both sides, the arguments of counsel, and the instructions which I will give you. It is contempt of court for you to talk to any one or for any one to talk to you.

Not to Question Officers.

"If any one attempts to talk to you about this case it is your duty to report it immediately to the court for action. You are not to ask the officers who have you in charge anything about the case, because they cannot and will not answer you. Be governed only by the evidence produced from the witness stand and the law which the court will give you at the conclusion of the trial.

"If you have any business to transact you will communicate the request to the officer who has you in charge and he will take care of your business matters for you. It is not, gentlemen, that you are not to be trusted, of course, but that is the law which must be followed. Your comforts will be looked after by the bailiffs of the court and if you have any complaints make them through the court."

The jurors were led away. They will be locked up until after they reach a verdict in the case. Before departing, however, they were permitted to pose for newspaper photographers.

GAMBLING EMPLOYES FINED.

Municipal Judge J. William Brooks yesterday imposed a $100 fine on Harry Finkelstein, assistant manager of a gambling house at 4411 Milwaukee avenue which police raided Thursday. Walter Sims and Max Cohen, employes, were fined $10 each.

ELEVEN MARRIED MEN ON WYNEKOOP JURY; EIGHT ARE FATHERS

Eleven married men and one single make up the jury which will try Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop for murder. Eight of the jurors are fathers with a total of 30 children. One is a bridegroom of three months. The jurors are:

W. A. GRUMMIT, 63 years old, head of a cartage company, 7127 Ellis avenue. Married; no children.

FRED MARSH, 41 years old, photo engraver, 3512 North Keeler avenue. Married; two children.

Judge David's personal bailiff, David Eichner, notified wives or relatives of each juror to prepare clothing and toilet articles and send them to the Criminal Courts building. The jurors will be kept in special jury quarters in the building until the trial is over.

DR. G. H. WYNEKOOP TAKEN TO MENARD INSANE HOSPITAL

Dr. Gilbert H. Wynekoop, brother-in-law of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, and six other persons, all of them adjudged insane, left last evening for the Illinois Security hospital at Menard. They will reach the asylum today.

Dr. Gilbert Wynekoop, at one time a prominent north side physician, was found insane by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court after he was charged with attacking a nurse. He has been held at the jail for several weeks until room could be made for him at the overcrowded asylum.

Hawkins Honored at 94; Twice North Shore Mayor

Frank P. Hawkins, twice mayor of Highland Park, celebrated his 94th birthday yesterday at his home at 389 Laurel avenue, Highland Park. More than 100 city officials, civic leaders, friends and relatives called on him to tender best wishes. A birthday dinner was held in the evening, attended by Mr. Hawkins' son, R. W. Hawkins, and two daughters, Miss Frances Hawkins and Mrs. Celia Schultz. Mr. Hawkins' two terms as mayor were more than 40 years apart. He was elected in 1869 when Highland Park first went under aldermanic rule, and again in 1914 when aldermanic rule ended in favor of a commission form of government.

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Kenneth A Cratill, 21, of Monmouth, was killed, and two other Monmouth youths were seriously hurt last night when their automobile skidded into a telephone pole on a slippery highway near here. The injured are Wilburt Burgess and Harry Lightner.

PRIDE OF BRITISH FLEET IS STUCK IN MUD 12 HOURS

Everything but King's 'Orses Called Out.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—After a most humiliating experience, the battleship Nelson, flagship of the British home fleet, is in deep water tonight, but it certainly is as crestfallen as a battleship can be.

The Nelson, called "the wonder ship" of the British navy, ran aground this morning on Hamilton bank at the entrance to Porthmouth harbor as it sailed proudly forth on a three months' cruise of the home fleet. It was released from the shingle bottom tonight at high tide after having been submitted to 12 hours of indignities rare for a 33,500 ton battleship.

1,400 Men Jump Up and Down.

When Admiral Sir William Henry Dudley Boyle, commander in chief of the home fleet, and Capt. P. MacNamara, flag captain, saw they were fast aground and after the engines at full speed astern had proved of no avail, they ordered a very strange performance.

In full sight of thousands of relatives gathered on the Portsmouth docks to say farewell to the Nelson's crew, the 1,360 men and 100 officers of the ship were lined up astern and told to jump up and down in an effort to move the vessel back. A bandmaster, acting like a cheer leader, presided over their monkeyshines. They jumped and jumped, but the Nelson's bow held.

Tugs and destroyers were sent for. The tugs pulled, the crew jumped and the destroyers raced past in a naval maneuver as unusual as it was spectacular. The wash of the destroyers was supposed to raise the monster's bow clear.

Collision Narrowly Averted.

The first destroyer passed at 20 knots and the next four at faster speeds. As the sixth raced by, the Nelson's stern swung around in the narrow entrance to the harbor, in the very path, it seemed, of the seventh destroyer, bearing down at a speed close to 30 knots. By a hair's breadth a collision was avoided. The destroyer lurched past and streaked off in the direction of the spithead as the Nelson continued to swing around with its nose still captive.

Although it was feared the list at low tide might cause damage to the ship, which was heavily stocked with munitions, food and supplies for the long cruise, it was refloated tonight, apparently unharmed. An examination of its hull will be made by divers.

MOE ROSENBERG DIES SUDDENLY AFTER OPERATION

succeed his brother, Michael, who died on Memorial day of the same year. Michael also had been a sanitary district trustee.

Moe Rosenberg's rise in politics, as well as in affluence, was rapid, and he soon became an intimate of the Chicago and Illinois leaders of his party. He also cornered a majority of the stock of the Cook County Trust company, which reaped large profits in receivership operations allegedly made possible by political influence.

Rosenberg's temporary successor as committeeman of the 24th ward will be named by the Democratic county central committee, according to Al Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court and a party leader. His elected successor will be chosen in the April primaries. There were no predictions as to who would be selected pending the election.

When Rosenberg was taken to the hospital he told Ald. Arvey that if he "pulled through on New Year's day" he would be all right. This remark was occasioned by the ill fate that has overtaken the family on holidays. His mother died on Yom Kippur, Oct. 14, 1929; his father, Reuben, died on Christmas day, 1926, and his brother Michael on Memorial day, 1928.

Mayor Expresses Regret.

Mayor Kelly said he had learned with great surprise and regret of the death of Rosenberg.

"The poor people of his district will miss him very much, as he was noted for his great charity," said the mayor. "I understand he had a premonition of his death a few days ago and was making provisions for his family. I am led to believe that he was not in very good financial circumstances. However, I trust his family will suffer no hardships.

"He was very popular in his neighborhood and was instrumental in building up a wonderful Democratic organization there. It seems regrettable that he had to go this way without having an opportunity to prove his innocence in court."

Gov. Horner and Senator James Hamilton Lewis were among others who telephoned to the family to express their sympathy.

The Rosenberg home is at 1230 Independence boulevard. Funeral arrangements are expected to be announced today. Burial will be on Monday in the Waldheim cemetery in Forest Park.

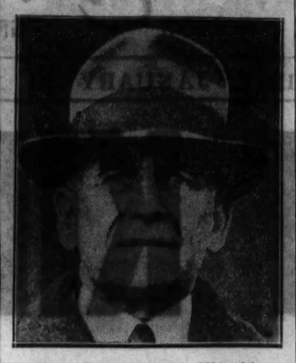
Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, sitting in the County court, yesterday continued until Feb. 9 the petition as an insolvent debtor which Michael "Rubs" Quinlan, south side gangster, filed in an effort to evade judgments for $20,000 obtained against him by Mrs. Julia Borkovec, who was injured and whose husband was killed by an automobile driven by Quinlan in 1931. The judgments contain a malice count making Quinlan liable to imprisonment if he fails to pay them. The continuance was by agreement of the attorneys in the case, who told Judge Allen that a settlement of the judgments is being negotiated.

Named Governor



Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship.
[Acme Photo.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, former judge advocate general of the army, as governor of Porto Rico, succeeding Robert H. Gore, who resigned this morning.

The President also appointed Wright Matthews of Texas assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue.

A new weather man for the nation likewise was selected, Mr. Roosevelt naming Willis G. Gregg as chief of the weather bureau to succeed Dr. Charles F. Marvin.

Maj. Gen. Winship is a veteran in insular affairs, having served in Cuba and the Philippines as adviser to the ranking American officials in these islands. He was also a military aid to President Coolidge. He is a native of Macon, Ga.

Gore, whose administration was the center of a political attack, said he resigned on account of ill health. He is a Florida newspaper man.

GRANTS DELAY ON RECOUNT OF 1932 ELECTION

County Judge Jarecki yesterday postponed until Jan. 20 a ruling on the petition for a recount of votes cast in the November, 1932, election, which was asked by a group of citizens headed by Joseph W. Badenoch, grain commission merchant. The delay was occasioned by the petition of Attorney Theodore Levin, who seeks to have the recount stopped. Levin represents Miss Belle Friedman, unemployed school teacher, and described in the petition as a "taxpayer."

Levin argued yesterday that the County court did not have jurisdiction because of a law which provides that the ballots must be destroyed six months after an election if no election contest is pending. He also raised the point that the taxpayers, instead of the Badenoch committee, might eventually have to pay the costs of the canvass.

"Your petition is an impertinence to this court, young man," Levin was told by Harry Eugene Kelly, counsel for the Badenoch committee.

"I may say the same of your petition, sir," Levin replied.

The squabble was terminated by Judge Jarecki. Kelly assured the court that the committee would pay "every nickel" of the expenses of the recount. The lawyers were instructed to file briefs by Jan. 20.

U. S. LIQUOR TAX IS 19 MILLIONS SINCE REPEAL

Start Action to Reduce Prices.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—While the treasury department was revealing that it had collected more than 19 million dollars in taxes from the newly legalized liquor traffic in December, the federal alcohol control administration today started another move to stop alleged profiteering by distillers.

Whisky and other distilled spirits poured $8,651,275 in revenue into the treasury during the first post-repeal month, the treasury revealed. Tax collections showed that 7,865,000 gallons of spirits had been withdrawn for consumption or blending during the month.

Beer with an alcoholic content over 3.2 per cent was the second largest revenue source, yielding $7,568,609 as 1,261,000 barrels of it were drunk. Taxes on rectification of whisky and other spirits brought in $1,257,597, and taxes on wines produced $1,030,475. The rest of the 19 millions came from occupational taxes.

New Tax Rates in Effect.

Since President Roosevelt last night made the new and higher liquor taxes effective today by signing the tax bill passed by congress before midnight, liquor tax collections are expected by the treasury to mount this month.

Following up its new drive to force down legal liquor prices and thus discourage bootlegging, the federal alcohol control administration today announced that in the future it will require distillers to submit operating statements.

With figures available on cost of production, the administration will be able to determine whether distillers are profiteering, Joseph H. Choate, alcohol administrator, explained today.

While collecting statistics which will enable it to take action on liquor prices, the administration has sent letters to governors of all the wet states requesting their help in suppressing sales of impure legal liquor.

No Dangerous Liquor Found.

The move, Mr. Choate explained, was merely a precaution because no dangerous legal liquor has yet been found.

The recent move by the FACA allowing the manufacture of ethyl alcohol for blending from raw materials other than grain was explained by Mr. Choate as necessary because grain alcohol manufacturers had been unable to supply the demands. Distillers and rectifiers have been calling for large quantities of alcohol because they maintain that alcohol and aged whisky makes a better blend than a mixture of aged and green whisky.

Permission to turn out new stores of alcohol, together with the recent decision to allow unlimited imports of American types of rye and bourbon from abroad for 30 days, should bring down liquor prices without the FACA having to do more than investigate them, Mr. Choate believes.

WETS ATTACKING TEXAS DRY LAW AS ILLEGAL ACT

Arrest Proves Signal for Campaign.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—George Rickard, elderly cattle man and uncle of the late Tex Rickard, arrested here today when found in possession of a quart of liquor, promises to be the bomb that may blow Texas out of the list of dry states into the midst of the dripping wets.

His defense was immediately undertaken by a group of anti-prohibition organizations who assert they have sufficient evidence to prove that the prohibition amendment to the state constitution was adopted illegally in 1919.

The attack on the state constitution, brought to a head by Rickard's arrest, is being launched by an alliance consisting of the Crusaders, the State Liquor Control league, several women's organizations, the Hotel Men's association of Texas and other groups.

Charge Illegal Adoption.

Leaders assert that a search of the state records reveals proof that the dry amendment was illegally adopted in 15 counties, with the probability that similar proof may be shown in regard to a score of others.

The dry amendment to the Texas constitution is regarded as one of the most drastic pieces of legislation of the kind in existence. It is a self-enforcing instrument, providing severe penalties for even minor infractions. It was originally framed in a burst of enthusiasm generated by the activities of Senator Morris Sheppard, one of the authors of the eighteenth amendment, but was adopted by a scant majority of barely 19,000.

Although there is an active demand for its repeal, no steps toward that end can be taken before 1935, because the Texas constitution provides that amendments cannot be adopted oftener than once in two years, and the constitution was amended in August, 1933.

Bounded by Wet States.

At present, with wet states—Louisiana and Arizona—on each side of it, Texas is being flooded with "bonded" liquor and the bootlegging industry flourishes, especially in the larger cities. Insistent demands for a change are coming from two sources. The cities want legal liquor at cheaper prices than those now current. The rural districts want tax relief through the income the state would deprive from liquor sales.

Rickard was arrested while crossing one of the city's downtown plazas carrying a bottle of whisky, wrapped in a newspaper. He was immediately charged with "possession and transportation." He refused to tell where he had purchased his whisky on the ground that it is nobody's business where a gentleman gets his liquor.

U. S. OPENS QUIZ ON VIOLENCE BY MILK STRIKERS

Train Holdups, Coercion Under Scrutiny.

The federal government has started an investigation of the violent tactics employed by farmers in enforcing their blockade of supplies for Chicago during the milk strike, which ended on Wednesday in a truce.

Among the specific charges are that the strikers violated the anti-trust laws by threats and milk dumping, that they interfered with the mail by halting trains carrying postal sacks and that they violated the interstate commerce act by stripping the seals from freight cars in transit from Wisconsin to Illinois.

Assistant United States District Attorney Leo J. Hassenauer yesterday forwarded to Jerome Frank, chief counsel in Washington for the agricultural adjustment administration, complaints placed by several dairy companies against the Pure Milk association and its members. Also, it was learned yesterday, Mr. Frank has already had two of his own agents investigating the violence.

Investigate Train Holdup.

They have listened to reports on the stopping of trains at Lexington, Wis., and Burlington, Wis. At the United States courthouse it was said that postal inspectors were investigating the mail train holdup at Wadsworth, in northern Lake county, on Tuesday night, and that the bureau of investigation, department of justice, would be assigned to delve into the interstate commerce law and anti-trust law violations.

One of the complainants against the Pure Milk association and its members was the Blue Island dairy, an independent concern. Its officials asserted that on Wednesday one of its trucks, with 300 gallons of milk, was held up at Crete, near the southern end of Cook county. Much of the milk was taken from the driver and he was allowed to proceed only with a few cans, it was alleged.

Later the same day, according to the dairy company officials, a mob of the farm pickets surrounded its plant in Blue Island and by force compelled the signing of the truce agreement. The company also averred that efforts were made to coerce them into signing a contract to buy milk from the PMA. Affidavits carrying their story have been forwarded by Mr. Hassenauer to Mr. Frank.

Plan Protest Meeting.

It was not certain last night that further outbreaks of violence would not occur as a result of the strike. The Pure Milk association headquarters reported that about 1,000 members in Kane county would hold a mass-meeting tonight to protest against the truce, which they consider unfavorable to their program for holding up milk prices.

The association as a whole, however, is confident that the 18,000 members will accept the decision of the board of arbitration appointed to fix a fair producers' price for milk. Two of the board members, Clifford V. Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer, representative of the farmers, and W. D. Hunnicutt, of Cincinnati, for the dealers, met yesterday and discussed the selection of the third member.

The third man, they said, probably would be picked today. It was indicated that this arbiter would be representative of the Chicago consumers and acceptable to Mayor Kelly, who arranged the truce. The trio will then begin their studies to determine the fair price to farmers, which will be made retroactive to Jan. 1.

Consider Strike Threat.

Meanwhile the organized milk companies, members of the Milk Council, Inc., met yesterday to consider the effect of a new strike threat made by the milk wagon drivers' union. The union membership in a massmeeting at Car Men's hall on Thursday night voted to strike before accepting a pay cut, but authorized the officers to negotiate a wage settlement with the employers.

The farmers who took part in the milk blockade around Chicago this week learned yesterday that high prices paid to them this week for December milk had caused a drop in consumption in Chicago and suburbs.

The December price, set under the now abrogated governmental trade agreement, was $1.92 per 46½ quarts for only 88 per cent of the "base" milk sold by farmers. This base is the quota assigned each farmer, up to which point he is to share in fluid milk and cream milk sales. All other milk sold brought only 68 cents per 46½ quarts.

Sales Drop 7 Per Cent.

The audit of the milk companies' books for December disclosed that milk sales had declined 7 per cent since November. Cream sales dropped twice as much as whole milk sales, it was reported, due both to increased sales of cut rate milk and cream and to curtailed purchases in the city. As a result the Pure Milk association has removed the penalty ruling by which farmer who failed to produce at least 80 per cent of the base or quota would lose permanently the difference between his actual production and the full quota. This ruling is set aside until June 1, 1934, as an attempt to discourage production of milk by PMA members.

Preliminary surveys this week indicate that retail consumption of both fluid milk and cream has declined further since the December audit was made. Many consumers have reduced their orders for fresh milk this week since the strike ended.

More Sign Arbitration Pact.

Several dairy companies yesterday added their signatures to those of the concerns which already had agreed to abide by the arbitration plan sponsored by Mayor Kelly. Included were the Kuk dairy, Douglas Dairy company, Dixie dairy, Jefferson dairy, and Kalte dairy. The Kalte dairy and the People's dairy of Cicero, listed incorrectly yesterday as cut rate concerns, are charging the full 11 cents a quart and paying the farmers and their help according to the AAA code. There are nearly 30 small milk companies that have not signed the mayor's truce, however.

Plans were made yesterday to include the milk companies and farmers of Aurora, Naperville, Hinsdale, and other suburban towns, including all Lake county towns, in the Kelly arbitration plan. Similar provision may also be made in Gary and Hammond, it was reported.

Milk dealers of Lake county, Indiana, were reported last night to have agreed to go along with the Chicago dealers in their arbitration settlement with the Pure Milk association. This report followed a meeting in Gary between forty dealers and L. D. Oranger, assistant to Don Geyer, manager of the PMA. The Lake county dairies distribute 100,000 quarts of milk a day.

Charges Selected Sentences.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—A "sensation" was promised by Fay Webb Vallee's lawyer tonight if Rudy Vallee tried to introduce, in her separate maintenance case, pending here, the records of her telephone conversations in New York with Garfield Leon, dancer, and others.

Leon said any statement that there had been misconduct between him and Mrs. Vallee would be a "deliberate falsehood."

"Mrs. Vallee is not guilty of infidelity with Leon or any one else," said her lawyer, Ben Cohen. "Vital portions of these conversations have been deliberately omitted."

Recalling the fact that he and Mrs. Vallee were childhood schoolmates, Leon, who married Miss Marian Mitchell, dancer, in Toledo, O., recently, told of talking by telephone to the singer's wife in New York.

Chief Secludes Mrs. Vallee.

"Perhaps," he said at his Santa Monica home, where he is with his bride, "if snatches of our telephone conversations were recorded, they could easily be misconstrued."

Police Chief Clarence Webb of Santa Monica, father of Mrs. Vallee, said his daughter is under care of a physician and no one could talk to her. The chief himself declined discussion.

Vallee and the film actress his wife named in her separate maintenance action, were "married" here today, not only once but four times, as the crooner and Miss Alice Faye acted again and again their part in a motion picture.

THIS BRIDE PEEVED BECAUSE NOT LEFT WAITING AT CHURCH

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Guests at a church wedding two years ago in Oakland just found out today they missed the real drama of the situation.

Mrs. Marjorie V. Baker related in a court petition she hadn't wanted to marry Charles Rufus Baker anyway, but he pressed so hard she continued the engagement. Then, just before the wedding, she said she told him she could not go through with it, and it was arranged on his suggestion that he was to fail to appear at the church, Feb. 29, 1932.

As the organ played and she waited, momentarily expecting the "desertion" to become known, the account continued, the bridegroom suddenly appeared, bland and smiling.

"So surprised and shocked" she was, the petition said, that she went to the altar in "semi-dazed condition," all against her own best intention. And now she wants annulment.

SHIP BLOCKED BY ICE, BYRD HOPS INTO ANTARCTICA

ABOARD BYRD FLAGSHIP EN ROUTE TO LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 11.—[Delayed.]—[By Mackay Radio.]—(AP)—After his flagship had been blocked by ice, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd early today made his third flight into Antarctica and found ice covered ocean ahead. Bad weather conditions forced him to abandon, before the takeoff, his hope of flying to Little America and also cut short his flight of reconnaissance.

With three companions, the expedition leader flew roughly 150 miles south, taking off from open water at latitude 69 degrees, 50 minutes south, longitude 152 degrees, 21 minutes west. He turned back at latitude 71 degrees, 45 minutes south, 480 nautical miles from Little America.

"I saw no land," Admiral Byrd reported. "It is just ice covered ocean." To drive the ship ahead "would be taking a long risk," he added.

(A dispatch yesterday from the flagship said it was hoped a new passage into the Ross sea had been discovered. Whether the ship would continue along its present route in view of findings of the flight or turn back to pick another passage apparently had not been determined).

MRS. BLACKLIDGE ASKS LOVE RIVAL 22 QUESTIONS

Wife Must Reply Under Oath; Litsinger Named.

An interrogatory bill containing twenty-two questions concerning the home life of Norman Nottingham, patrol wagon driver at the Grand Crossing police station, was presented yesterday by Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, to Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, 35 years old, 7616 Langley avenue.

Mrs. Nottingham has a suit for $100,000 for alienation of affections pending against Mrs. Blacklidge, alleging that Mrs. Blacklidge stole the love of Nottingham early in 1932.

The interrogatory, presented yesterday to Mrs. Nottingham's attorney, Murphy O. Tate, is a legal form authorized under the new civil practice act to complete the pleadings in an action before it goes to trial. Under the ruling of Judge Irving L. Weaver of the Superior court made several days ago the questions must be answered under oath in writing by Mrs. Nottingham by next Monday. The case is set for trial on Jan. 22.

Here's List of Questions.

The questions in the interrogatory follow:

1. Did you separate from your husband subsequent to May 15, 1932? (This is the date on which Mrs. Nottingham alleges her husband's affections began to wane toward her.)
2. If so, state when and for how long.
3. Are you still separated from your husband?
4. Did you prepare your husband's meals and perform other household duties for him from May 15, 1932, to the present day?
5. Where are you now living?
6. Describe the house and how many bedrooms there are in it.

11. Do you own your own home?
12. If not, how much is the rent for the apartment or home and who pays the rent?
13. Do you know of any other women with whom your husband has gone out since you were married?
14. How did you happen to obtain the letters addressed to Norman O. Nottingham, 7502½ Maryland avenue, care of Frank Rossi, mailed June 30, 1932, July 4, and two on July 5, 1932?

20. Have you ever been in his office?
21. How many times?
22. Has he or any one connected with him or his organization ever given you any information used in the prosecution of this lawsuit?

First Mention of Litsinger.

The queries concerning Litsinger, former member of the board of review, bring his name into the case for the first time. Early in 1931 Mrs. Blacklidge was accused by Litsinger of having participated in a faro swindle at Springfield in which he lost $50,000. Mrs. Blacklidge has a suit pending against him, in which she charges he libeled her in his comments on the transaction.

The letters referred to in questions 14 to 18 are four love letters written by Mrs. Blacklidge, now in Mrs. Nottingham's possession. They were put into the court record last Wednesday after having been read and identified by Mrs. Blacklidge as being in her handwriting, although she refused to say that she had written them to Nottingham.

The group of questions referring to the present relationship between Mrs. Nottingham and her husband are based on Mrs. Nottingham's statement last Wednesday that she still is living in her husband's home. She asserted, however, that she is not living with him as his wife. She is the mother of a 6 year old daughter, Jeanette.

HARRY NEW'S JOB AS FAIR COMMISSIONER MAY GO TO ANOTHER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—With the decision for continuing A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago through next summer there were reports today that a change might be made by the administration in the United States commission.

Harry S. New of Indianapolis, former postmaster general, was appointed commissioner when the Chicago World's Fair centennial commission was made up after its authorization by congress.

The commission consists of the secretaries of state, agriculture and commerce. W. B. Causey of Chicago is assistant commissioner.

Indications here today were that New might be asked to resign and that the person to fill the place would be selected from Indiana.

Late Senator T. J. Walsh's Estate Is Valued at $18,269

Helena, Mont., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The estate of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is value at $18,269 in an inventory and appraisement filed today in District court. Property included in the appraiser's report consists of real estate, furniture, mining stock and United States government bonds. William Scallon, law partner of the senator, is administrator. Senator Walsh died last March, shortly before he was to have accepted the attorney generalship in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Acquit Couple of Evading Payment of Gasoline Taxes

Merton Davis and his wife, Ethel, 510 Poplar street, Waukegan, who operated the Trojan Oil company, now in receivership, were acquitted yesterday by a jury before Judge Ralph J. Dady in Waukegan, on an indictment charging them with evading payments of $6,500 state gasoline taxes. Davis and his wife testified the shortage was due to credit sales on which they delayed paying the tax until collections were made.

Bank Teller Gets a Year for $1,700 Embezzlement

William J. Karasek, 26 years old, 2745 South Menard avenue, former savings teller in Lawndale National bank, was sentenced to a year and a day in prison yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson after he entered a plea of guilty to embezzling $1,700 of the bank funds. According to Assistant District Attorney James C. Leaton, Karasek has repaid the money.

SENATE DEBATE ON WATERWAY TREATY OPENS

Forecast Repetition of Roosevelt Message.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Friends and foes of the St. Lawrence seaway joined in verbal battle today as the senate began its debate over ratification of the waterway treaty with Canada.

On behalf of the treaty's supporters Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] chairman of the foreign relations committee, opened with a lengthy argument, charging that the chief motive behind the opposition to the treaty lay in the selfishness of a backward railroad industry and of Atlantic seaboard port cities.

Countering him step by step, were senators from the middle west, who pointed out that there were other motives behind the opposition, chief among them a determination to defeat the treaty provisions internationalizing Lake Michigan and writing into an international agreement a limitation upon the diversion of water at Chicago, hitherto regarded as a purely domestic issue.

See Extended Debate.

The outlook tonight was for an extended debate, running into many days. The treaty must be laid aside to allow necessary legislative business to be disposed of. Some senators believed it might be necessary for the President to repeat his message urging ratification, if a final vote is to be achieved at this session.

There was continued talk that opponents of the treaty might be offered certain reservations in an effort to win over a sufficient number to insure the necessary two-thirds majority. Such reservations would be directed particularly at the diversion of water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois-Mississippi waterway and would promise in some fashion sufficient water for navigation via the lakes to gulf route. But through Senators James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], as chief spokesman, the opposition let it be known that they would not be beguiled by any offers unless they came with an official state department memorandum stating that they were acceptable to Canada.

Sallies Greet Speech.

The sallies of the treaty opponents were constant and pointed during Senator Pittman's entire speech. The foreign relations chairman had barely begun with a reference to the fact that from Wilson to Franklin D. Roosevelt every American President has favored the St. Lawrence development, when he was interrupted by Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.].

"There are millions of people in the United States who favor the general principle of developing the St. Lawrence seaway, but who are bitterly opposed to the pending treaty by reason of certain provisions in it," the Missouri senator declared.

There was a discussion of costs. Senator Pittman's declaration that the net cost of the waterway to the United States would be $182,726,250 was vigorously disputed, but was upheld on the other hand by Senators Arthur H. Vandenburg [Rep., Mich.] and Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], both of whom claimed that the estimates of the joint board of engineers might be undercut, due to lowered construction costs.

Recalls Canal Fight.

Senator Pittman likened the opposition of the railroads to their opposition of the Panama canal, but he was not allowed to develop his theme.

What effect would be had upon the Mississippi waterway? Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] wanted to know.

"The building of the seaway," Senator Pittman admitted, "would probably take some of the traffic from the northwest from the Mississippi route."

"There ought to be some provision in the treaty that the government, having already established the Chicago to gulf deep waterway, guarantees sufficient water to be diverted in order that the Mississippi project may be carried out," said Senator McKellar.

Lewis Gets In a Point.

Senator Pittman sought to say that Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice, who acted as special master in the lake levels case, had held that the 1,500 feet diversion was sufficient to care for the nine foot channel. But he was caught up by Senator Lewis.

"The Supreme court decision does not allude to the treaty or give it any construction as to water diversion whatsoever," said the Illinois senator. "The question of the right of the United States to divert water from Lake Michigan for navigation purposes was not before the court and it was thus specifically so held," Senator Clark chimed in.

"The statement should be firmly made," during this argument, Senator McKellar added, "that there shall be no question about the use of the necessary water from Lake Michigan which is entirely in American territory."

Lake Michigan in U. S.

Under questioning Senator Pittman admitted that Lake Michigan was exclusively in American sovereignty.

"There is no question but that we have exclusive sovereignty over Lake Michigan," he went on. "Nor is it any question but what Canada has exclusive sovereignty over the St. Lawrence river where it is exclusively within her borders. But when our government enters into an agreement with regard to water over which it has sovereignty in consideration of Canada entering into an agreement concerning waters over which she has sovereignty, then I say we are not surrendering our sovereignty."

Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] pointed out, however, that the trade was not an even one, since in the early days of the United States it was a rule of international law that in the case of a river flowing from this country into another both countries should have free use of the stream. Great Britain invoked a change in international law with reference to the St. Lawrence in order to deny American citizens the right of free navigation upon it, the Illinois senator explained.

Sticks to Views.

Senator Pittman agreed but still held to his point of view.

"There is no doubt in my opinion that we have the power to empty the great lakes into the Mississippi river," he said. "I don't know what Canada would do about it. We have that power just exactly as Canada has the power to stop us from going through her territory."

But it was not the wording of the treaty which created the chief opposition, the senator from Nevada maintained. He said no senator would have any objection to reservations protecting the rightful interests of the United States. The opposition sprang, he asserted, from the unwillingness of New York and other eastern interests to see navigation opened into the interior of the country via the St. Lawrence. Neither was the cost a primary consideration with this opposition, he maintained. Defeat of the project itself because of personal considerations was the true reason, he said. The senator admitted that New York and other eastern ports might lose some traffic, but such a loss was of less importance, he declared, than the benefit of lower freight rates to the producers of the interior of the country.

Assails Eastern Ports.

Referring to the opposition of the ports of Boston, New York, Baltimore, Norfolk, and New Orleans, Senator Pittman went on:

"These selfish seaports are doing everything in their power to prevent a reduction in the cost of shipment across the country and to foreign countries. And we have added to that the powerful railroad interests. These interests are not thinking of the interest of the shipper. Ninety per cent of the people are to be benefited by the building of the canal and ten per cent are opposing it.

"The railroads of this country do not realize that they cannot have traffic unless people can buy. The policy of the railroads is antiquated. Their selfishness has almost destroyed them; they are down to a point where they cannot exist without borrowing probably 400 million dollars from the federal government.

Criticizes Railroads.

Their only philosophy has been whenever mismanagement and antiquated methods were driving them to bankruptcy, to go to the interstate commerce commission and get an order to raise freight rates; and they have raised freight rates until shippers cannot ship and there is not any freight.

"If you want to have success in railroading the industry will have to be made modern. You cannot keep a man from using an airplane when he can cross the country in twenty-four hours while it takes him three days to go by rail."

PRESIDENT SAYS POWER IS HIS TO TAKE BANK GOLD

Denies Devaluation Is Imminent.

4. Establishment of a domestic gold market, possibly restricted to newly mined gold, scrap gold and any imported gold.

5. An open domestic market for silver.

6. Segregation of all gold in the treasury with closer government control over currency.

7. The shaping of legislative recommendations which would put into effect some of the steps contemplated and give the President unquestioned authority to carry out others, such as devaluation and the recapture of the gold profit from the reserve banks.

Central Bank Report Denied.

That the establishment of a central bank has been considered, the President emphatically denied with the comment that that would be the opposite of what Andrew Jackson, Democratic patron saint, did, Jackson having abolished the Bank of the United States.

That the treasury can obtain ten or more billions in short term paper is generally taken for granted; whether a long term bond issue or another conversion issue could be floated readily is not so certain. In any case, the administration means to avoid any failure in its financing.

To fall down on a bond issue and be forced to other means would be bad in every way, as the White House sees it. Hence there is much pondering of the problem.

Urged to Remove Uncertainty.

However, the President has been told with renewed emphasis that as long as monetary uncertainty prevails, the government will find it even more difficult and more expensive in interest rates to borrow, that the longer private capital remains timid and inactive the more the government will have to substitute for private investment in all sorts of refinancing and in stimulating new enterprise.

He has been urged to remove the uncertainty, not only for these reasons but on the theory that the revival of private capital enterprise would do more than all the gold buying or other monetary manipulation to promote real recovery and life the price level.

BURGLAR SEIZED; CONFESSES.

OCEAN SHIPPING LINES AIM NEW BLOW AT LAKES

Seek Economic Boycott on Middle West Trade.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Ocean rate tactics that threaten to drive salt water foreign trade from the great lakes ports of Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, and Cleveland, brought wrathful protest yesterday from shippers.

A salt water economic boycott on water to the south through the lakes to gulf waterway would be impaired Europe and England, lurks in the activities of the north Atlantic, United Kingdom, and continental conferences, according to the traffic experts.

As affairs stand, shippers point out, efforts appear to be coming from two directions to bottle up the great lakes ports from economic access to the sea. On one side, the ocean steamships, it is argued are apparently seeking to freeze out foreign trade sailing overseas from the great lakes by the St. Lawrence route.

Treaty Impairs Waterway.

On the other side, access to salt water to the south through the lake to gulf waterway, would be impaired should the senate ratify the pending St. Lawrence seaway treaty at Washington. The treaty, by limiting diversion for the Illinois waterway to 1,500 cubic feet a second after 1928, would lave the waterway with insufficient water for navigation.

At a meeting yesterday of the foreign trade committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, a campaign was launched to combat recent tariff schemes put forth by the ocean steamship lines. These are held to be tantamount to forcing middle west shippers to agree to ship nothing direct to the United Kingdom or Europe by the sea route from Chicago, Milwaukee, and other ports.

The committee, of which Charles E. Herrick of the Brennan Packing company, is chairman, urged manufacturers to refrain from signing ocean steamship conference contracts which would prohibit their using independent shipping services from the great lakes to overseas points.

Hits Nonconference Lines.

Ocean conference lines operating from north Atlantic and gulf ports in their 1934 contract rate agreement with freight shippers, have this year laid down a stipulation that the contract rate on freight, which is some 50 per cent lower in some cases than the regular or normal rate, will be granted only when a shipper agrees to send all his exports over conference steamship lines. If he ships one article via a nonconference water carrier, his rates on the rest of his foreign shipments are shoved up to the "normal rate." Direct lines from great lakes ports are rated as nonconference in character by the conference.

Mr. Herrick's committee submitted a report showing that in 1933, Chicago and other lake ports for the first time had the advantage of direct package freight shipping services direct to the United Kingdom and Europe. While in years past vessels have come into the Great Lakes from overseas and taken freight back, their cargoes have been almost wholly bulk traffic. Last year there were 18 scheduled sailings from Chicago and other ports direct to England and the continent.

Value Cargoes at 5 Million.

More than $5,000,000 of general merchandise left Chicago by water carrier for foreign markets in 1933. From Milwaukee the exports are placed at about $2,000,000 last year. The exports consisted of packing house products, automobiles, machinery, glucose, radios, refrigerators, typewriters, harvesting machinery, lumber, cereals, canned goods. Import cargoes included preserved fish, fertilizers, cod liver oil, sardines and poultry foods.

A statement from the Manufacturers' association sets forth that just as the manufacturing industries and commerce are showing hearty approval of THE TRIBUNE'S campaign to revive foreign trade and stimulate recovery and employment, the ocean steamship lines are trying to put up monopoly bars against midwest shippers.

U. S. TO REFUSE ENTRY TO FOREIGN GOODS BEARING BLUE EAGLE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Acting in response to reports that Japan is shipping canned tuna fish into this country bearing the NRA Blue Eagle, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today ordered all his customs collectors to refuse entry to any foreign goods bearing the American recovery emblem.

Meanwhile, the treasury received from Samuel Kuni & Sons of Chicago, the reputed consignees of the Japanese Blue Eagle tuna fish, a denial that they knew anything about the goods. The telegram to the treasury said the firm would refuse to accept delivery on any such shipment.

Treasury officials, however, were still disturbed because the consignment was to "Samuel Kunin" and the wire was signed "Samuel Kuni & Sons."

To further muddle the case the customs collector at Los Angeles, the port at which the fish was supposedly received, denied in a long distance phone conversation with the treasury any knowledge of the Blue Eagle fish. He promised to investigate.

TREATY FOES ON JOB

While the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, which spent more than $500,000 for propaganda, is lobbying at Washington in support of the Canadian waterway treaty, middle west opponents of the pact are not sleeping on the job, their spokesmen said yesterday.

Association of Commerce officials declared that the nine middle western governors reported in Washington dispatches as having joined the protreaty Tidewater association, all represented states whose legislatures, at one time or another, have indorsed the treaty and made appropriations toward its promotion. It was also pointed out that some of the senators of these states are actively opposed to ratification of the treaty.

The middle western forces leading the fight against ratification are headed by the Mississippi Valley association, whose membership embraces 21 states. Former Congressman Cleveland Newton, general counsel, and Lachlan Macleay, vice president and general manager of the association, are directing the anti-treaty campaign. Robert I. Randolph, president of the association, will go to Washington on Monday.

The opponents of the treaty contend that the clause limiting diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago surrenders this country's jurisdiction over that wholly domestic body. They point out that not only Lake Michigan but its entire drainage basin is wholly within the boundaries of the United States. They quote the Toronto Mail and Empire's statement that "the United States abandons its ancient contention that Lake Michigan is an American lake."

Aurora Resident Drowns While Crossing Fox River

Jacob Rockwell, 68 years old, 147 South Lake street, Aurora, was drowned yesterday when he broke through thin ice crossing the Fox river at Aurora. An effort made by George Ardelen and John Getz of Aurora to rescue Rockwell failed.

OUTER LINK MAY BE FINISHED BY NEXT NOVEMBER

Cannot Be Put in Use Till Spring of 1935.

The outer link bridge at the mouth of the Chicago river, for which the federal public works administration made a grant of $7,000,000 in easy money on Thursday, can be finished by November, but it cannot be used until late in the spring of 1935 because of the time required to build the boulevard connection to its south approach.

This was disclosed yesterday as Michael L. Igoe, south park commissioner, returned from Washington, where he had taken part in the negotiations for the PWA loan with Secretary of Interior Ickes and other officials.

Lacks Links with Loop.

Even after the completion of the bridge and its approaches, loop traffic will have no route to the outer drive between the present Monroe street viaduct over the Illinois Central tracks and Ohio street, a quarter of a mile north of the river. For this reason, President A. D. Plamondon of the Lincoln park board suggested that steps be taken immediately to extend Wacker drive from Michigan avenue east to the extension of Field boulevard, the outer drive approach to the south bridgehead.

This project will cost $1,000,000, to be paid by the city. The only alternative approach is over the partly completed Randolph street viaduct, and numerous factors make its completion in the near future unlikely.

The viaduct, which will cost $3,500,000 and which is not included in the present easy money grant, is a joint project of the Illinois Central railroad and the south park board. Not only are engineering details of the project still to be arranged, but it is a question whether the railroad has funds available for the work. Also, the pending proposal for a railroad passenger terminal at Randolph street and Michigan avenue complicates the viaduct situation.

Work May Start in a Month.

Work probably will start within a month on the outer link bridge itself. The caissons which form its foundation are already in, and only the superstructure, roadway and architectural stonework remain to be completed. Steel for the bridge is already fabricated, and L. McGuire, secretary of the Ketler-Elliott company, general contractors on the bridge, said that the company is ready to start work as soon as it receives word from the two park boards.

It will be necessary first, however, for the two boards to approve the PWA contract and issue the bonds which they are to give as security for the $5,205,000 o the easy money they must repay. The south park board will issue $3,716,000 of its general obligation bonds for this purpose, and the Lincoln park board the remaining $1,489,000.

15 Months for Boulevard Job.

The boulevard approaching the bridge from the south is the part of the project which will require the longest time—15 months—to complete. This will consist of a concrete highway on an earth fill extending Field boulevard from Monroe street north to the river bank, and from that point a steel and concrete viaduct 900 feet long running eastward to the south plaza of the bridge proper. This viaduct will be 47 feet above the lake level and will be of sufficient strength to support a mezzanine deck for truck traffic, and possibly to carry railroad tracks, to be built later at the option of the Illinois Central, at the expense of the railroad.

The Lincoln park board also has to let the contract for a bridge over Ogden slip, which the outer drive crosses north of the river, but President Plamondon said that this work could be done before the completion of the boulevard south of the river.

FORD FIRM LOST $45,000,000 IN BANKS, SAYS SON

Edsel Tells How Father Spurned U. S. Plea.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—On the eve of the Michigan bank collapse in February of last year Henry Ford turned a deaf ear to pleas emanating from the treasury department that he "freeze" his deposits in Detroit units of the Guardian Detroit Union group of banks. At the same time he refused also at the suggestion of treasury department officials that he advance more capital as part of a last minute program to bolster up the tottering Michigan bank structure.

When the crash came a few days later the Ford losses totaled about $63,200,000, all of which, with the exception of $18,708,000, was on deposit or represented loans, indorsements, or advances to the Guardian Detroit Union group units in Detroit.

Of the deposits $18,000,000 has since been recovered, leaving a loss, as of this date, of about $45,000,000 by Henry Ford, his son Edsel, and the Ford Motor company.

Improves as Witness.

Edsel B. Ford, who yesterday could remember hardly anything at all about the Michigan bank situation, particularly the troubles of the Guardian Detroit Union group of which he was from the inception a director, was a much more satisfying witness when recalled today by the senate banking and currency committee.

He recalled an invitation extended him in February, 1933, by Ogden L. Mills, then secretary of the treasury, to come to his office in Washington and talk matters over. Mr. Ford said he thought Mr. Mills had suggested the "freezing or subordination" of Ford deposits as a part of the plan to bolster the group units. A few days later Roy D. Chapin, then secretary of commerce, and Arthur A. Ballantine, who was undersecretary of the treasury, came to Detroit and urged the Fords to put additional capital into the group, and at the same time to subordinate Ford Motor company deposits.

Tells of Meeting.

"Mr. Ballantine was in Detroit on Monday, Feb. 13, 1933," said Mr. Ford, "and he called to see me with Mr. Roy D. Chapin, who was secretary of commerce at that time. They urged very energetically that we put up additional capital. This was to be in addition to what we had already done and we told Mr. Ballantine that we could go no further."

It was also disclosed by minutes of the RFC that Mr. Ballantine also saw Henry Ford in the matter of the "freezing" of about $7,500,000 which the Ford company had on deposit in the Union Guardian Trust company. He also talked over the capital advances which were to be applied to a mortgage company to be organized for the assembling of collateral necessary to obtain about 49 million dollars from the RFC.

Threatened Withdrawal.

According to the RFC minutes Mr. Ford told Mr. Ballantine that "he would not freeze deposits of the Ford Motor company in the Union Guardian Trust company nor would he put any money in the proposed mortgage company." Furthermore the minutes cited Mr. Ballantine as authority for the statement that Mr. Ford had declared his purpose "to withdraw the deposit of the Ford Motor company in the First National bank of Detroit, amounting to 25 million dollars, tomorrow morning." Edsel Ford explained that his father was in error as to the total of the deposit, which was, he said, $18,708,000 and not 25 million dollars. However, the money was not withdrawn for the reason that the banks did not open the next morning, which was Feb. 14, 1933, the date of the collapse.

"Is this a fairly correct statement of the attitude of your father, of yourself, or the Ford company, or of all concerned, as stated by Mr. Ballantine?" asked Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee, after reading the minutes to the witness.

Urged Like Treatment.

"There was," replied Mr. Ford, "a lot of discussion. Mr. Henry Ford felt that when he had the suggestion put to him, that additional cash capital be put up, that they were asking too much. He told them there would be no subordination of deposits or furnishing of additional capital. Then the discussion resolved around whether the Union Guardian should open up or not. I think they said the bank could not be opened and then discussion was had as to the opening of the First National bank. I think Mr. Henry Ford had the feeling that there might have been some desire on somebody's part to open the First National and at the same time not permit the Union Guardian to open. He thought they should both be treated alike in every instance."

"What, if anything," Mr. Pecora asked, "was said about the withdrawal of a deposit of $25,000,000 from the First National bank by the Ford Motor company?"

"Mr. Henry Ford," replied the witness, "made that statement. That is, he impressed upon Mr. Ballantine his feeling that the two banks should be treated alike. He was quite incensed over the way the thing turned out in the end. I mean this suggestion about a great amount of additional help after what we thought was a lot of help that had been given, help that we had given in the past, and so Mr. Henry Ford made that statement."

"And that," said Mr. Pecora, "was the end of the road at that time, wasn't it?"

"It was so far as Henry Ford was concerned," replied Mr. Ford.

The next day (Feb. 14) the Michigan banks closed, carrying with them more than $50,000,000 in Ford deposits.

"On yesterday," said Mr. Pecora, "you testified regarding a loan you made to the Guardian Detroit Union company of $1,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 in municipal securities. Now, did you or the Ford company make any other loans to either the Guardian Detroit Union group or any of its units?"

"The Guardian Detroit Union group," Mr. Ford replied, "made a loan at the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust of Chicago for $2,500,000, for which I was indorser. The Guardian group wanted to borrow some money and that was the method by which they went about doing it."

"What was the condition of the group at that time?" Mr. Pecora asked.

"The assets of members or units were being criticized."

Mr. Ford said the note was subsequently taken care of by the Ford Motor company. It has never been repaid, he added, by the group.

Alfred P. Leyburn, who was chief examiner for the Detroit area at the time of the collapse, and who was also recalled in the course of the day, declared that he was testifying of his own knowledge when he declared that in 1931 and 1932 the controller of the currency was instructed by "the higher command" not to "do anything to rock the boat and not to have any bank failures."

Hunted in Wilds of Canada

FAY BAKER.

On Plane Trip

Airplanes were continuing the search in Canadian wilds yesterday for Fay Baker, A Century of Progress fan dancer, and Pilot William May, whose plane disappeared on Monday while the couple was flying to Winnipeg from The Pas, a distance of 500 miles.

A rescue plane piloted by F. J. Crosby, head of the Aeromarine company, left Winnipeg yesterday morning to begin a thorough air search of the barren and frigid areas lying between the two Canadian cities, to the north and west of Winnipeg. Somewhere along this vast unsettled route the plane is believed to have been forced down by a heavy fog which has halted regular flying since the plane disappeared on Monday.

Miss Baker off the stage is Mary Nebel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Nebel of Watertown, Wis. At the close of the Fair she began a flying tour of Canada, to exhibit her fan dance. Her brother, Charles W. Nebel, 1244 North Dearborn street, left last night for Winnipeg to aid in the search.

EXPECT EX-COP TO AID STATE IN TRIAL OF TOUHYS

Captive Elects to Stay in Custody of Prosecutor.

William A. [Buck] Henrichsen, former county highway policeman and now known as a Touhy gangster, probably will take the witness stand for the state in the trial of four of the Touhy gangsters who are charged with the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator. This was indicated yesterday when a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Henrichsen, seized in a secret raid three days ago, was dismissed by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan in the Criminal court.

The indication that Henrichsen would turn state's evidence, a development said to be without precedent in trials involving major gangland figures, came after he had been questioned for two days by state's attorney's police. The gangster, whose benign appearance is not in keeping with his title of chief gunner for the Touhy gang, appeared in court yesterday surrounded by state's attorney's police.

In Custody of Prosecutor.

"This man desires to remain in custody of the state's attorney," Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley told the judge.

"Is that true?" Judge Finnegan asked, turning to Henrichsen.

"Yes, sir," Henrichsen replied.

"And furthermore," Assistant State's Attorney Crowley continued, "Henrichsen has not asked Attorney William Scott Stewart nor any one else to file a writ in his behalf."

A representative of Attorney Stewart agreed that the petition for the writ had been filed on the request of Henrichsen's wife. Judge Finnegan repeated his query as to Henrichsen's willingness to remain in custody.

"Yes, I am," Henrichsen answered.

"Tell them how you have been treated," Prosecutor Crowley prompted, nudging Henrichsen in the ribs.

Taken to Secret "Prison."

As soon as the writ was dismissed by the chief justice Henrichsen was led away to the secret place of incarceration, where he has been held since he was arrested in an apartment near Montrose and Kedzie avenues.

Outside the courtroom Assistant State's Attorney Courtney was asked if Henrichsen would be a state witness against the Touhy gangsters.

"We hope to use him as a state's witness," the prosecutor replied.

Roger Touhy, leader of the gang, and three of his henchmen have been ordered by Judge Michael Feinberg to be ready for trial next Tuesday. The other defendants are Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, Albert [Polly Nose] Kator, and Gustav [Gloomy Gus] Shafer.

Henrichsen, named in December by State's Attorney Courtney as one of four men said to be leaders of a gangfusion movement embracing members of four of the most notorious gangs in the central and western states, has been the subject of a widespread manhunt since that time.

Henrichsen was reported to have been present with other members of the gang at the place where Factor was held prisoner.

ECONOMY RIDER WINS IN HOUSE; REVOLT FADES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The house of representatives was its docile self again today, under full control of the administration after yesterday's splurge of defiance.

The bitterly contested economy rider to the independent offices appropriation bill, carrying President Roosevelt's economy plans for 1935, swept through to final passage by a vote of 240 to 141—a majority of 99, as compared with the scant margin of five ballots which saved the Democratic leadership from a licking yesterday on the gag rule covering the bill's consideration.

The attack on the economy rider centered about its continuation of two-thirds of the 15 per cent federal pay cut imposed last spring. In addition veterans advocates in the house opposed the independent offices bill itself for its failure to provide funds for restoring ex-soldiers' compensation cuts.

The Republican attack on the economy rider, together with the opposition of the veteran bloc, resulted in a stiff fight on the measure as a whole. Democratic leaders appeared concerned as the vote approached.

ALEX RANIERI.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed yesterday in the United States District court against Alex Ranieri, contractor and father of Billy Ranieri, central figure in the sensational kidnaping case more than five years ago. The petition was filed by Attorney M. J. Golden in behalf of the Royal Indemnity company and two other petitioning creditors with claims aggregating $75,000.

The petition said that Ranieri, who lives at 4901 Altgeld street, has assets of contractors' equipment valued at $10,000 to $15,000. Ranieri also has a disputed claim for $258,000 against the government for the building of government levees in Louisiana, the petition pointed out.

Billy Ranieri, 10 years old at the time of his abduction was seized while on his way home from school in the fall of 1928. He was held for 13 days and released when a demand for $60,000 ransom was not fulfilled. Angelo Petitti and Andrew Cappelano were arrested for the crime and sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary.

KANGAROO JUDGE BOUND TO JURY ON MOTOR CAR THEFT

Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court yesterday issued a warrant for "Judge" John Reada of the Kangaroo court in the county jail. The action was taken after Mathew Broda, 18 years old, 907 North Wood street, appeared in court with a battered nose.

"What happened to you?" the judge inquired.

"I was tried in the Kangaroo court like the rest of the newcomers," Broda explained, "and was fined $1.50. When I couldn't pay 'Judge' Reada worked out the fine on my nose."

Reada had left the county jail yesterday morning, it was learned, but was at once rearrested on another charge and taken to the detective bureau. Judge Graber issued a warrant for his arrest and ordered an investigation into the Kangaroo court.

Broda was held to the grand jury in bond of $2,500 on a charge of stealing an automobile from Steven Janowiak, 5733 Berenice avenue. Nine other defendants were held to the grand jury on charges of automobile theft.

"MACHINE GUN" M'GURN FACES LOSS OF HOME

Prosperous days are no more for Vincent Gebardi, alias "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, the golfing gunman who was arrested last summer as he was competing in the western open golf tournament at Olympia Fields.

A petition was filed in the Superior court yesterday by the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank requesting foreclosure of a mortgage on the Gebardi home at 1114 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park. It stated that the property was mortgaged with the bank for $23,000 on Feb. 28, 1932. In September of that year McGurn and his wife, Louise, paid $3,000 on the debt and the petition added that, with no further payments made, the sum now overdue is $7,000 plus interest.

The present market value of the property was given as $22,000. Appointment of a receiver was requested.

Washington Legislature Passes State Liquor Bill

Pope to Proclaim Healer in French Revolution a Saint

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Before thousands of Italian, French and other devouts in St. Peter's cathedral, Pope Pius next Sunday will solemnly declare Mother Thouret, heroic healer and educator of the French revolutionary period, a saint.

FAULTY APPLICATIONS DELAY DISTRIBUTION OF AUTO LICENSES

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special]—Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes announced today that failure of motor car owners to properly fill out applications for state motor licenses and certificates of title is causing delay in placing plates and certificates in the hands of applicants.

The car owners can speed up delivery by strict compliance with all provisions of the application form, the secretary said. He pointed out that applicants can expedite work of the office by enclosing last year's registration card, or in the event the car was transferred during the year, the transfer card issued to them. These cards, Mr. Hughes said, would constitute ample proof of ownership.

DISTILLERS WILL RAISE CORN PRICE TO AID FARMER

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The distillers of the country went on record today as willing to "go along" with the federal government and its liquor regulations, even to paying extra money for their materials so the farmer can benefit.

They accepted with but little modification a proposal of the agricultural adjustment administration for "parity payments" on distilling materials, which means payment to the AAA of large sums over and above the actual materials prices.

Dr. James Doran, supervisor of the Association of the Distilled Spirits Industry, explained that for a bushel of corn the distillers will pay 34.1 cents above the market price. Five cents is the processing tax and 29.1 cents the "parity payment" to protect the farmer.

43 STATE JOBS FOR EMERGENCY COUNCIL NAMED

John E. Cassidy of Peoria Illinois Director.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—State directors of the National Emergency council—who will wield great power as the provincial dictators of the new deal—were named today for 43 states.

As predicted in THE TRIBUNE on Jan. 4, the Illinois director is John E. Cassidy of Peoria, a young and little known but withal a well rated lawyer. Mr. Cassidy is 37 years old, of the Notre Dame class of '17. He was a second lieutenant in the A. E. F., one time claim attorney for the Ætna Life Insurance company in central Illinois, and is a Democrat.

Mr. Cassidy had a bit of a squeeze in getting the assignment, it was learned today. According to the stories related in the inner circles here, an effort to block the appointment was made by Vincent Dallman, the Springfield publisher and internal revenue collector for the southern Illinois district.

Delegate to Convention.

The charge was laid against Mr. Cassidy that as a delegate to the last national Democratic convention he had refused to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt, until Mr. Cermak and practically everybody else at the convention swung along with McAdoo and Garner onto the Roosevelt bandwagon.

Mr. Dallman, with other previous supporters of James Hamilton Lewis were for Roosevelt from the start of the convention, and Dallman thought that some of these old faithful should be given such a powerful post in the state as the directorship of the emergency council.

In this connection the information in Washington has been that Mr. Dallmann aspires to be the Roose-cratic boss in Illinois, and if this be true the first test of his power has not resulted auspiciously for him.

Try to Convince President.

The regular Democratic leaders in the state are not on the best footing with President Roosevelt it is known; first, because they shied away from him at the Democratic convention, and then because he has been freely advised from various sources that the Democratic leadership in Illinois is not all that it might be. Efforts of the regular leaders and their friends to convince the President otherwise have not dented his suspicions materially.

In the case of the Cassidy appointment, it is declared here to be nonpolitical, based upon his ability and his impartiality, as these virtues have been assessed by the Roosevelt managers here. The Peorian has been an assistant attorney for the Home Owners Loan corporation at the corporation's Peoria office, and is said to have made a good record there.

Neither Illinois senator sponsored Cassidy in the beginning, nor did either of them know him well, but both assented to the appointment.

Some May Be Republicans.

Frank C. Walker, executive secretary of the national emergency council, in announcing the names of the men appointed today, declared the appointments were decided upon without regard to political adherences. He said there may be Republicans on the list, but because most of them are not well known it was impossible to state their political affiliations.

In the list prepared by Mr. Walker, giving brief biographical sketches of the appointees, any political information which ordinarily might appear is carefully omitted. For instance, in the sketch of Mr. Cassidy, no mention is made that he was a delegates to the Democratic national convention, but it is recorded that he was "a representative from the state at large at the Illinois repeal convention, July, 1933."

One director easily identified as a Republican is Charles Edison, the New Jersey appointee, son of the late Thomas A. Edison.

Hughes Iowa Director.

The director for Iowa is John J. Hughes of Des Moines, who has been serving as chairman of the Iowa NRA state recovery board, and is general agent for Iowa of the Northwest Mutual Life Insurance company.

In Michigan the director is to be Edmund C. Shields of Lansing, an attorney and a member of the board of regents of the University of Michigan and a member of the state bar examining board.

No appointments were announced today for Wisconsin or Indiana, and in both cases, it is reported, political animosities have prevented an agreement on the candidates for the posts.

Offices of the directors in the Chicagoland states are as follows: Illinois, Chicago; Wisconsin, Madison; Indiana, Indianapolis; Iowa, Des Moines; and Michigan, Detroit.

Mr. Walker said that the principle duties of the directors will be to supervise the enforcement of and compliance with the regulations of the NRA and the AAA, and to set up bureaus for the dissemination of "factual information."

Manual Will Be Issued.

At the present time the plans for establishing the information bureaus are scarcely begun, the setup for the Washington office being the only one agreed upon. A manual is to be issued in a week or two, which Mr. Walker said would be a "concise epitome of facts" concerning the various emergency activities of the new deal.

Doctors Give Creosote For Chest Colds

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion, with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

SO. SIDE GROUPS OPPOSE WATER FILTER PROJECT

U. S. Loan Sought to Build Plant.

Opposition to the construction of a large water filtration plant on filled land off the lake shore at 67th street has developed among south side improvement associations, it was disclosed yesterday by South Park Commissioner Michael L. Igoe. A public hearing on the project will be held by the park board on Jan. 17.

The proposed filter plant, which would eliminate the phenol taint in the water from industrial waste of the Calumet district, would cost $22,400,000. Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt has been negotiating with federal public works officials recently to obtain a government loan for the project.

Igoe Insists on Hearing.

Mr. Igoe said he had not taken a definite stand in the matter, but he wanted all parties heard before the park board granted or denied the permission to construct the plant. The park board has jurisdiction over the lake shore at this point. In order to carry out the plan authority from the war department also would be required.

It was said that some of the south side improvement associations had proposed as an alternative that the plant be situated near the sanitary district pumping station at 39th street.

"I have had many complaints by letter and telephone," said Mr. Igoe. "Some people say that the plant would be an eyesore for members of the South Shore Country club a few blocks south of the proposed location."

PWA Financing Plan.

According to the present plan for financing the venture, the PWA would advance $5,600,000 as an outright cash gift for 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials. The remaining $16,800,000 would be in the form of a PWA loan secured by the city's water certificates.

Legislative action would be required if the loan were to be obtained, for the city is limited now to the issuance of $3,000,000 worth of certificates in any one year. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, also chief of the PWA, has made the condition that the city place the security for the full loan instead of advancing it to cover the money as it is used.

FIGHT PWA PLAN TO MANUFACTURE POSTAL FIXTURES

A protest against the government entering the field of private industry was voiced yesterday by the Iron League of Chicago, 228 North La Salle street, through its secretary, A. C. Preble.

The protest concerns the plan of the public works administration to establish a plant at Reedsville, W. Va., for the manufacture of postoffice equipment. The establishment of such a plant would seriously increase the distress in existing private plants, the Iron League asserts. All sections of the country are amply provided with factories to turn out the desired postoffice equipment, it is stated further, and are now operating at only 10 per cent capacity.

"As manufacturers," states the Iron League, "we protest against the government entering the business field as a competitor of established concerns, believing that this will not increase employment and that our employés are entitled to work. It is manifestly unfair to ask that these concerns, now operating at a loss, contribute through the payment of taxes to a competitor in their legitimate field."

New College Era

The era of the technological school has waned and the day of the liberal arts college which will teach sociological sciences is dawning under the new deal and the NRA, Dr. Wallace B. Fleming, president of Baker university of Baldwin, Kas., one of the oldest institutions of learning in the middle west, asserted last evening. He was addressing 100 alumni of the university at a dinner in the Embassy room of the Fred Harvey restaurant at 310 South Michigan avenue.

"In the days just past," said Dr. Fleming, "the discoveries of science and their application to industry and agriculture held the center of the stage. The problems of production, and to a large extent the problems of transportation, were solved. But some one forgot about the problem of distribution.

"This is the big problem before mankind today. It will take a training in sociology, in history, in psychology, for the rising leaders to solve this problem. Men must know what is in the mind of man. This is the part which Baker university has always played, even in times when its part was not in the center of the stage. The work being done in Baker and other small colleges of its type gives the small liberal arts college the biggest chance it ever had."

The dinner was part of the diamond jubilee celebration of the 75th anniversary of the school's founding.

FUGITIVE GANG KILLER SHOT BY EASTERN POLICE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Bruno Wicz and Victor Drauktenis, automobile larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Francis Allegretti.

Herbert Schoesling and Robert Bagley, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Neimeyer.

Michael De Stefano, 26 years old, who has been sought since he and William Madden killed Emil Onesta, 940 Polk street, on July 18, was wounded and captured yesterday by the police at Pittsburgh, Pa. He was fleeing after a holdup of a restaurant when he was fired on.

Onesta was an innocent victim of an underworld feud. De Stefano and Madden, the police learned, set out to kill Frank Lano, who had refused to contribute to a fund for Sam De Stefano, brother of Michael and a prisoner in the Waupun, Wis., prison. Their fire missed Lano, but struck Onesta, a bystander.

Shortly after the killing Madden was captured in Kansas City. He was later tried for murder and sentenced to life in prison. De Stefano's record shows that he is wanted here also for forfeiting bonds of $10,000, set after he was convicted of robbery in December, 1932.

RECOVER BODIES OF 23 VICTIMS IN ARGENTINE FLOOD

MENDOZA, Argentina, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Bodies of 23 persons drowned in yesterday's sudden flood were recovered today from the Mendoza river, which was known to hold other victims. Authorities said the death total might approach 40, the river subsided as suddenly as it had risen following upon thaws in the Andes and a cloudburst.

Five bridges of the trans-Andine railway were washed away. Shores of the river were strewn with dead live stock, household goods, and three trunks. The damages may reach $8,000,000.

10 Die in British Guiana.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Ten deaths were reported today as torrential rains continued to beat down on British Guiana. Damage was estimated in excess of $1,000,000.

CWA JOBS TAKE 55,441 FAMILIES OFF RELIEF ROLL

70,466 Still Receiving Help, Report Shows.

Furnishing of relief to 55,441 families was discontinued during the latter part of November and the month of December as a result of Civil Works Administration assignments to jobs, according to a report issued yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, Cook county relief administrator for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Figures showing the saving in money on relief costs as a result of the CWA program are to be released later.

The number of families receiving relief on Jan. 1, 1934, was 70,466, according to the report. During December a total of 121,765 families were given aid through the relief commission. These figures are not strictly comparable, Mr. Reynolds pointed out, because the December figure includes all persons who received relief at any time during that month and as a consequence is slightly higher than a figure that would be comparable with the number receiving relief as of Jan. 1.

20,479 on Welfare Rolls.

Of the total number of families to which relief has been discontinued as a result of CWA assignments, 34,962 were on the rolls of the unemployment relief service and 20,479 were receiving aid from the Cook county bureau of public welfare.

The bureau of public welfare provides mainly for families whose poverty is due to problems other than unemployment, and it now has more families on its rolls than the unemployment relief service. As of Jan. 1, 37,730 families were receiving relief from the bureau, while the unemployment relief service was furnishing aid to 32,736 families.

Two hundred women are busy sewing garments for families on relief in Cook county, as the result of a civil works project recently approved, Mr. Reynolds announced.

Another 150 to Get Jobs.

"Another 150 women will be similarly employed in the near future," he said. "The project was sponsored by the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, which has furnished a part of the material for this mass production of garments for the county's needy. Rent free space has been provided by the Chicago Home for the Friendless, 5099 South Vincennes avenue.

"Approximately 500,000 yards of material, including unbleached muslin, percales, ginghams, and flannelettes, are being used. The CWA is paying the wage cost. The women are being paid 50 cents an hour. Among the items made are sheets, pillowcases, school dresses for girls, house dresses for women, and layettes for infants. Approximately 4,000 families a day are being supplied with these items."

Utah Banker Named Aid to Secretary Morgenthau

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Senator E. D. Thomas [Dem., Utah] announced today that Marriner S. Eccles, Ogden, Utah, banker, has been appointed assistant to Secretary Morgenthau to serve as advisor on financial problems.

FORGAN URGES CONTRIBUTIONS TO RED CROSS

Lists Many Benefits to Community.

James B. Forgan Jr., chairman of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, said yesterday that Chicago has so far contributed only half its quota to the minimum requirements of the American Red Cross for the ensuing year. He issued an appeal for additional contributions.

"Chicago has for several years stood next to the lowest of all cities of the country in per capita contributions to the Red Cross," Mr. Forgan said. "This year the memberships and contributions received to date have been more inadequate than usual, despite the fact that the Chicago chapter is engaged in its greatest peacetime contribution to the welfare of the community.

Fund Must Originate Here.

"The poor response made thus far to the appeal in its recent roll call is unquestionably due to the incorrect impression that revenues are derived from the Community Fund and from the federal government. The fact is that the only funds available for continuance of the Red Cross' work in the Chicago chapter will be those monies contributed directly to the American Red Cross by private individuals and corporations.

"The Red Cross in its administration, conversion, and distribution of the United States farm board wheat last year expended more money in Chicago than Chicago has given the Red Cross in any recent year."

While distributing flour and clothing to Chicago families, Mr. Forgan said, the Red Cross has carried on its usual function and has provided assistance worth literally more than four million dollars to the relief needs of the community.

Services Are Manifold.

The Red Cross is now providing means and supervision for the employment of women in several CWA projects in addition to maintaining its regular services to disabled veterans, in disaster relief, Red Cross nursing, instruction on home hygiene, first aid and life saving, volunteer service of transcribing Braille for the blind, making hospital garments, clothing for the needy, and carrying on the Junior Red Cross work in the schools.

"We must therefore continue the appeal and urge that all who have not contributed do so at once," Mr. Forgan continued. "Checks may be made payable to the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, 616 South Michigan avenue.

Michigan Secretary of State Runs for Governor

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, has entered the lists as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor at next September's primary. As the sole Republican survivor among candidates for state office in November, 1932, and the spring, 1933, elections, Fitzgerald has been considered the outstanding figure in the party about whom a successful comeback campaign might be centered.

PANAMA SEEKS TO BUILD ROAD ALONG THE CANAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 12.—While enjoying trans-isthmian transportation by water, railroad and air, Panama has been unable to construct a highway owing to the clause in the 1867 concession granted by Colombia to the Panama railroad, which now is owned by the United States.

President Harmodio Arias today announced he is taking up the matter with Washington. He said that within a month after the clause is removed Panama will construct the 17 miles of road necessary to link Panama City with Colon.

United States army men here claim that the road will be of great assistance to the canal's defense.

Claims People Have No Voice in Matter.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

HSINKING [Changchun], Manchukuo, Jan. 12.—When young Henry Pu-yi is crowned emperor of this Japanese advised state on March 1 high government leaders said tonight, it will be by "divine will."

They said thousands of petitions from the people for the coronation of the present chief executive were not taken into consideration in the decision to make the 28 year old former "boy king" of China the ruler of Manchukuo.

Rather, the officials explained, the emperor, as in Japan, derives the right to rule from heaven, "of which he is the son."

Sends Pictures to King George.

They declared that Pu-yi "obtained sovereign virtue and won the confidence and popularity of the people by his wise and beneficent rule," since Manchukuo was founded two years ago in territory wrested by Japan out of Manchuria.

In view of the approaching coronation, Pu-yi recently sent three photographs of himself to King George of Great Britain.

One showed him in civilian attire; in a second he wore a golf suit, and in the third he was dressed in elaborate military uniform.

The pictures were sent through Sir Reginald Johnson, Pu-yi's former tutor, and were accompanied by a hearty New Year's message—likewise a gesture of courtesy.

Manchukuo to Be "Independent."

For weeks the elevation of Pu-yi to be monarch of this land has been rumored, but hitherto many of the details of the event, Japan's ultimate plans for Manchukuo, and the relationship of Emperor Pu-yi and Tokio have been clothed in great secrecy.

Indications today, however, seemed to exclude any question of Manchukuo's annexation to Japan, now or later, because Emperor Hirohito of Japan, following upon his government's withdrawal last year from the league of nations, solemnly declared that Manchukuo's independence must be respected.

Manchukuo's constitution will be patterned largely after Japan's and will require at least a year for completion. A new peerage will be created.

The coronation will be accomuanied by a general amnesty for prisoners.

No Foreigners Invited.

Gen. Hishikari, a prominent leader in the Japanese offensive in Manchuria, will represent the emperor of Japan at the ceremony.

No foreign delegates will be invited because no foreign country, except Japan, has recognized Manchukuo.

The elevation of the young man will be simple, but impressive. It will take place in Pu-yi's present modest residence, which is being renovated for the event.

Because the wearing of the traditional Manchu robes might suggest a revival of the old Manchu dynasty—of which Pu-yi is called the last member—he probably will wear civilian or field marshal's dress when he ascends the throne.

Plans Trip to Japan.

Afterward, he will review the army of Manchukuo in the capacity of supreme commander. Later he will give a state banquet for government officials, military leaders, and naval officers.

One of the most interesting ceremonies will occur when Pu-yi repairs to his ancestors' tombs in Mukden and informs the dead forbears of the enthronement.

Subsequently the new emperor will go to Japan to pay his respects to Hirohito.

JAPANESE BRAND WAR STORY AS "IRRESPONSIBLE"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—A staff officer of naval headquarters today characterized an article in the magazine Gendai, purporting to quote Vice Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, commander in chief of the navy, as implying a scheme of the United States and soviet Russia to surround Japan for military purposes, as an example of irresponsible stories recently appearing in Japanese periodicals.

The passage in the Gendai article which caused the disturbance said: "Behind the soviet-United States agreement there was, naturally, an economic reason, but we cannot imagine that the idea of the nations around Japan besieging us strategically also was not in their minds."

Foreign observers and several high Japanese officials regard Gendai as a sensational magazine. Moreover, it expressly stated in a foreword to the Suetsugu interview that responsibility for all statements was with the reporter and not with the admiral.

The article said Japan is preparing to defend itself against "what appears to be America's policy of hostilely encircling Japan by every possible means." Col. Lindbergh's flight to Japan in 1931 was alluded to as a possible example of spying, and so also was Harold Bromley's stay in Japan in 1930 during a projected flight to America.

TOKIO SENDS TWO DESTROYERS TO CHINA WAR ZONE

Nanking Regime Faces Fascist Menace.

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Two Japanese destroyers were under orders today to proceed to the coast of Fukien province, where Chinese rebels are fighting national government troops.

The destroyer Hokaze Maru is to enter the harbor of the rebel capital of Foochow, where a Japanese cruiser and destroyer already are stationed.

Another destroyer, the Akikasu Maru, is on its way to Amoy. The destroyer Tachikaze is now there and was ordered to proceed upriver.

There are thousands of Japanese residents in Fukien province.

Fascism Reaches China.

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Two leaders who a few months ago guided the destinies of the Nationalist government, but who now are on the outside looking in at a welter of intrigue and revolt, met today for a conference to which neutral observers attached unusual significance.

They are Dr. T. V. Soong, former vice president of China, finance minister, and a dominant force in the Nanking Nationalist régime, and Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, former governor of Manchuria and North China war lord. Marshal Chang was deposed as governor of Manchuria when Japan seized that area.

Both these men are ardent admirers of Fascism, and another plot was forecast against Chiang Kai-shek, the "iron man" of the Nationalist administration, who now has his hands full in suppressing the anti-Nationalist "people's independent government" in Fukien province.

How Movement Developed.

In the background of recent developments in southeastern Fukien province, "the breeding place of Chinese revolutions," several dovetailing facts were pointed out:

1. The resignation of Dr. Soong as finance minister in October was said to carry a foreboding of civil war.

2. The Fukien rebellion started a few weeks later.

3. The Fukien junta in a manifesto on Nov. 23 attacked the Nanking régime, "Japanese imperialism," Soong, and Chiang Kai-shek.

4. Dr. Soong, in a New Year's statement, declared that "the Chinese people hope that they, too, may get a new deal during 1934"—a reference to the American recovery program.

5. Marshal Chang returned from an 11 months' European trip as the Fukien rebellion was approaching a climax. His arrival in Shanghai was predicted as an important influence on developments in southern China.

Claim Foochow Is Isolated.

Soong's resignation brought to a head a long brewing revolt in southern China. Reliable reports at that time—verified by later developments—hazarded the possibility that Li Chai-sum would be set up as governor of Fukien and that Chiang would then be attacked.

Those reports also forecast that Dr. Soong would join the new Fukien régime and that all parties subsequently would compete for the support of prominent politicians.

Meanwhile, the exact situation in Fukien, where Nanking and rebel troops have engaged in bitter fighting for the last two weeks, was clouded by conflicting reports.

The Nationalists claimed they had isolated, after heavy bombardment of neighboring towns, the capital, Foochow. Other reports said that, Nanking's claims to the contrary, Kutien and Shuichow, cities less than 100 miles from Foochow, were still in rebel hands. Nanking leaders announced last week that both had fallen into Nationalist hands.

Resume Jury Selection in Hackett Trial Today

Efforts to complete the jury in the trial of Frank B. Souder and Gail Swolley, charged with the kidnaping of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, will be resumed this morning in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's court. Day long questioning of veniremen yesterday failed to fill the panel. Eight jurors have been selected. Judge Lynch said that he would order an examination today for Souder, who complained of stomach ailment, if his condition became worse.

Wife Divorces Gabel, 1933 U. of C. Mat Star

Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday granted Mrs. Estelle Gabel, 21 years old, 5436 Cornell avenue, a divorce in the Superior court from Carl Gabel, who was captain of the University of Chicago wrestling team last year. Mrs. Gabel charged that her husband turned from his own sport to boxing and struck her on several occasions. They were married last April following an elopement to Lake Geneva, Wis. She is the daughter of a Boston physician, and was graduated from Smith college.

AUSTRIA ARRESTS HOMEGUARD CHIEF AS NAZI PLOTTER

Cabinet Meets as New Crisis Stirs Nation.

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A new crisis in the government's struggles with Nazi terrorism was marked today when Fascist heimwehr headquarters officially announced that the home guard leader Count Johann Alberti had been caught negotiating with a Hitlerite chieftain.

Count Alberti, chief of the lower Austria heimwehr, immediately submitted his resignation, a communique said, when it was learned he had had dealings with Alfred E. Frauenfeld, a prominent Nazi.

Meanwhile, however, the excitement in government and political circles reached a boiling point.

Cabinet Is Agitated.

Members of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' cabinet hurriedly met in a session this evening, with the ministers unable to conceal their agitation.

Heimwehr leaders also had hastily met earlier in the day when the news leaked out that Count Alberti, who recently was mentioned in connection with the formation of a "Fascist front" of both home guardsmen and Nazis, had been arrested.

Prince Starhemberg, commander in chief of the heimwehr, Dollfus aid, and Nazi foe, announced that he was immediately launching an investigation into Nazi activities within his organization.

Count Is Released.

A half dozen others were arrested before nightfall, mostly in lower Austria. However, not only these men but Count Alberti himself was provisionally released later tonight.

It was expected that the chancellor will issue a statement dissolving all party organizations and attempting to unify pro-government forces into one closely knit "government front."

Vigorous efforts were made at first to keep the arrest of Count Alberti secret.

Dr. Fraunfeld himself and two other prominent Nazis were jailed under orders of Vice Chancellor Emil Fey, who yesterday was put in charge of police.

Frauenfeld was released from prison a few weeks ago in exchange for a Vienna detective who had been held in Munich on espionage charges.

Dear Mr. Olsen:
Following up our outstanding campaign of last year, Kelvinator has used the Chicago Tribune exclusively during 1933.
This again demonstrates the high place that the Tribune has won for itself through its dominance in the Chicago area.
Our success in this territory this year, as well as in the country as a whole, has been due, in large part, to well-planned and well-timed advertising and merchandising efforts.
In the Chicago territory, our business has shown a definite increase over that of last year. Our dominant campaign in the Tribune, with its dual effect upon our Dealers and the public, has measurably contributed toward making that increase in volume possible.

Kelvinator's Chicago Sales Push Steadily Ahead With the Aid of the Chicago Tribune

CAN IT REPEAT? That is an acid test of a sales plan. Kelvinator has proved that it is definitely on the right track in Chicago, by increasing in 1933 the splendid sales volume built in 1932.

In 1932 Kelvinator put the greater share of its Chicago advertising appropriation in a smashing campaign of full pages in color in the Chicago Tribune. On January 4, 1933, Kelvinator wrote that this 1932 Tribune campaign had "won instant response throughout the entire Chicago market." The 1933 campaign accordingly was based on the results of 1932. During 1933 the Tribune was the only Chicago newspaper to carry any Kelvinator advertising.

And again, as set out in the letter above, Kelvinator writes that the campaign has demonstrated "the high place that the Tribune has won for itself through its dominance in the Chicago area."

In concentrating its Chicago advertising in the Tribune, Kelvinator again calls attention to the increasing trend of leading national advertisers and the great majority of Chicago's prominent retail establishments towards the Tribune.

In planning your 1934 campaign, be sure that you take advantage of the helpful market data a Tribune representative is ready to place at your command. Consult him now. Simply write or wire.

WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

CARROZZO STILL TAKING TRIBUTE FROM CWA MEN

U. S. Prosecutor Probing Fraud Charges.

As U. S. District Attorney Green yesterday prepared to delve into evidence of civil works administration irregularities placed before him by special federal agents, a survey revealed that agents for Michael Carrozzo, head of the street laborers' union, were still exacting tribute of $1 a month from CWA workers on the streets of Chicago.

Cassio Tambrino, business agent for the Carrozzo union, was observed collecting the dollar fee from workers in the 31st ward. He gave no receipts in return for his collections and finally one laborer, angry at his importunities, threatened the business agent with an ax. Tambrino was accompanied on his rounds by Joseph H. Levenson, 2635 West Congress street, a city employé, who is a section foreman in the ward.

Quizzed by U. S. Agents.

Tambrino was questioned by Federal Investigators S. Norman Moe and Joseph Sweeney several days ago concerning his activities in intimidating workers into paying $1 a month for the privilege of working for the civil works administration set up by President Roosevelt to relieve unemployment. He denied at that time that he had threatened the workers.

Tambrino passed among the 500 or more workers on Evergreen avenue, between Spaulding and Homan avenues, without interruption from the foremen or supervisors. He stopped the laborers and told them that they should pay $1 for a "permit card" from the street laborers' union.

Among those from whom he collected $1 were William Jungers, 1951 Osgood street; Dennis Hassett, 2656 North Halsted street, and Thomas Johnson, 2131 Neenah avenue.

Threatens to Wield Ax.

Hassett, a war veteran, who was cited for bravery, demanded a receipt for his dollar and when Tambrino refused to give him one he threatened the union agent with his ax.

"A dollar is big dough to me," said Hassett. "I was out of a job and now that I've got one the first thing happens is some guy trying to collect from me."

William Gundlach, 5502 Minerva avenue, and William Harder, 2319 North Kenneth avenue, supervisor and timekeepers respectively in charge of the project, also said they resented Tambrino's activities, but considered themselves helpless to stop him.

Questioned on Collections.

When Tambrino and his companion, Levenson, were questioned about their collections, Tambrino told the investigators:

"We don't pull no rough stuff. If they want to join, they can. We ain't going to clout anybody. We are nice, decent people about it. We got these workers' wages raised from 50 cents to 75 cents an hour and they ought to be glad to pay $1 for that service."

With nearly 10,000 CWA workers engaged in repairing Chicago's streets, the collection of $1 a month from each worker would mean an additional income of $10,000 a month flowing into Carrozzo's union, it was pointed out. This angle is being investigated by the federal agents.

Displays Union Card.

Tambrino displayed his card which carried his name and the legend: "Business agent, street sweepers, cleaners, municipal vehicle tax workers, Local 361; asphalt, plant, street repair, section and dump foremen, Local 750; office address, room 707, 100 North La Salle street." Tambrino was formerly a city inspector. He was accused of operating a confidence game in October, 1921, in connection with his promises to fix a speeding case, but the charge was dismissed.

U. S. Attorney Green said yesterday that evidence in three or four cases had been presented to him and that in one or two cases, a fraud on the government was indicated. The government is conducting the investigation because it supplies the funds with which CWA workers are paid.

Prosecutor Green instructed his first assistant, Leo J. Hassenauer, to take charge of the assembling of evidence. Hassenauer was told to study the reports of Moe and Sweeney with a view to determining whether the matter should be presented to the grand jury.

Booze Sold to CWA Men.

Evidence was offered in Municipal Judge Alfred O. Ericson's court yesterday to show that wine and whisky were being openly peddled to CWA workers on the job at five cents a drink.

Edward J. Guinan, 34 years old, 5248 Melrose street, a CWA street laborer, was fined $50 by the judge on a charge of assault and battery. George Knopp, 4925 Augusta boulevard, testified that he saw that Guinan was intoxicated and tried to help him across a street. Guinan turned upon him and beat him, Knoff declared.

Questioned by the court, Guinan said that he got his liquor from numerous men and women who sold drinks at five cents each to the CWA workers in the vicinity of Belmont and Cicero avenues.

Leo Franke, 32 years old, 613 Center street, another CWA laborer, also was arraigned before Judge Erickson on a charge of drunkenness. He said that he found it impossible to remain sober with many men and women offering to sell him drinks cheaply as he was at work. He was fined $25. Both men were unable to pay their fines and were sent to the Bridewell to work them out.

Leaves to Return Truant Son Captured in Missouri

ICKES ASSISTANT SHARPLY ASSAILS POWER INDUSTRY

Denounces Code Filed by Institute.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—A denunciation of the private power industry and its ruling elements for "unsocial conduct" and "nefarious practices" was given to the recovery administration tonight by a spokesman for Secretary Ickes, who joined the federal power commission in challenging the right of the administration to entertain codes for public utilities.

The verbal castigation, directed expressly at the Edison Electric institute, proponent of the power code, and successor to what was called "The Malodorous National Electric Light association," was delivered by Henry B. Hunt, on behalf of Ickes, at a hearing on the electric pact.

So vehemently did he phrase it that John E. Zimmerman, president of United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia asked the chairman to stop him. This was not done, however, since Hunt was a public representative. He insisted his statements were "factural" and borne out by the record of the federal trade commission power investigation.

Assail Motives of Code.

Both Hunt and Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the power commission, assailed many provisions of the code as either intentional attemps or unguarded opportunities for the institute to seize much of the regulatory power over the industry now held by the United States and the several states, and designed to weaken the government and municipally-operated power properties.

Their chief contention, however, was that the industrial act authorized codes only for non-monopolistic industries; that public utilities were rightly monopolistic in character, and that, therefore, the only thing the administration should do was obtain an agreement to improve hours and wages of the power employés.

A further onslaught on the code was made by spokesmen for workers of the New York Edison company, who charged that concern with creating a company union to suppress collective bargaining.

Code Presented by Arkwright.

The code had been presented this morning by Preston S. Arkwright, an Atlanta, Ga., utility man, who is chairman of the Edison institute code committee.

He and others explaned the code in detail and defended its provisions. Outstanding clauses were: That publicly owned plants be given opportunity to join the code voluntarily, and that wherever such a company or any other competitor failed to adopt code terms the competing private company could drop them.

That a national survey looking to a ten year plan of rationalizing the industry be made jointly by private and public interests under the code.

That "public interest" requires sale of electric appliances by utility companies, and that the power code authority have a degree of joint supervision over trade practices in this with the retail code authority.

Provisions Are Assailed.

All three were assailed vigorously. McNinch said the phrasing of the code was such as actually to attempt to compel the public owned utilities to come under the code and submit them to regulation by a code authority so constituted as to be wholly in the control of the large holding companies which hold a majority of the places on the board of the Edison institute.

He said the purpose was obviously "to check the development of public enterprises and nullify the administration's plan of establishing 'yard...icks' to measure the fairness of utility rates and services and extending the benefits of electrification to rural areas."

Hunt said the interior department and Public Works Administration, both under Ickes, had a huge stake in the power business. Public Works has financed $11,000,000 worth of municipal power systems and has applications for $35,000,000 more.

Hunt said that under the Edison institute the code would be used as an instrument "further to despoil the public."

He demanded that if a code were put through it should require control of the holding companies for regulation of their "unsocial practices"; that the hours should be shortened to 30 and wages increased to a level of "decency and comfort," which he said the industry was amply able to afford and that it should make it impossible for the institute to "control the industry and continue the nefarious practices disclosed by the federal trade commission."

Call It Accident

A new story of the fatal shooting last Tuesday of Peter Stacey, 24 years old, 2103 Erie street, a student barber, was told to the police yesterday by Miss Betty Crescenzo, 18 years old, 1045 Lawrence avenue, and Miss Mary Lou Ostrowsky, 18 years old, 5040 North Albany avenue. The girls said they were in a barber shop at 2208 West Grand avenue when Stacey shot himself accidentally in a quarrel over a gun with Steve Gasior, who lives in the rear of the barber shop.

According to the girls, Mrs. June Eckman, 6309 South Ashland avenue, 24 years old, wife of a convict, and Tony Grippo, Stacey, and Philip Angelo, 21 years old, 2146 Emerson avenue, accompanied them to several saloons. The party stopped at the barber shop where Stacey and Gasior quarreled over the possession of a revolver seized from a drawer. Stacey accidentally discharged the gun and fell wounded. All of the party fled except Grippo, Angelo, and Mrs. Eckman, who took Stacey to a hospital, where he died.

The plice last night, though disbelieving the story of the shooting, began a search for the men of the party.

$1,188,582 FOR CALUMET RIVER JOBS APPROVED

Dispatches from Washington yesterday asserted that Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, has formally approved two contracts amounting to $1,188,582 for the improvement of the Calumet river and Calumet harbor. The dredgers are expected to begin work immediately, deepening the average depth of the harbor from its present sounding, which ranges from 15 to 20 feet, to 27 feet.

One of the contracts, amounting to $487,162, was let to the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, for work in the outer harbor and the harbor entrance. The other contract, for $701,420, was let to the Fitzsimons and Connell Dredge and Dock company for work in the inner harbor, the river entrance, and for a short distance up the river. In all, the dredging will be carried on over an area of several hundred acres.

300 GO TO WORK HERE MONDAY ON BUSINESS CENSUS

Findings to Provide Index on New Deal.

The census of American business, which was authorized by the last congress to make work for the white collar jobless and to ascertain how business is faring under the New Deal, will begin in Chicago and Cook county next Monday. In adjacent Lake, Du Page, Kane, and McHenry counties, the work has already begun. The census is intended to cover every community in the United States and be finished within a month.

Chicago has been divided into three sections for the purpose of the census. The first district covers all territory north of Fullerton avenue, the second includes the area from Fullerton avenue to the Chicago river, and the third all territory south of the river to the city limits.

300 Unemployed Get Jobs.

Three hundred unemployed of the so-called white collar class have been picked from the roster of CWA applicants and drilled for the job. Herbert L. Rockhill of the bureau of census, department of commerce, who is supervisor for Chicago and vicinity, estimates that 70,000 establishments will be covered in the city alone.

The census, for which congress appropriated $1,600,000, calls for a canvass of every wholesale, retail, service, and amusement establisment in the United States. In Chicago, Mr. Rockhill said, it is contemplated to include even such establishments as newsstands and shine parlors.

Each census taker, or enumerator, as they are technically known, will be held responsible for a given precinct. His pay will be on a piece work basis, the rate being 30 cents for each census schedule filled out. Mr. Rockhill estimates that each enumerator should be able to secure 61 schedules in a 39 hour week, bringing the weekly minimum pay to $18.33. Supervisors have been instructed to discharge all enumerators who fail to produce a 61 schedule quota. Mr. Rockhill estimates the Chicago census will cost $30,000.

Thorough Business Index.

The schedule to be presented to proprietors of the establishments to be canvassed is a single page form, containing eight questions. The questions call for an accurate description of the business itself, the kind of merchandise or service offered, the principal functions performed, the employment given men and women in 1933, with part and full time specified, salaries or wages paid the employés, other operating expenses incurred, net sales or receipts of the business, stocks on hand at last inventory, and amount of credit business done.

From the nature of the question, it will be seen that the census will not only afford the government an index of business conditions under the NRA, but also will afford a check of how employés are observing their respective codes. All information supplied will be held in strict confidence, however, the department of commerce avers.

Aid to Business Planning.

"Through the basic data to be supplied, business men should be able to make comparative studies for future planning," a press release from the department states. "This may lead to greater efficiency in operating methods and policies. Now that collective action is made possible by the NRA, trade associations can plan the activities of their respective groups not on 'hunches,' but on the basis of facts."

Two other federal census projects are already afoot. The bureau of census is canvassing factories and producing plants by mail to cover the same ground the enumerators are expected to cover among wholesalers and retailers. A census of population is also under way, in Chicago and elsewhere.

Sister of Shortridge Will Run for Governor

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, sister of former United States Senator Samuel Shortridge, today announced herself a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of California. She stated also that she would run as an independent if she did not get the nomination.

Iowa Farm Brings $225 an Acre, $14,625 Cash

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Joe Lenicek's 65 acre improved farm was sold today to Louis Meisa at $225 an acre. The $14,625 deal was in cash. Lenicek in turn bought a 127 acre tract at $150 an acre for cash.

BURNED TO DEATH

Richard L. Stewart, 30 years old, who has been chief auditor for the Stevens and La Salle hotels since June, 1932, was found burned to death yesterday in a bed in his room at the Shore apartment hotel, 7458 Kingston avenue.

Investigation convinced the Grand Crossing police that Stewart had fallen asleep while smoking and that the bed and mattress had caught fire from his dropped cigaret. Beside the bed was an open volume of an encyclopedia.

Stewart was appointed auditor for the hotels by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. It was said his accounts were all in order.

FRENCH CHAMBER CLEARS CABINET IN BOND SCANDAL

Premier Pledges to Probe Pawnshop's Collapse.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies tonight gave Premier Camille Chautemps a smashing vote of confidence, 360 against 229, on his pledge to clean up the 60 million dollar Bayonne pawnshop scandal which has shaken France to the roots.

The vote came on the government's opposition to the creation of a parliamentary commission to investigate the collapse of the institution, the death of its founder, Serge (Handsome Alex) Stavisky, and the part several deputies have accused high officials of taking in the affair.

Wins Second Vote of Confidence.

A second expression of confidence, 376 against 205, was given on a resolution of faith in Chautemps' promises to investigate the scandal "personally" and "sparing no names." The latter resolution was offered by former Premier Edouard Herriot.

Herriot was the chief defender of the cabinet during what the premier called a "battle of mud," resulting from the Stavisky swindle. Herriot said he spoke as chief of the radical Socialists and head of the "Lyons pawnshop which is now functioning perfectly."

With Stavisky dead, one deputy arrested, and another likely to be arrested, Chautemps now was free to push the investigation and fix the responsibilities for the bond scandal.

The two day battle in the chamber of deputies was held behind doors barricaded against rioting royalists and youths, who have been calling the deputies "thieves" and gendarmes "assassains" because of the scandal. Thousands of police and mounted guards paraded the streets tonight in a pouring rain which prevented repetition of serious clashes.

Harsh Epithets Flung.

In the chamber a bitter debate turned in favor of Premier Chautemps when the mild mannered head of the cabinet in a vigorous speech pledged himself to clean up the scandal. He denied allegations of governmental and police corruption, but admitted there had been wide-spread looseness and "rusty functioning" of various services.

The deputies flung hard epithets back and forth across the semi-circle as ghosts of a decade of scandals were dragged into the argument. Former Premier Andre Tardieu, winding up the attack, shouted "liars" at critics who attempted to connect him with dubious deals.

The government was still faced with heavy difficulties which menaced its life, in interpellations on the Lagny train disaster at Christmas time, and the 1934 budget.

Threats of a dictatorship earlier today stirred the chamber. The premier himself warned that the royalist riots over the pawnshop scandal pointed to a threatened coup d'état to establish a "directory."

Boo, Bang Desks, and Shout.

The chamber was unexpectedly adjourned this afternoon by its president in the midst of boos, desk-banging, and shouts that followed the declarations of Deputy Jean Ybarnegaray that "unless the country were cleaned up quickly" it faced a dictatorship and that "the police assassinated" Stavisky to protect officials alleged to have had a part in the pawnshop failure.

Chautemps heatedly denied the charge. Waving his arms excitedly he protested, amid pandemonium, that the mysterious underground financier killed himself last Monday when secret service men tracked him to a hideout in Chamonix at the foot of the French Alps.

Premier Tells of "Coup."

The premier's trump card, however, was the assertion that a coup was prepared several days ago to put the government in the hands of a directory of a few "energetic" men.

"Tracts were prepared demanding that France confide its destiny to a directory of a few men," he said.

Mme. Stavisky, meanwhile, criticized authorities for delaying in getting medical attention for her husband, but said "there is no doubt that my husband shot himself. That is evident from the letter he left."

BALBO GOES TO POST IN AFRICA

AIR MARSHAL ITALO BALBO.

BALBO HEALS RIFT WITH DUCE; OFF TO AFRICA TODAY

Aims to Develop Italian Colony.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 12.—Italo Balbo, Italy's unique air marshal, and his famous beard, which singularized him last summer in Chicago, will leave Mussoliniland tomorrow to take over his new job as governor of Libya, Italy's handy North African province. Grandiose receptions, according to tonight's newspapers, await him there.

Balbo's rift with his boss, Premier Mussolini, which added spice to last summer's famous air expedition to Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition, apparently is ended and Balbo will land at Tripoli on Monday. He will travel on the Alberto di Giussano, one of Italy's new cruisers, and will be escorted by another cruiser.

Plan Display of Pomp.

The picturesque native troops of Libya will be marshaled in force and all Italian officials will be on hand to pay respects to the new governor with a display of pomp.

Balbo in taking possession of the Libyan governorship leaves the ministry of air, which he headed for seven or eight years. Premier Mussolini has taken over the air ministry, with Gen. Valle, noted Italian airman, as his undersecretary.

Reported differences between Balbo and his chief are said to have been completely healed. It is pointed out that at the last grand Fascist council meeting, of which Balbo remains a member, the bearded airman was outspoken in his praise of Il Duce and said Italy was lucky to have such a leader.

Balbo Faces Big Job.

Balbo, who is just 37 years old, replaces Marshal Pietro Badoglio as Libyan governor. While a new line of activity, it will be a job with an opening for him, for Mussolini wants to make Africa in time an outlet for Italian emigration and that same granary which it was during the days of imperial Rome.

Balbo will keep up his interest in aviation, even though he is just governor of the sandy North African coast. Col Stefano Cagna, his pilot on the crusade to Chicago, is accompanying him to Africa.

FRANCE IS "PAINED" BY U. S. SENATE'S BLOW AT DEBT DEFAULTERS

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The United States senate's vote yesterday to prohibit Americans from buying bonds of debt defaulting nations made "a painful impression" on French government circles today.

Officials were represented as hopeful that the house of representatives would vote against the bill.

Poland Points to Trade.

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Polish official sources declined to comment today on the action of the United States senate in passing a bill which would prohibit American investments in the bonds of debt defaulting nations.

Financial circles, although cautious in comment until they know the reaction of other European countries, pointed out that Poland buys 10 to 12 times as much from the United States as it exports there and that, therefore, it was doubtful whether the senate's bill would become a law.

They emphasized that Poland meets all American obligations except the war debts and that at present two large financial transactions with America are pending. These are the purchase of $15,000,000 of American cotton and the investment of American capital in the electrification of central Poland.

Belgium Silent on Message.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Belgian foreign office officials declined today to discuss the passage by the United States senate of a bill which would prohibit Americans from buying bonds of debt defaulting nations.

CANADA DELAYS INSULL RULING UNTIL MONDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 12.—Judgment in the habeas corpus appeal of Martin J. Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities operator, against the extradition order of Justice Arthur C. Kingstone was deferred until Monday by Justice Charles Garrow here today.

Announcement of the postponement was made following a conference in the judge's chambers between Justice Garrow, J. C. McRuer, counsel for Insull, and Edward Bayly, deputy attorney general for Ontario, who is acting for the state of Illinois in its attempt to have Insull returned to Chicago for trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement.

Inquiries as to the implication of the unexpected postponement were met by the insistent reply, "It is merely a matter of convenience for the counsel." Insull, it was stated, was in Toronto at the time of the conference in the judge's rooms. He was not present, however, in the corridors or the courts of Osgoode hall.

ROOSEVELT HAILS PACIFIC FLIGHT OF NAVAL AIRMEN

Showers of Praise Pour Upon 30 Heroes.

HONOLULU, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Showers of praise, including a congratulatory message from President Roosevelt, poured today upon Flight Squadron No. 10 of the United States navy for its precision flight over 2,400 miles of the Pacific from San Francisco to Honolulu.

Refreshed by a long sleep and officially on duty with the air base personnel of the fleet, the thirty men who landed here yesterday to complete the longest overseas mass flight in aviation history were reported in good health and equally good spirits.

President Congratulates Flyers.

The message of President Roosevelt, addressed to Lieutenant Commander Knefler McGinnis, who was in charge of the flight, said:

"Heartiest congratulations to you and all associates with you in preparing for and successful completion of the greatest undertaking of its kind in the history of aviation, the formation flight from San Francisco to Honolulu, Hawaii, a magnificent accomplishment."

The six big planes which made the ocean jump are to have a complete overhauling according to regulations, and officers said they probably would be ready for duty again by Monday.

How much farther the squadron could have flown on its gasoline supply remained a matter of speculation. It is announced fuel consumption figures were of military importance. Officers declined to discuss the question.

Other Messages Pour In.

The only inkling of the possible reach of the squadron was dropped yesterday by McGinnis when he said the group could have continued on to Midway island, some 1,200 miles west and slightly north of Honolulu.

Besides the President's message there were congratulations also from Henry L. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy; Admiral H. Standley, chief of naval operations, and Admiral David A. Sellers, commander in chief of the United States fleet.

Commander Wayne Tod, in charge of the fleet air base here, announced advance base maneuvers for all squadrons at Pearl Harbor with the exception of the one which arrived yesterday, would start near the end of the month. The squadron from the mainland did semi-annual base work at Coco Solo, Panama, before flying from there to San Diego, Cal., several weeks ago.

Planes participating in the base work will visit outlying islands for a ten day period, operating with aircraft tenders.

Italy Expresses Admiration.

ROME, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The American navy's mass flight to Honolulu brought expressions of admiration today from the Italian air ministry and high officers.

They were unanimous in congratulating the United States on the feat, which they said they considered one of the outstanding recent proofs of the progress of aviation and an indication of the preponderant part airplanes would play in warfare.

Not Surprising Flight: Japan.

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The United States navy's Honolulu flight was not surprising in view of recent developments in aviation, said a Japanese navy office spokesman today.

"It shows what increased powers this development has placed at the disposition of mankind," he said. "It remains to be seen whether these powers will be used beneficently or destructively."

GERMAN PRINCE BEHIND IN TAXES; LAND TO TENANTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Unable to pay the millions of marks he owes the government in taxes, Hans Henri XV., prince of Pless, today agreed to give vast stretches of his enormous estates in Silesia, near the Polish border, to 500 of his tenants. The government will make them hereditary farmers and will credit the Pless account with 2,000,000 gold marks (about $750,000).

It is believed this action will start a new era in German agriculture, since the lauded aristocracy is heavily indebted to the state. The junkers revolted against former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening when he attempted to force them pay the money they owed the government or sell part of their estates. Their action led to the rise of Hitlerism.

Now the Nazis, whom the junkers aided to ascend to power in order to save their estates, are compelling the junkers to pay their debts to the state. The prince of Pless explained he was in arrears in taxes because he spent large sums to save German property on Polish territory.

Meanwhile the cabinet decided to reduce the tax on fortunes, inheritances, and real estate to "adapt them to the present day value of holdings." It is hoped the tax reductions will help increase business activity.

French Destroyer Rams Another in War Game

TOULON, France, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The French destroyer Basque entered this port today with a hole in its stern received during exercises yesterday. The destroyer Fougueux rammed the Basque but was not damaged itself. Nobody was hurt.

Gran Chaco War On Again; Bolivia Claims Victory

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A communique issued by the Bolivian government today confirmed the progress of renewed warfare with Paraguay in the Gran Chaco. The communique claimed the Bolivians had repulsed Paraguayan attacks in the West Platinillos region.

GUNMEN ROB DRUG STORE.

Four gunmen entered the Liggett Drug store at 1201 Wilson avenue about noon yesterday and after locking the manager, Everett Judewine, and a customer, in the basement, fled with $130 from the store safe.

RUSSIAN FLYERS HUNTING NEW AIR ROUTE TO OCEAN

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 12.—The riddle of the mysterious airplanes that almost nightly for two weeks have been flying across the northernmost parts of Sweden and Norway to the Atlantic coast is believed to have been solved by a Finnish expert.

He discards the popular theory of "ghost aviators" engaged in smuggling liquors and drugs on a large scale. He asserts the aviators are Russians who have been intrusted with the task of exploring a new and important air route between Russia and the Atlantic in order to enable Russia in case of war to maintain connections with western Europe and America.

According to the Finnish expert, the Czarist Russian government during the world war was anxious to establish such a route, but failed. He suggests that the proposed Russian route lies between Leningrad, Archangel, Murmansk, and the Atlantic, and that the Russians possibly have stationed a mother ship in arctic waters. That would explain why the aviators are never seen landing in Scandinavian territory.

FASCISTS CLASH WITH RADICALS IN BRUSSELS; 6 HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 12.—Six persons, including an army officer, were wounded by flying bricks and thirty persons were arrested when Fascists clashed with left wing forces in the heart of Brussels tonight. Deputy Spaak of the Socialist party was among those arrested. Strong police forces on horseback and motorcycles still were patrolling the downtown districts at a late hour.

The trouble started late in the afternoon when automobiles arrived in the city with young Fascists from Antwerp, Liege, Verviers and other provincial cities for a public demonstration against the reinstatement of officials accused of trafficking with the Germans during the war.

The protest meeting was attacked by young Socialists and communists. They used bricks, bottles and clubs as weapons. The police struggled nearly two hours to separate the battling factions. The mayor of Brussels directed the police operations personally. Several police were struck by bricks in the historic Grand' Place.

Salvador Volcano "Afire"; Throws Out Black Lava

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Jan. 12.—(AP)—After a month of apparent calm the volcano of Izalco, known as the "lighthouse of El Salvador," became active again today. The volcano threw out a stream of black lava, and to the inhabitants of the town of Izalco, a few miles away, it appeared as if the mountain were covered with fire.

GUILTY OF RAPING STEPDAUGHTER; GETS 99 YEARS

Lawrence Fogg, 32 years old, was found guilty and sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary yesterday on a charge of raping his stepdaughter. A jury in Judge Walter P. Steffen's Criminal court fixed this unusually severe penalty for this class of crime after only 10 minutes of deliberation. A motion for a new trial will be decided Wednesday.

Fogg, who has had three wives, attempted to escape prosecution by making the 13 year old girl, who is about to become a mother, his fourth wife. He had a marriage ceremony performed on Oct. 20 by a west side colored minister after he had obtained a marriage license by falsely giving her age as 21 years.

Fogg's first wife was Elizabeth Herdilu of St. Louis. He obtained a divorce from her. His second wife was Hazel Wilhelm, daughter of a St. Louis policeman. He did not take the trouble to divorce her before marrying Sophie Karas, a telegrapher, on Feb. 9, 1930. While the last wife was at work Fogg, it is alleged, forcibly attacked the daughter, then 12 years old. Without obtaining a divorce he then went through a marriage ceremony with the daughter last October.

TODAY PONTIAC ANNOUNCES

A BIGGER SMOOTHER, FASTER STRAIGHT 8

featuring KNEE-ACTION WHEELS

As Pontiac front wheels pass over bumps, they rise and fall—just as a man raises and lowers his foot by flexing his knee. "Knee-Action" absorbs the shocks—the car glides smoothly along.

GET A STRAIGHT EIGHT FOR YOUR MONEY!

GET A STRAIGHT 8 because

1 You can get a big, roomy Pontiac Straight Eight at a price that is very little more than that of the very cheapest cars. The smart, new Fisher bodies are finer and more spacious. The improved Straight Eight engine gives you greater power and speed—full 84 horsepower and a top speed of 82 actual miles an hour!

2 Here is a car that gives you the inherent smoothness, the flexibility and the luxury of Straight Eight transportation at a price that compares favorably with the prices of many cars with less to offer in cylinders, performance and size. The new Pontiac, remember, is definitely in the low-price field!

3 Last year's famous Pontiac was known as the Economy Straight Eight because its fuel costs were well in line with those of sixes. Today's Pontiac, thanks to further refinements in its Straight Eight engine, gives you more miles to the gallon by a good 10 per cent. A big, powerful car with remarkable economy!

4 The trend today is toward Straight Eights. The Pontiac Straight Eight for 1934 will depreciate more slowly, and all evidence indicates a higher resale value "at the end of the road," just because it is a Straight Eight. Another important reason why this great, new Pontiac is such a wise investment!

5 If your present car will make the down payment on a car of cheaper make, it will probably make the down payment on a big, new Pontiac. Your monthly payments, in any case, will be but a few dollars more. Why wait? See and drive the big, new Pontiac today. Get a Straight Eight for your money!

THE FLIGHT TO HAWAII.

The record breaking mass flight of six navy planes from San Francisco to Honolulu must be regarded as an important demonstration of the possibilities of defending our Pacific bases against a surprise attack. In this connection, the statement of Lieutenant Commander Kneller McGinnis, who commanded the flight, that the planes had enough gasoline left to carry them to Midway island, 1,200 miles farther west and north, is of first importance.

What worries our naval staff, perhaps above all else, is that some time when the battle fleet is concentrated in the Atlantic the locks at Panama will be destroyed and at the same moment a hostile fleet will move on the Philippines and Hawaii. Under those circumstances the defense of our bases in the Pacific would be extremely difficult. Many weeks would be lost in repairing the canal or in rounding the Horn, during which our Pacific bases could be blockaded and invested and might fall before overwhelming force.

While the flight to Hawaii does not entirely remove this menace, it does, at any rate, mitigate it somewhat. If we could not reinforce our bases by sea, we could strengthen their air defenses, especially if an adequate store of bombs were maintained on the islands. No one can say with much certainty how effective even the most modern of bombing planes may be against battleships, but it seems pretty clear that the bomber ought to be at its best in attacking a blockading fleet or transports unloading troops.

If our planes now can make Hawaii in a day, without much difficulty, it may not be long before they can reach Manila in a single hop from the American mainland. If this expectation is somewhat exaggerated, it is still true that the speed and cruising radius of the airplane will increase much more rapidly than that of surface ships. Accordingly, the menace of a sudden dash by sea upon our bases is likely to be minimized as time goes on.

There is, as yet, no reason to think that a fleet of airplanes can defeat a fleet of battleships; but if the air fleet can stave off the landing of enemy troops and otherwise protect our bases until the battle fleet arrives, our position will be greatly strengthened. That is the promise which is held forth by the flight to Hawaii and the lesson is not likely to be lost upon potential enemies.

PROFESSIONAL AND AMATEUR.

Chicago's professional football champions, the Bears, are touring the south and west coast regions for a series of games. They play Sunday in Los Angeles against an improvised California team of former college stars. Something of a rumpus has been kicked up by the efforts of the California pros to pick up a few University of Southern California players.

Where professional football has made itself secure, in the midwest and the east, most of these troubles have all been ironed out. The sensitiveness which prevails in certain amateur sports regarding relations with professionals has always seemed to have more sentimentality than logic, to be unworthy rather than worthy. So long as the amateur is honestly an amateur and the professional is honestly a professional, the argument against competition between them is a feeble one unless it is frankly the argument that the professional is too good. Amateurs might be excused from meeting professionals on that ground, but when ethics is brought into it the matter becomes rather silly and it nearly always acts to the detriment of the amateur game.

Golf, with its open tournaments, has not had a tenth of the troubles in which tennis has wallowed because of the old Tory fussiness of its controlling authorities. When the sensible people in tennis break down the barriers keeping the professionals from meeting the amateurs, the amateurs will be the better for it. The chances are that this break may come sooner than expected.

The Northwestern university baseball team was allowed to play the Chicago Cubs last summer and played very creditably against the professionals. There is no good reason why the same liberty should not be granted football players if cause or occasion for a game between a college and a professional team arose. General interest is frequently the best of reasons for a game. Amateurism refines itself into at least a part of its troubles.

MONEY FOR THE OUTER DRIVE.

Not many of the projects for regional improvement given public works funds in Washington contain so much merit as the Chicago outer drive bridge, which has at last been allotted seven million dollars by Mr. Ickes, secretary of the interior. In all respects this improvement stands on honest feet. The security for such portion of the allotment as is regarded a loan is as good as the government could obtain. The need for the improvement is great and the advantages can be quickly realized both in the matter of employment and in general profit to the community.

Unfortunately, the work had to be stopped just when there was great need that it should be pushed to completion. Probably no other single advantage now within reach and attainable within a short time can give so much relief to Chicago traffic. The delay in recognizing the qualities of this public works project was never explicably reasonable.

"HITLERIZING CONGRESS."

A new rule adopted by a majority of five votes in the national house of representatives abrogates the right of members to offer amendments to the economy provisions of the appropriation bills. Although the rule had a close call, the house members have deprived themselves of a substantial part of their rights in the system of representative government and, to that extent, they have deprived their constituents of representation. The step is toward Moscow, Rome and Berlin, where representative government has been wholly or virtually abolished.

The purpose, it is true, is to keep congressional groups from log rolling together against governmental economies. Purposes may be sufficient for their day. Congressmen are not lacking who see that thus they approach the status of puppets, but the opposition, although strong, did not prevail. It may be disquieting to concede, but it would be blind not to perceive, that the principles of the New Deal are in conflict with the system of representative government. That is why Europe has seen the downfall of parliamentary government.

The planned society will not, if it can prevent it, submit to be checked in what the administration intends to do by what the legislative branch wants to do. The pressure against the legislative function of government, to restrict, limit or abrogate legislative authority, is inevitable. In Europe it has proved to be irresistible.

One member of the house said that the rule "Hitlerized congress." The intimation must be accepted.

FRENCH NEWSPAPERS IN DANGER.

The Bayonne pawnshop fraud, with its sixty-one million dollar swindle, has the French government and public on the ear. The principal perpetrator, Stavisky, is dead from bullet wounds. Cynics say he didn't fire two bullets into his own head. They suspect the police of wiping out a dangerous man who knew too much for the peace of mind of many important persons.

The direct losers in the scandal are naturally furious. Many of the newspapers are making the best of it politically. It is a good incitement to rioting in circles where rioting is popular, and both the police and public officials are sitting over the fire.

In all this commotion the anxious members of the chamber of deputies, including Premier Chautemps, turn with what seems to be a primitive governmental instinct to thoughts of suppressing the newspapers. Some qualities of French journalism are not admirable, but the press has been free to comment. It is at times venal and at times unreliable, but its faults have been those of men and not of law. The prime minister, confronted with consequences not wholly perceivable as yet, comforts the chamber of deputies by saying that he will present a new press law to remove cases of libel against government officials from the jurisdiction of juries and bring them before correctional judges. The French libel law is sufficient protection, apparently, for the individual citizen, but is not so regarded when a government official is involved. No doubt the French politicians, legislators and administrators find something to envy in the control exercised elsewhere in continental Europe, particularly in Germany and Italy, where criticism of a government policy, act, or personage would mean a concentration camp or a prison for the writer and probable suspension for the periodical.

Neither Hitler nor Mussolini will stand for opposition, and any real expression of opinion antagonistic to government in Russia would bring down on the critic at least the fate of Trotzky, if nothing more. The French government, dismayed by the possibilities of the Bayonne scandal, probably would regard these repressive laws as blessings it would be glad to share.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT TO THINK OF GERMANY!

[New York Herald Tribune.]

The greatest obstacle in the way of an unbiased view of what is going on in Germany is undoubtedly that country's censored press. For the sole reason that the Nazi régime has so closely edited all domestic publicity that no comment unfavorable to the government, to the National Socialist party or to any individual that enjoys its patronage is allowed to appear, the press of the whole non-German world is devoted to the exploitation of every item of gossip as well as every item of news unfavorable to the Nazi régime. This is a human perversity which the censors of the dictatorial régimes ought to anticipate but never do.

If there were an element of the German press that was allowed to express opposition to Hitlerism and to make as much as it could of movements against the Nazi party and schisms within it there would certainly be some division of printed opinion throughout the world upon the merits and demerits of Hitlerism. The rumors of schism would then be appraised, even in France, in a detached and judicial spirit. We should then know how much or how little to make of such stories as are now coming to us of the bitter and destructive feud between Dr. Goebbels and Capt. Goering, in which the French would have us see every radical faction in Germany being secretly marshaled against the heavy industries and capitalists in preparation for a war that will leave Adolf Hitler on a high but isolated hummock, an impotent and foolish onlooker.

If Germany had a free press we should know much better what to make of the European yarns about the resurrection of the Hindenburg following and about the consolidation of its influence within the reichswehr and the Steel Helmets. If the monarchist group were permitted to air its aspirations in the public print the outside world would be able to put an objective appraisal upon the rumor that there is to be a Hohenzollern president when Hindenburg dies, and that Hitler is then to be the instrument of a restoration, while Goering and Goebbels are both to go into exile and obscurity. As things are under the censorship and with the entire German press dedicated perforce to Chancellor Hitler's conception of a nationalistic metempsychosis, what is there for each and all of Germany's doubtful and suspicious neighbors to do but make the most of each and every unfavorable story, to the constant detriment of Germany's moral and economic credit?

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"U. S. CALM Over Reported Threats of Japan to Land Army in California."—Headline. And why should not the U. S. be calm in such a case? If the Japs take over California they'll have Senator Hiram Johnson on their hands, and Senator Hiram makes so much noise he'll keep the Jap army up every night. And with the Japs holding California the U. S. won't have to unload such great gobs of easy money out there, and the other states can get more than just a smell now and then. And, besides, if the Japs say they don't like the climate every man, woman, and child in the state will rise up and chase 'em into the Pacific ocean.

"SIX THOUSAND BATTLE at Courtroom to Hear Wynekoop Case."—Headline. Is it nice that we have nothing more to do than to besiege a courtroom to see a poor old woman being tried for her life? So then we have no worries about jobs, income taxes, mortgages, unemployment, food relief, clothes from the county and charity bureaus, the tremendous deficit of the government, shoes for the baby, rising cost of everything. No, nothing to worry about; the angels will take care of us. And if the angels go to sleep on the job then the CWA will do the trick. Whoops, my dear, let's go rubber at Mrs. Wynekoop.

EDWARD DE BROOKLYN REYNOLDS.

AND JAPAN SAYS that the resuming of friendly relations between the U. S. A. and the Soviet republics means that Americans and the Reds will fight shoulder to shoulder to crush Japan. I hope it isn't true, because I would hate to fight shoulder to shoulder with the Ruskies. They always take my mind off the battle, because I can't help looking at the caviar in their whiskers. Fragments of caviar in the whiskers gives me a pain in the neck, but it's fascinating. I just can't help looking at it.

AN OPEN-FACED LETTER TO MY BOOTLEGGER. Dear Max: I feel that, although you are now languishing in jail because you were caught just before repeal with your 16 cylinder auto filled with Scotch and rye, I have nothing whatsoever to say about the justice of your incarceration in prison, for, as we Americans know full well, it is a crime to be found out and shows gross carelessness and a measure of stupidity. But as a bootlegger, Max, you have often been harshly spoken of, while I have noticed several times of late that the stuff you used to bootleg to me was much better in quality than what I buy now. I wish to quote from an item published yesterday from Washington regarding the testing of likkers now on sale to the public by Secretary Morgenthau.

Read this paragraph carefully: "The liquor was sampled at the invitation of the secretary and it was decided that the old bootleg was superior to the new whisky." And, though you sit in a dungeon cell, Max, you should cheer up. And I want to say that I apologize. The hair oil, red pepper, bay rum, and kerosene that I used to think I tasted in the whisky you sold me were of a much higher grade than the kind I now believe I notice in the whisky I buy at the liquor stores. If I must drink hair oil, bay rum, and kerosene I much prefer the highest grade in those articles instead of the cheap kind. I simply loathe drinking cheap kerosene especially.

Highly refined kerosene, with the raw taste taken out, of course, is quite a different thing, and I want to say right now, Max, that I think you bought the very best grade of kerosene, as well as bay rum, red pepper, and hair oil. Sorry you weren't at large when we had the milk strike. The milkiegger that I bought milk and cream from put too much powdered chalk in it, and I simply hate powdered chalk in my coffee. Believe me, Max, yours truly.

POESY.

A triolet a ring;
But a dainty little lyric
Is a flower that can sing.

MARJORIE F. W.

THERE IS MUCH EXCITEMENT in Washington over the report that the Japanese are shipping us great quantities of canned tuna bearing the sacred eagle and the mystic letters of the NRA. The Japs are great copyists. I remember when I was in Japan during the quarrel between the Japanese emperor and the late czar of Russia I ordered a case of a well known brand of American whisky for our mess in Tokio. But after we got it home we noticed with sorrow that while the imitation tax stamps of the U. S. government were exceedingly well done the trademark of the firm supposed to have manufactured the whisky bore the legend "Bootled in Bond." And as we believed that the American firm bottle their whisky while in bond and never, or at least very seldom, bootle it, we were constrained to admit that the Japs had slipped one over on us.

AND MY GREAT OBJECTION to a war with Japan is that I may have to go to the front again to sell cigarets and lollypops to the soldiers and get bawled out by the regular army colonels for not having my hat on straight. And I'm going to hang that silly hat over my left ear; I don't care how many army officers bawl me out. R. H. L.

X-RAYING DIABETES.

It may be that we have found, or are on the point of finding, a way to cure diabetes. Using the language of childhood on the playground and in the adventure called hiding the switch, we appear to be getting "hot." The insulin treatment of diabetes was a very great advance over the simple dietetic treatment, just as that treatment in turn was a great advance over what preceded it.

But the combination of insulin treatment with proper dieting leaves much to be desired. Physicians generally regard it as a crutch and not as a cure. By making use of it consistently and persistently the patient is kept in a fair state of nutrition, has good working capacity, is comfortable, and should be happy; and his life is greatly prolonged. But he is not cured. The few cures, using the word properly, that have resulted from this treatment are not important. Physicians are nearly of one opinion that, invaluable remedy as it is in caring for the diabetic, it leaves us under the necessity of searching further for a cure.

Dr. J. H. Hutton thinks we may find one in treatment of the pituitary gland and the adrenals. We are to continue using insulin and dieting as we are now doing. In addition, he suggests that the pituitary be treated by proper dosage of X-rays. There may be a proper place also for the use of X-rays in proper doses over the adrenals. In course of time we may find some pituitary extract that will have the desired effect on the pituitary and through it on diabetes.

He has used a combination of X-raying the pituitary and treatment by insulin and by dieting in handling a considerable number of cases of diabetes with better results than by any other method employed.

The theory on which this treatment is based is that there is normally a balance between the pancreas, the anterior pituitary, and the adrenals. Under the control of this balance the digestive apparatus and the machinery of absorption, on the one hand, and the pancreas and the other machinery of destruction, on the other, keep the level of blood sugar just where it needs to be kept. If these three organs get out of balance either the blood sugar rises or it falls until severe symptoms of sugar hunger result.

Of these three organs the master is the anterior pituitary. Our old treatment of diabetes was aimed solely at repairing the deficiencies of the pancreas. This was done by giving insulin to help it out and by dieting to lessen its load. The Hutton theory is that it is even more important to go after the pituitary and the adrenals—one or both—but without stopping the help that is being given the pancreas.

In his presentation he cites many illustrations of relationship between pituitary disorders and diabetes and quotes a case reported by Cushing in which X-raying the pituitary cured a glycosuria as a side product not anticipated. He considers that the combination of methods should eventually cure such cases of diabetes as are not due to tumors or advanced organic disease.

A NIGHTLY BATH.

C. B. writes: I take a moderately warm bath every night. I am rather thin and I have heard many people say that bathing so often is not good. Does it keep the weight down, or is there any other physical harm in it?

REPLY.

A daily bath does not keep the weight down, nor is it harmful in any other way. Some think it is a waste of soap, water, heat, and time; but those are economic rather than health questions. However, there is no code, nor does it come under the NRA.

IRON IN WATER.

Mrs. W. A. R. writes: My mother-in-law lives in an old farmhouse where, for drinking and cooking water, she is supplied by a well which has a pump in the kitchen. The water has considerable visible iron rust in it. Is this harmful to the system, and if so why? Is it accumulative in the system?

REPLY.

Iron rust in water is harmless. It passes through the digestive tract unabsorbed. While iron in considerable excess is somewhat poisonous there is no need to worry in this case. Is the well water otherwise all right? Old wells very close to houses contain polluted water occasionally.

EITHER TIME ALL RIGHT.

Mrs. E. J. M. writes:

1. When is the proper time to take tomato juice and grape juice—before meals or after and how long before?

2. Are these juices good for anemic people?

REPLY.

1. The custom is to eat them with meals. Generally breakfast starts with some fruit or juice. Dinner often ends with a fruit. There is no difference from the health standpoint.

2. They are used especially as scurvy preventives. However, they are quite effective in certain forms of anemia.

SALES TAX.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I gave a contract amounting to $450 to a large retail mail order concern to install a hot water heating plant in my home, which equipment replaced a furnace. The labor, cost of material, installation, etc., were included in the contract. This concern sublet the contract for installation to another firm and the former supplied the material. I am now in receipt of a bill of $10 and some cents to cover the state tax charges on the material used. 2. My understanding of this tax law was that it did not apply to any material on contracts involving building labor, etc. Is this correct?

J. J. F.

1. Where the contract was made on a definite figure with no mention of the tax, the other party is not entitled to compel you to pay the tax as an additional item.

2. The applicability of the tax to the entire transaction would depend on whether the transaction was a sale or not. You do not give us the facts on this point.

PREFERRED CLAIM.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—One year ago I purchased a cashier's check at a bank for a certain sum, paying 10 cents fee. This check was to pay premium on life insurance. In less than one hour this bank closed. To date I have not received a cent from the bank and I had to make the check good. I noticed that they have paid some so-called preferred claims. Would I come under this class of claims?

L. H.

Section 13 of the act on deposit and collection of checks makes such claims preferred. Take the matter up with the receiver. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COURT ORDERS.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My home has been put in the hands of receivers before foreclosure. 1. A court order was sent to the house at 7 o'clock p. m. the night before the case was to come up in court. I was out of town and the notice was handed to a visitor of my son. Before I could be reached and get back to town and down to court the case was over. 2. Is that legal? 3. Can a lawyer in such cases have the receiver vacated? J. S.

1. There is no general requirement that court orders must be served in order to be valid. Apparently it was some other document that was being served in your case. We cannot advise to advantage without having a more accurate statement of your facts.

2. It seems probable that the requisite legal steps were taken.

3. See preceding answers.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia.—Repeating their action of a year ago, the soviet Russian council of the people's commissars has published a decree permitting the peasants of six Russian provinces to sell their grain freely on the open market.

The decree mentions that the population of the Tartar republic, the Bashkir republic, Crimea, and Azerbaidshan, and also the peasants of the Moscow and Leningrad districts, have delivered the stipulated quantities of grain to the government. Accordingly, permission has been granted for the members of the collectivized farms and also the few remaining individual farmers to sell their grain privately.

The government expects this decree to give additional incentive to the peasants of other districts to hurry their grain collections. In the Siberian provinces, where a severe cold spell has made work in the fields impossible, and in the regions of Transcaucasia grain collections are still incomplete.

The Leningrad Krasnaija Gazette published an announcement that the prices of bread sold in the government stores have been decreased. Whole wheat bread will hereafter be sold for 3.50 rubles a kilogram instead of 4 rubles, rye bread has been reduced from 3 rubles to 2.50 rubles, and the cheap, fermented black bread, which is the staple article of food, will hereafter cost 2 rubles instead of 2.50 rubles a kilogram. These prices, according to the paper, apply to bread sold without the necessity of presenting the Japanese emperor and the late czar of Russia I ordered a case of a well known brand of American whisky for our mess in Tokio. But after we got it home we noticed with sorrow that while the imitation tax stamps of the U. S. government were exceedingly well done the trademark of the firm supposed to have manufactured the whisky bore the legend "Bootled in Bond." And as we believed that the American firm bottle their whisky while in bond and never, or at least very seldom, bootle it, we were constrained to admit that the Japs had slipped one over on us.

The paper also mentions that the tea ration will amount to 25 grams for each person holding a card. A kilogram of meat has also been promised to each person entitled to a ration.

A Latvian sailer who has arrived in Riga from Leningrad gives an interesting account of the life of the Leningrad stevedores. These, he reports, are divided in three categories. To the first belong members of the communist party and workers employed in the harbor for several years. In the second group are workers without special privileges, and the third consists of peasants who arrived in the city seeking work during the winter months.

Workers of the first category receive 1 kilogram of bread daily, those in the second receive 800 grams and the third 500 grams. Each workman is supposed to receive 3 kilograms of beef monthly, but instead of meat they generally receive bones, which they use to make soup. They also receive 12 kilograms of potatoes, which are often frozen before they are distributed, and 3 kilograms of groats and a small piece of fat.

The harbor workers, the Latvian reports, are housed in poorly heated barracks and sanitary facilities are poor.

WIDOWS IN CONGRESS.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Of the many unbelievably asinine trends in present day American politics, one of the most asinine is the increasing practice of electing the widow of a member of congress to his place in that body without any regard to her fitness. This is not an argument against women in congress, but being a congressman's widow should not be, as it is in most cases, her only qualification.

Why should a congressman's widow be given his seat any more than a bank president, a railroad president or an officer or director of any of our large industrial corporations, or, to bring it down to date, a university president or professor, should be succeeded by his widow regardless of her fitness for the duties of the office? If we're going to run our government on a purely sentimental basis, why not change the constitution so that upon the death of the President his widow, instead of the Vice President, shall succeed him?

Of course, in some instances we may not be any worse off, but isn't the practice a reflection on the importance of at least trying to fill these offices with some one who is capable and qualified?

G. H. VAN CLEVE.

FOR WOMANLY WOMEN.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—I think it is about time to crack down on these dames who are clamoring for less womanhood and license to ignore common decency. I heartily agree with Mayor Kelly when he disapproves of women drinking at the saloon bar. If I had my way, I would Hitlerize the women of America.

I firmly believe this world was made for men and women. Each has a distinctive sphere, but up to the present time hens do not make good roosters, neither do roosters lay eggs. The greatest need today is womanly women and manly men.

The more manly or manlike a woman becomes, the nearer she becomes a monstrosity, and when she demands the right to make a public exhibition of feminine depravity she becomes a public nuisance and should be treated accordingly. I have yet to see the first woman that has become more womanly by assuming masculine duties, much less when she wants to compete with the vices of mankind.

BARKUS.

SEPARATE BARS.

Chicago Jan. 9.—Why all the fuss about woman's equal rights at a bar? No sensible man objects to a woman's rights. But there should be separate bars for men and separate bars for the ladies. What a real man objects to is a place where a barmaid is employed to serve him and jolly him along, or a place where women are standing at a bar or sitting at tables all day for no other purpose than to urge a man to drink. This was the biggest nuisance before prohibition. A BARTENDER.

WISE CRACK.

CLOSING AT 1 A. M.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Without question, if the existing law of closing the night life spots at 1 a. m. in the city of Chicago is enforced, the beer flats are bound to come back to life.

If this 1 o'clock rule remains it means the closing not at 1 a. m. of these places, but their closing permanently, and thereby putting thousands of people out of work, such as performers, musicians, waiters, etc.

Saloons and taverns should close at 1 a. m., but cafés, where entertainment and orchestras are employed, should be permitted to operate until 2 or 3 a. m. Thus they would make for employment rather than unemployment. People are accustomed to start their activities at night clubs at a much later hour than before prohibition—and prohibition was the cause of this.

Those who wish to drink will do so regardless of laws—it has been proven. And they will get liquor whenever they want it. The logical place for them to go after 1 a. m. will be the beer flats. Assuredly places of this kind are highly undesirable. THOMAS SACCO.

MORE BUSINESS AT THE ZOO.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Mr. Bob Becker's articles on the apes in our Lincoln park zoo created a new volume of business for us. He must have lots of readers and also a great manner in presenting his subject to your public.

I want you to know how much all of us here in the zoo appreciate these articles in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and especially as you have stated the facts about our exhibits. I might mention the fact that since the publication of your articles we have had requests from visitors to have one of the attendants arrange the whiskers on Jiggs' face. He is the orang-utan you called the funniest ape on exhibit.

Your article on the experiment in companionship, which tells about the Black Howler and the Capuchin, has resulted in visitors coming up here and asking to see these baby monkeys.

Again I wish to express my sincere thanks for THE TRIBUNE'S fine cooperation in telling Chicagoans about our exhibits here. FLOYD S. YOUNG,
Director of Zoo.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Your editorial on the milk situation is very enlightening, but why not give the full facts, that beer drinking is the cause of milk overproduction, and has also affected the price of butter? There is not as much milk consumed now as before 3.2 beer came in by many millions of gallons.

M. NORDEN.

WHERE THEY LEARNED HOW.

Knox, Ind., Jan. 9.—Won't you please tell me the difference between the farmers spilling the milk and the government burning up the piggies and limiting food production? The transactions look strangely alike to me.

PARTIES AT WORK ON APRIL SLATES; LIST CANDIDATES

Democrats Claim Harmony; G. O. P. Seeks It.

Political slate making for the April primaries gave indications yesterday that the Democrats have attained a greater degree of harmony than the Republicans. At least, the Democrats seemed to have only one candidate for most offices while the Republicans had two, three, and sometimes four for each place.

Most of the old time regulars in both parties are in the running for offices. The Democratic county central committee will begin selecting organization candidates on Jan. 20 and it was reported that the Republicans may complete their job by that date, providing factional disputes are settled.

It is said that adherents of former Senator Charles S. Deneen were insisting on having a voice in the naming of Republican candidates and were prepared to put a separate slate in the running if they are turned down.

Peace Among Democrats.

On the Democratic side leaders claim that harmony is the watchword and no signs of a serious revolt against the present leaders could be detected.

Following is the list of county offices to be filled at this year's election and prospective primary candidates of each party:

COUNTY JUDGE—Democratic: Edmund K Jarecki; Republican: John H. Lyle, Edgar A Jonas, Daniel P. Trude, George E. Q. Johnson, and Dwight H. Green.

SHERIFF—Democratic: John Toman, Clayton F. Smith; Republican: Patrick Sheridan Smith, James C. Moreland, John Hoellen, William Burmeister and James P. Ringley.

BOARD OF TAX APPEALS [two to be chosen]—Democratic: Joseph B. McDonough and Fred W. Brummel; Republican: H. H. Haylett, John Bowers, Harry Kinne and George F. Nixon.

VOTE $134,467 TAX ASSESSMENT REDUCTION FUND

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $262,560, making a total of $100,782,450 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Jan. 12 .....$	27,983 $	68,157
Uncollected	15,624,636	41,823,142
	1930.	1931.
Jan. 12 .....$	100,546 $	65,874

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $7,107.

The county board in its budget session yesterday authorized an emergency appropriation of $134,767 for the county treasurer's office in the event that County Judge Jarecki rules that the 1931 assessments on homes and small flat buildings should be reduced 15 per cent. The appropriation is to employ additional clerical help to change the 438,000 tax bills which would be affected by such a ruling. If Judge Jarecki does not allow the reduction the appropriation will be canceled. The assessment has been attacked by the Chicago Real Estate board, which charges that Assessor Jacobs discriminated against owners of small properties. The assessor informed the county board yesterday that his 1934 budget requirement is $692,600, as against $850,000 last year.

KILLER IN STREET CAR FIGHT ADMITS 26 OTHER CRIMES

David Sweatman, 18 years old, 127 East 55th street, a Negro, who was arrested Thursday night for the fatal shooting of Miss Mary Van Bokhover, 20 years old, 2021 West 47th street, yesterday confessed that he shot and wounded John Campbell, 45 years old, 6717 Lafayette avenue, in an attempted robbery at 63d street and Calumet avenue only 15 minutes befort the shooting of the woman.

Campbell is in St. Bernard's hospital with a bullet wound in his right hip. The shooting of Miss Bokhover occurred on Jan. 6 on a south bound State street car at 53d street. Sweatman engaged in an argument with Charles Conley, 7110 Lafayette avenue, and then jumped from the car and fired the shot that killed Miss Bokhover. The Negro also confessed, according to police, that he had robbed 25 street car conductors during the last few months.

PROHIBITIONISTS PICK SLATE FOR FALL ELECTION

Members of the county central committee of the Cook county Prohibition party gathered at the Hotel La Salle last night to complete the naming of candidates on the ticket for county offices in next fall's election.

Leo F. Jeanmene, who presided, said that the names of the candidates would not be announced until later by the committee. Several of the candidates chosen were not present and he said the committee wanted to get their consent to be candidates before publishing their names. Several of them were named at a convention of the party held in December.

Plans are going forward, Mr. Jeanmene said, for a state convention to be held in Bloomington, March 10. At that time candidates for the state offices are to be named.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

TITLE JUGGLING ON BIG MORTGAGE BARED AT TRIAL.

Surface Charges Trickery in Securities Case.

Charles R. Surface, who admits he was the dummy in the alleged fraudulent mortgage deals through which seven men are charged with looting the Security Life Insurance company and affiliates of $1,900,000, testified yesterday that he was told by one of the owners of the property, that he was a "sucker" to help juggle the title to the 30 acre tract of land known as the Manufacturers' terminal. Surface, who obtained a severance and is a witness for the state, occupied the stand throughout the day in Judge Benjamin P. Epstein's Criminal court.

Surface said that the property changed hands so quickly and so often during the transactions that it was difficult to know from day to day in whose name the title was vested. The property first was in the name of Thomas J. McConnell, a lawyer, in the office of Lee [Attorney John H. S. Lee, a defendant] and then was put back in Surface's name. The property next was transferred back to McConnell, but again was transferred to Surface and placed in escrow while efforts were made to sell the mortgages placed on the land.

Called "Sucker," He Says.

The witness testified that James H. Benjamin, who was one of the promoters in the deal and who owned some of the stock in the Terminal company until his shares were sold at an auction on the steps of an Iowa courthouse, told him he was a "sucker" for letting go of the title for the remuneration he was getting out of the deal. The state charges that the property was split into 27 plots against which 27 mortgages were filed. These mortgages, totaling $1,700,000, were then dumped into the security portfolios of insurance companies owned by Machir Dorsey, one time millionaire insurance promoter and now one of the defendants in the trial, according to the state. Surface testified that the property was not improved by the promoters as was promised, to cover an appraisal of $3,500,000. He said that Dorsey attempted to dump some of the mortgages on a Kansas insurance company and that he had been cautioned by Dorsey not to tell investigators from Kansas "too much about the property."

Improvements Never Made.

Surface also said that the firm of Coutts & Burchard told him that they would stand behind their appraisal of $3,500,000 on the Waukegan property if the agreed sum was spent for improvements. The state charges that the appraisal figure was set with the understanding that the property would be improved "to its fullest value." These improvements were never made, according to the prosecution.

Before the $3,500,000 appraisal was made, Surface said, the American Appraisal company of Milwaukee had valued the property at $1,500,000. The witness then told of a conversation he had with Harry S. Tressel, vice president of the Security Life and a defendant.

"Tressel told me that appraisal wouldn't do us any good," Surface said, "and told me that I had better forget it."

Charges Dishonesty.

Surface testified Thursday that the defendants were not even honest in their dealings among themselves. He said that Attorney Lee was not apprised of the fact that $325,000 worth of stock was to be included in the alleged conspiracy.

Shortly before the court was adjourned John E. Northup, attorney for Lee, launched an effort to impeach Surface on the basis of his testimony regarding mortgaging of the Waukegan tract. On cross-examination Northup drew from the witness the admission that Surface had made a statement in 1932 in which he said that Attorney Lee knew little of the actual activities of the other defendants. Surface admitted that he had said in the statement that Lee did not know of the second mortgages placed on the property.

Yesterday the witness said that Attorney Lee learned of the stock some months later.

"He told me that he had heard that others held out the stock," Surface said, "and wanted to know if it was true. Then he said that he didn't like to be double crossed and didn't feel like dealing further with Huttig (Harry Huttig, joint owner with Lee of the Waukegan property)."

PEORIA LIFE MEN INDICTED AS EMBEZZLERS

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Emmett C. May and George B. Pattison, president and secretary of the Peoria Life Insurance company, which recently went into receivership, were indicted today on embezzlement charges by a Peoria county grand jury.

Two indictments were returned against each individual. One charges May with embezzlement of $35,000 in company funds on Dec. 31, 1932, and the second charges May and Pattison with conspiracy, setting forth offenses in fourteen counts by which on Feb. 6, 1933, they obtained $250,000 of company funds under false pretenses. May was held under $5,000 bonds on the first charge.

The indictments charge that the pair, as officers of the company, made and filed false statements regarding the financial condition of the company with the office of the state director of trade and commerce, and made large and excessive loans to divers persons, friends and corporations who were then insolvent and approaching insolvency without receiving adequate security therefore.

12 Counts in Bill

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Andrew Russel, former state auditor and state treasurer, and Millard F. Dunlap, former president of the defunct Ayers National bank of Jacksonville, were reindicted today on 12 counts charging misapplication of federal bank funds and conspiracy by a federal grand jury.

Previous indictments against the two men were dismissed on technical grounds, although Dunlap and William G. Goebel, cashier of the bank, were convicted under another set of indictments for making false entries in the bank's books in a conspiracy to deceive examiners.

Dunlap is now at liberty on bond pending appeal of his conviction, on which he was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth. Goebel was placed on probation.

The twelve counts in the indictments returned today against Dunlap and Russel charge Dunlap, as president of the bank, honored checks in varying amounts drawn by Russel even after he was in debt to the bank to the extent of $100,000, and was allegedly insolvent.

The alleged offenses occurred in the six months preceding the close of the Ayers bank in November, 1932.

VICE GRAND JURY ENDS INQUIRY AT MICHIGAN TOWN

Report Soon; Several Warrants Issued.

Niles, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The state's grand jury investigation of vice conditions in Niles and surrounding cities and towns was ended here this afternoon after eight ministers, who refused to testify until threatened with subpoenas, had been taken before the inquiry.

Deputy Attorney General George Murphy, who left immediately for Lansing to submit his report to Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien, said the grand jury may be reconvened next week if a study of the evidence warrants.

Meanwhile Justice of the Peace Thomas M. Farrell, who conducted the special one man grand jury in the city hall here, and Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Holbrook of Berrien county prepared to go over the several hundred pages of transcript record and prepare their findings.

Several Girls Testify.

Written into the transcript is the testimony of a dozen young girls between the ages of 13 to 17, owners of dance halls, beer taverns and other resorts, public officials, social workers and ministers.

The young girls, five of whom have been held in the Berrien county juvenile detention home in St. Joseph since the exposure was launched 10 days ago, have implicated nearly 150 girls of their own age and a score of men, some married.

The grand jury's conclusions, which will determine what official procedure is to be taken, are expected to be drafted here tomorrow or Monday.

Meanwhile it was announced that six arrests have been ordered as result of the grand jury inquiry. Warrants have been issued for three Niles youths who have fled the state, two to Florida and the other to Chicago.

Drop Mann Act Charge.

Warrant also was to be issued this afternoon for a 19 year old South Bend youth, alleged to have transported a 15 year old girl across the state line into Indiana. The South Bend youth's arrest had been asked of the district attorney's office in Grand Rapids, Mich., on Mann act charges, but it was decided at a conference today to handle the case in the state courts.

Warrants also will be issued for two young Niles men on the charges of two girls now in confinement in the University of Michigan hospital at Ann Arbor. Their stories were presented to the grand jury by Probate Judge Malcolm Hatfield, who launched the exposé.

The ministers testifying today were the Rev. E. H. Kuhn, the Rev. C. E. Haterius, the Rev. Leon F. Woodward, the Rev. O. R. Gratton, the Rev. F. C. Schmidt, and the Rev. Freeman Travas, all of St. Joseph, and the Rev. Robert Lincoln Kelly and the Rev. Eckhart Umbaugh of Benton Harbor.

BLAME FIRM'S LOSSES ON BANK; ASK FOR $300,000

Suit for $300,000 against the First National bank was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by the firm of Morris, Mann and Reilly, novelty jewelry and leather goods dealers at 320 West Adams street. The bill alleged that the bank conspired to liquidate the assets of the company below market price and "broke down the morale of the organization."

On Jan. 5, 1933, according to the bill, the company owed the bank $120,000 and the bank threatened to liquidate the holdings unless the company allowed them to manage the business. The company consented and the bank, through its agents, S. D. Leidesdorf and company, managed the company until Nov. 22, the bill says. The bill alleged that during the time the bank was in control "it secretly planned and conspired with its agents to manage the business to liquidate for the sole benefit of the defendants and through coercion, threats and wrongful surveillance broke down the morale of the business organization."

The bill said that the company became aware of the "fraudulent plan" on Nov. 22 and terminated the arrangement "after credit had been destroyed." The company now owes the bank $137,000, the bill says.

New Brownell Book Praised by T. V. Smith

BY T. V. SMITH.
[Professor of Philosophy, University of Chicago.]

OF many books worth reading, few are worth loving. As I have fondled Baker Brownell's newest—no other word quite befits the response the book begets.

Religion may be grand, but I must frankly say that books about it do not as a rule give me any "grand and glorious feeling." This book is the oasis in the desert of contemporary religious writing. It is the only one I know that I myself could honestly wish to have written.

True, if I had been its author, I should have left out of the subtitle—and then out of the book—one word, the word religion. This done, the book would then represent merely as it does surely a more intimate celebration of the world whose picturesque contours Mr. Brownell has so poetically sung in his "The New Universe." But that is my private quarrel with Pundit Brownell, in which the sympathy of most would, no doubt, be with him rather than with me.

But look you for yourself what he has here done: He disdains to stop with those mild men who say that churches are in the way of religion. Not only are churches and all institutions of authority in the way, but morality itself is alien to religion. Moreover, not only Emerson's half gods but humanity's whole gods must also go before religion can come rightly into its own, he says.

Whatever the content of such audacity be named, the stuff of life flows steadily through it; the stuff of primitive life under distant skies, the stuff of semi-civilized life in Guatemala, the stuff of both primitive and sophisticated life in Chicago.

The Rotarian is here, the taxi driver is here, the seven day bike racer is here, the student, the sportsman, the professor, youth and age, wise and reckless—all these and more are here. Life marches through these pages to the time of art.

And to what end this higher strategy? This end: To celebrate the festival of life. There lies deeper than talk or any abstract thought the very stuff of being. In our moments of intenser living we are integrated with this, cease to distinguish ourselves from the world about us, and are welded with the texture of the stream of being into a seamless whole. This integrative moment of common experience is the stuff of Brownell's religion, and the prescience of this moment is the religious life.

Mysticism this is without a doubt, but not of the box office type. It is a week-day mysticism, as it is an hourly worship. None are cut out from it, nor can any cut himself off from it, save by failing to live life as it flows. For this reason it is held that churches and moral codes and even deities stand in the way of religion: they facilitate invidious comparison of one segment of appreciation with another.

So much for the intent of the book, and for its central content. That would exhaust most books, but not this one. It is the form which all this takes that lends to it unique distinction. Brownell has pondered deeply, I sometimes think has mastered, the strategy of really saying what he, and we, most want to say, the unutterable—by actually saying something else in an askance voice.

It takes shrewd indirection to reveal the direct, the obvious; but to reveal the emotional obvious is to make life appear to be what it actually is: the unimpeded flow of the eternally significant. Through interludes and subtle nuances art is here brought to the aid of science so as to lyricize substantial logic into a thing of enduring beauty. If this be earth, it is enough.

What Prisoners Read.

Did you miss that dispatch that stated that one of the most popular books in prison libraries is a volume entitled "Five Hundred Criminal Careers"? It is a serious, technical criminological study published by Alfred A. Knopf.

NINE ECONOMISTS TELL 'WHAT LAYMAN WANTS KNOW ABOUT MONEY'

"What Everybody Wants to Know About Money" is a symposium of nine famous economists from Oxford university. G. D. H. Cole, author of "A Guide Through World Chaos" and "The Intelligent Man's Review of Europe Today" planned and edited the volume which really lives up to its title.

Three other books about money have come to us in the last few weeks . . . and even if one hasn't much of the commodity he can read about what would happen if he had.

Paul Einzig's "The Sterling-Dollar-Franc Tangle" [Macmillan] is a guide for the general reader in the utter maze that most laymen find the situation. Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university discusses "After Reflation, What?" [Adelphi] in which he offers suggestions about stabilizing the price level.

And a little volume "Fiat Money Inflation in France" by Andrew Dickson White [Appleton-Century] is one of those "I Told You So" businesses. It was written in 1896 and delivered as a speech before the New York senate. In it he explained what happened when France, after her revolution, tried inflation. The balloon went plopper than a pancake. And Dr. White, who was during his life president and professor of history at Cornell university, told all about at least one previous experience in a devastating little treatise.

Eleanor Lansing Dulles, a lecturer on economics at Bryn Mawr in "The Dollar, the Franc, and Inflation." [Macmillan] contends that inflation would only make the situation more difficult. Dr. Einzig in "The Sterling-Dollar-Franc Tangle" looks upon it as the solution of the world's economic tangle. You read them all and take your choice.

Describes Gardening in Wild Regions of Africa

"When elephant and rhino stroll across your borders, and lion and leopard argue on your seed beds, a certain amount of damage and confusion is bound to follow. Bush buck, too, have an insatiable passion for young rose and delphinium shoots," writes Joyce Boyd in her delightful account of African gardening, "My Farm in Lion Country" [Stokes]. It's a true tale of home life in Tanganyika which should appeal to the gardener, the farmer and the adventure lover, as well as the casual reader, for it has big game thrills, excitement and human interest. It is told with humor and charm.

THE EDITOR'S MAIL BAG

A letter from the vicar of Daresbury, Cheshire, England, begs me to bring to the attention of my readers the matter of the proposed Lewis Carroll window which has been designed as a memorial to the author of "Alice in Wonderland" to be erected there in the parish church of his birthplace.

The design by Geoffrey Webb contains, besides the crests of Rugby and Christchurch, Oxford, his schools, a portrait of the author kneeling with his arms about Alice, who is standing, and some of the famous Tenniel illustrations as a base in stained glass.

The estimated cost of the window will be 360 pounds [somewhere in the bog between $1,800 and $2,000], and contributions, says the vicar, of any amount will be gladly received by him or by the treasurer, W. Richardson, Daresbury lodge, Warrington, England.

Miss Borland Writes Merry Travel Book

BY JOHN T. M'CUTCHEON.

"Passports for Asia," by Beatrice Borland. [Stokes.]

WHY IS it that we occasionally have heavy going in the pages of a book by an experienced writer with a big name and then find ourselves rollicking gayly through the book of a new writer?

This thought occurred to me when I read "Flying Gypsies," a first book by Violette de Sibour, who was not known to have any writing experience or aspirations. Her book was a gay humorous recounting of a thrilling trans-Asian flight in a little Gypsy Moth plane.

Now again I am struck with it as I read "Passports for Asia," by Beatrice Borland, a first-booker who has hitherto kept her literary ambitions, if any, completely hidden. She and her sister Harriet began to check off the out-of-the-way places on the globe several years ago. Now they have completed another such trip, checking off many of the places they missed on their first round.

The average reader will idly thumb the pages, thinking: "Another travel book," and then to his surprise he will find himself getting interested. Something has happened to keep this book from being one of those conventional travel books, so often deadly dull to all but faithful friends or those who have made the trip.

Miss Borland has done something which will shock the Union of Foreign Travelers. Instead of stressing the glamorous delights and fairy-like charm of distant places, she discovers with a sympathetically humorous slant, that there is a good deal of bunk about the joys of travel and proceeds with specifications.

The home-bound traveler who must do his traveling vicariously will enjoy hearing that there is a lot of bally rot about the irresistible charms of Bali, and so on. He will want to send a copy to all his friends, particularly those who have been throwing fits of rapture about the incredible delights of all the places where he hasn't been. And those who have cannot fail to enjoy having the vicissitudes and disillusionments of their own trips so divertingly recalled.

HORSES MAY BE FORBIDDEN ON LONDON STREETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Horse drawn traffic will be banned from the streets of London if the special traffic committee set up by order of Minister of Transport Oliver Stanley accepts the opinion of experts.

The committee is empowered to confer with the interests operating horse drawn vehicles to see what can be done toward abolishing the chief obstacle to the swift traffic flow which is held essential to free London from a sort of paralysis.

The committee was instructed to arrange specially marked routes for through commercial traffic so it can avoid the congested heart of London. An attempt also will be made to keep heavy traffic off residential roads where taxpayers are complaining of the cost of repairing the damage done by trucks.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Mother," by Pearl S. Buck. [Day.] Published on Wednesday.

"Wedding Song," by David Burnham. [Viking.] Published Jan. 5.

"The Silver Platter," by Laetitia McDonald. [Farrar & Rinehart.] Published on Wednesday.

IN the exact manner of her prize winning novel, "The Good Earth," Pearl Buck has written another novel of primitive Chinese peasant life in "The Mother." It is a pæan to the urge to motherhood which has a rare richness in all peoples whose life is at one with the soil. Children are as yearned for among primitive folk as the other fruits of generous nature. A rich harvest of sons is a treasure far more golden to many races than physical possession of inanimate wealth.

"The Mother" [who never once in the book is named by other than that descriptive title] is a Chinese woman, warm of blood, quick of tongue, strong of body and, like the characters in "The Good Earth," accepting whatever fate offers her with a stolid undemonstrativeness.

Just as her hands are hardened in youth with grubbing toil, her soul puts forth its callouses against what otherwise would kill. Unlike the wife in "The Good Earth," "The Mother" does not remain silent. Her tongue is quick to lash at her husband when he displeases her or is displeased with her children. And one day, after a sharp verbal wrestling, he walks out of the hut, across the fields to the town and is never heard of again.

How she manages without him, how she saves her face in the trial of his absence, how she takes another man and rues the taking . . . the whole span of her life, ebbing from rich fertility of body and hope to complete sterility of any hope whatever, is recorded in "The Mother." Two of her children dead, herself unable to move about without pain, disgrace heavy upon her, tormented with a superstitious fear that her own guilt has been the cause of the tragedy to her best beloved, the mother is told that her son's wife has borne a son. Herself reborn, she cries out of her misery her pride in his lustiness, "I doubt I was so full of sin as once I thought I was . . . you see my grandson!" Birth—rebirth . . . of fields and mankind—that is the theme of Mrs. Buck's latest novel.

It is written in the same biblical style as "The Good Earth." It has the same tragic overtones, the same calm melody. It has not the cosmic power that was in the pages of "The Good Earth," but it has the same deep and rich and rooted reality.

Chicagoan's Novel Is Vivid Contrast.

In vivid contrast to "The Mother" is the second novel of a young Chicagoan whose first, "This Our Exile," was a compelling human document. David Burnham in "Wedding Song" has written a book about people who are like the creatures blown into the stems of Venetian glasses. They have no more reality . . . they are merely the execution of an artist's plan. As such they are of the same interest as a purple and white aster miraculously floating in a crystal bulb. They show infinite skill and artistry and are fascinating, but they have no life of their own. And however much they may express their creator's skill they are not more than minor creations.

There is something maddening about "Wedding Song" to one who looked upon "This Our Exile" as the beginning of a brilliant creative life. For most of the promises in the first book have vanished and only the possibilities have come to life. There we found an eye super-keen to see and a pen super-sharp to record. In "Wedding Song" the pen has become sharper, "smarter" in the popular sense of that word . . . more mannered, and the eye has blinked at reality. It was possible—so "This Our Exile" declared to the critic—that the author might write a book which was different just for the sake of being different [although "This Our Exile" was not]. "Wedding Song" is done in a manner which is without fundamental rightness . . . it is the kind of technique that is chosen not because it is inevitable to tell that particular story but because it is an "amusing" technique.

The story is told alternately by brother and sister. What the brother tells is mostly a record of conversations which he holds with others [and very good those conversations are]. What the sister tells is a hodge podge of sensations, impressions, events, and memories none of which really further the book.

"Silver Platter" Story of Luxury.

Exasperating, terribly so, "Wedding Song" is to this critic, not because it is so bad but because it is so good . . . there is so much impressively excellent about it that it upsets an earnest critic who honestly hoped for something as fine as it might have been.

And in contrast to "The Mother" and "Wedding Song" is "Silver Platter," by Laetitia McDonald. Its characters are the Long Island crowd that lives wholly for pleasure and does it with high art. It gives the reader the feeling of being about people who actually live, but who, thank God, don't have to be lived with.

Luxury spills over every page, but a luxury which is as real as fresh caviar and not something blown into glass by a skilled craftsman. It doesn't pretend to be an important book. Its certain popularity will be founded on its popular achievement, not its modest claims.

SECOND NOVEL

Among the New Books

FICTION.

Gentlemen—The Regiment! by Hugh Talbot [Harpers], tells of the rivalry between two fiercely aristocratic English military families.

A Nest of Simple Folk, by Sean O'Faolain [Viking], depicts the story of three generations of vigorous Irish people.

NONFICTION.

City Management: The Cincinnati Experiment, by Charles P. Taft [Farrar & Rinehart], is the inside story of this city's experiment in city government.

The Puppet-Show on the Potomac, by Rufus Dart II. [McBride], takes the reader to the back stage of congress.

The Economics of the Recovery Program [McGraw-Hill] is a discussion by seven Harvard economists.

After the Great Companions, by Charles J. Finger [Dutton], deals with the joys of reading.

The Roosevelt Revolution, by Ernest K. Lindley [Viking], is a history of the New Deal.

Garden Flowers in Color, by G. A. Stevens [Macmillan], contains nearly four hundred colored illustrations as well as a short outline of the subject.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Everybody's Lamb, edited by A. C. Ward [Harcourt Brace], contains a selection from "The Essays of Elia," "The Letters" and Elia's miscellaneous prose.

Wine, Women, and Waltz, by David Ewen [Sears], is a romantic biography of Johann Strauss and his son.

Jesus of Nazareth, by Andrew J. Reynolds [Fowler, Metzer, Aley & Co.], gives a connected and easily read story of the life of Christ.

ABOUT PLACES

Riddles of the Gobi Desert, by Sven Hedin [Dutton], gives the record of the expedition begun in 1927 by Sven Hedin and the Chinese into the Gobi desert.

In Scotland Again, by H. V. Morton [Dodd Mead], is a companion volume to the author's "In Search of Scotland."

The California Deserts, by Edmund C. Jaeger [Stanford University Press], is a visitor's handbook to the Mohave and Colorado deserts.

Mr. Quick Asks for Sobriety in Mystery Tales

Cycle of Too Many Drinks Becomes Tiresome.

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

SAYS Nora, one of the few nice girls [though she does drink] in Dashiel Hammett's "The Thin Man" [Knopf], "I don't believe it. You make it up. There aren't any people like that. What's the matter with them? Are they a new race of monsters?"

Certainly the set of people which Mr. Hammett has made up is all of that. They seem shut off in a little orbit of their own, "speak," hotel room, furnished apartment, with no entanglement with anything that seems in the least like real life. And yet I am sure Mr. Hammett considers himself a realist. At any rate, he knows how to write a good mystery and perhaps a murderer must be pathological to achieve reality.

There is a slightly repellent immodesty about the book, too, which is the prerogative of self-indulged realists. When do you suppose they will discover that good, full-bodied immorality is always entertaining while the ultimate disposition of the too many drinks taken is merely tiresome? Some day, perhaps, Mr. Hammett will write a book about sober people and it will be a good one.

Another book of the hard egg school is "The Destroying Angel" [Farrar & Rinehart], by Norman Klein. In it New York continues to exert itself to be terrible. Like "The Thin Man," it is nervously and vigorously written, is mysterious to the very end and is irritatingly interesting. I wonder if Mr. Klein knows that Dorothy Sayers some years ago in "The Documents in the Case" [I think] used the same poison that his villian almost successfully employs?

A lot of pretty bad actors murder and get murdered in "The Devil's Den" [Covici, Friede], by Laurence Saunders. It is the inside story, apparently, of one of those manhandled killings that fill pages of newsprint and get you nowhere. On the whole the detection is below par, but unpleasant people are pleasantly and readably dealt with.

The long arm of coincidence seems further extended by the use of a pair of tongs in "Dr. Thorndyke Intervenes" [Dodd, Mead] by R. Austin Freeman, but once the story gets under way it is thoroughly sound, as are all of Mr. Freeman's expositions of the doctor's achievements, though he does in this one rather take a fall out of his readers.

A family tree prefaces "Black Hawthorn" [Crime Club], by John Stephen Strange, giving fair warning that once more warped consanguinity leads to deeds of violence. One by one obstacles, in the shape of sisters, cousins, aunts, and even parents, are bumped off to clear a path to undisputed inheritance. But it's good and nicely written and very hard to put down until there is scarcely any one left to kill.

"Scotland Yard Can Walt" [Farrar & Rinehart], by David Frome, is one of those rather silly books that allow all sorts of preventable murders to take place because everybody deliberately does the wrong thing. But I think you will find it very interesting and like the way it is written.

And now comes something entirely different, a book of short stories called "Mind Wreckers, Limited" [Spectator], by Frank J. Price Jr. Mr. Price, who knows his subject thoroughly, tells the experiences of an insurance detective, Charley Barrow. All sorts of curious frauds are run to earth and the tales of Barrow's achievements make very interesting reading. Here you have true realism with few trimmings, transcribed with simplicity and conviction. If you are tired of seven murders per book for assorted reasons, turn to this collection of stories about people who have just one secret aim variously arrived at, to "do" the insurance company.

Publisher Tests London Public on Literary Ads

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A much debated question has been decided in the London book world. Every Sunday the two chief literary newspapers—the Observer and the Sunday Times—are crowded with publishers' advertisements. These advertisements are present in such huge quantities that many people wonder who on earth can find time to read them all. But proof has just been forthcoming that they are widely read in detail.

The London firm of Putnam recently inserted in both papers a list of eight new novels and announced that they would present to the first hundred applicants for each title a free copy of the novel asked for. No fewer than six thousand answers were received on the morning following the advertisement. And more came in a steady avalanche by later mails. The publishers claim that if their belief in the eight novels is indorsed by the recipients of these free copies the results should be an enormous increase in sales.

That the reading public is extraordinarily interested in everything relating to books is shown by the large attendance at one of the English women's clubs the other night to hear a discussion upon "Women's Men and Men's Women in Fiction."

Here were men and women authors and critics who stood up and told the world what they thought of each other. Their references ranged from the classics to unpublished books. They generalized about men and women with the greatest frankness.

Ernest Raymond, the novelist, and Ralph Straus, who is both novelist and reviewer, took a sad view of the other sex. Mr. Straus, indeed, said that he spent a large part of his life in trying to dissuade women from writing novels (one of his listeners, a woman, demanded to be told why he did not also discourage his own sex), and Mr. Raymond, in one of the two best speeches of the evening, told of his own search for the woman of his dreams—the clinging vine. He was warned by Miss Beatrice de Holtoir, who mentioned that one living novelist renowned for the wit of his women characters owed much to the wit of his women friends, that if his search had been successful he would long since have been calling for an ax.

Mrs. Sylvia Lynd was both witty and serious, and highly praised the hero of a novel who greeted his wife at breakfast with the words "I observe, my dear, that you have no pink pearls." She also commended—and in this she was serious—two in particular of Jane Austen's heroes, Mr. Tilney (in "Northanger Abbey") and Mr. Crawford (in "Mansfield Park.").

Sir John Squire, who arrived late, concluded the discussion, which he had not heard, with a brief speech that was as apt as it would have been if he had missed no single word of the discussion. The large company was delighted, and followed all the speakers with merriment.

Arlen Pens New Novel.

Michael Arlen writes from Cannes that he has settled down to work on a new London novel. It is to be of the period 1930-1934, on a wide tapestry, and, he says, it presents so many interesting difficulties that he has set no time for finishing it.

Abram Lipsky Writes Vivid Biography of Luther and His Works

Nov. 10 marked the 450th anniversary of the birth of the German reformer, Martin Luther. A most readable and unbiased account of his life and works is now available in "Martin Luther, Germany's Angry Man," by Abram Lipsky [Stokes.].

The author happily lets the man's own words draw his portrait, whenever possible, and refrains from expressing opinions or drawing conclusions, so that the reader has the fascinating experience of "discovering" the real character of this sturdy, vital, devil-fighting figure of the 16th century for himself. One realizes the qualities that made Luther were not alone the powers of the intellect, the unfailing logic that cut through masses of church doctrine, ritual, tenets, and forms, and the ability to see a truth as manifested in the scriptures, but the tremendous and unfailing courage and vigor that helped him broadcast his beliefs to the world of his day. He was afraid of no living being. Oddly enough, the devil was more real to him than many of his enemies and it was with this very personal essence of evil that he fought by the hour, often admitting defeat.

The author gives an interesting picture of Erasmus, the liberal and scholar, and says many people felt that he, rather than Luther, was the real instigator of rebellion against the church.

To those of us who knew Martin Luther as we knew William the Conqueror, simply as a figure in history whose personality had become blotted out by the mists of the centuries, and whose name merely served to call up the date of the Diet of Worms as inevitably as William's does 1066 and the Battle of Hastings, this vigorous, simple and forthright story of "Germany's angry man" is like finding a letter of a person long since dead. It brings back in startling clarity the humanness, the reality of the person.

Another new book on "Martin Luther: Oak of Saxony," by Edwin P. Booth, was published by Round Table Press on the anniversary.

Repeal Brings Some Books on Uses of Wines

Amusing and Instructive Works Appear.

REPEAL is not confined to active participation in the joys of Bacchus. You can read about the mysteries of a forgotten art seriously, or humorously as your taste dictates.

A charming and delightful volume from the pen of George Saintsbury "Notes on a Cellar Book" [Macmillan], which was published in England in 1920, has just been reissued with a preface by Owen Wister. It is a guide to what Mr. Wister calls "the wholesome habit of wine" . . . and is written with Mr. Saintsbury's great charm. (Nobody has reissued G. B. Stern's "Bouquet [Knopf], a superb record of a wine pilgrimage which she made through France, but it is not, I believe, out of print. Both the Stern and the Saintsbury are literary as well as instructive.)

Both amusing and instructive is "Wining and Dining With Rhyme and Reason," by D. T. Carlisle and Elizabeth Dunn. (Minton Balch.) This one is, so the preface says, "for those who have come of drinking age since 1919, who, for one reason or another, wish to go off the malt standard. It is written and illustrated by inexperts for inexperts," and instructs amusingly.

Julian Street tells everything about their selection, care and service in "Wines" (Knopf) and gives you an extra chart of vintage years to carry around with you.

"The Drunk's Blue Book" (Stokes) is an out and out funny book by that hilarious pair, Norman Anthony, who writes, and O. Soglow, who draws. A pink elephant is attached as an appropriate bookmark.

And finally there are two volumes for mixers. "The Official Mixer's Manual," by Patrick Gavin Duffy (Long Smith), which is a loose leaf guide to all sorts of mixed drinks, and "Jack's Manual" (Knopf), a famous handbook that was a best seller in the B. P. days.

Shark Hunter Settles Problem of Whether They Will Eat Men

Capt. James Young, who spent thirty years at one of the world's strange vocations—shark hunting—has told about it, with the aid of Horace S. Mazet, in "Shark! Shark!" [Gotham House]. It's an unusual book, both in format and contents. The binding is part shark skin and the contents almost entirely about this justly unpopular ocean gangster.

Of course, the old query, "Will a shark eat a man?" bobs up. Capt. Young apparently settles it in the affirmative, with the aid of photographs and data. It is said to be the first book devoted solely to sharks ever published. It's readable and decidedly informative, with many photographs and sketches.

Anita Burnham Tells of Third Class Travel for First Class Time

Anita Willette Burnham, who lives in a century old log cabin in Hubbard Woods, has given us one of the jolliest, most informal and at the same time informative travel books of the year in her "Round the World on a Penny" (Covici-Friede). Accompanied by "Dad Burnham, middle aged business man, so deep in an office rut that he couldn't see over the edges," and their four children, they make an inexpensive European tour.

Then, seven years later they try it again and go on around the world and Dad sums up the whole trip with the remark: "Well, we traveled third class, but we had a first class time." The author and some of the family are artists and they've illustrated the volume with many jolly sketches.

Retail Price $5.00

—if you join the Book-of-the-Month Club...you do not pay any fixed sum per year as a member, nor do you have to take a book every month

WE suggest that you send the coupon below for a booklet outlining the many things the Club is now able to do for book-readers, and explaining how it operates. Are you aware, for instance, that as a member you are never obliged to take the specific book-of-the-month chosen by the judges? You may buy it or not, as you please, after reading the judges' pre-publication report about it. And what do you pay? Simply the regular retail price of such books as you decide to take. What then are the advantags of belonging?

They are many, and striking. First, book-dividends: for every dollar its members spend on books they receive back on the average over 50% in the form of free books. Second, without a penny of expense, through the reports of the judges you are kept completely informed about all the important new books, so that you can choose among them with discrimination, instead of having to rely upon ballyhoo and hearsay.

There are several other advantages, not readily measurable in money, that cannot be outlined here for lack of space. Surely, within the next year, the distinguished judges of the Club will choose as the book-of-the-month or recommend as alternates, at least a few books that you will be very anxious to read and which you will buy anyway. Why not—by joining the Club—make sure you get these instead of missing them, which so often happens; get the really substantial advantages the Club affords, and at the same time get a copy of THE ROMANCE OF LEONARDO DA VINCI, free.

LEONARDO DA VINCI is perhaps the most resplendent figure in the history of the human race. In person, distinguished and strong; in bearing, generous and gentle; in intellect a giant; in art, the most perfect painter who ever held a brush, he stands so far above the ordinary mortal that his name, for centuries, has signified less a man than a legend, less an artist than a magician. During his lifetime his presence stirred people to wonder and admiration, and to uncomfortable conjectures on his marvelous powers. When he walked through the streets of Milan, his long fair face crowned with a black cap, and his blond beard flowing down over his favorite rose-colored tunic, passers-by drew aside, and whispered to one another, 'There he goes to paint The Last Supper!' Kings and cities bid for him, as if he were, himself, a work of art..."—Thomas Craven, in Men of Art.

From boyhood it was his habit to record his theories and observations; the habit grew with years. As a consequence, we have today, dispersed in European libraries, 5000 manuscript pages of unclassified reflections set down in reversed, or mirror writing.

It is only within a comparatively few years that Leonardo's mirror-written notes were deciphered. Merejkowski's book is based practically wholly upon them. The book has become a modern classic, one that really belongs in every library. It has appeared in several editions, but none comparable to the present Random House edition, the fine quality of which is barely suggested in the accompanying illustration.

RAILROADS ASK TIME TO STUDY TERMINAL PLAN

Officials of 18 Lines Meet with Council.

Representatives of 18 railroads met yesterday with the city council committee on railway terminals as another preliminary step toward building of the proposed $19,000,000 consolidated terminal at Randolph street and Michigan avenue.

The consensus of the railroad men's view was that they need more time to study the question of expense involved in abandoning four of the terminals now in use in Chicago. The railroad representatives also wanted to await a report in preparation by V. V. Boatner, regional agent to the federal railroad coördinator.

Detailed Studies Ordered.

At conclusion of the hearing the committee moved to direct Edward J. Noonan, consulting engineer of the committee and author of the plan, to confer with the railroad representatives and make a detailed study of the problems of each road. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], chairman of the committee, announced that he was well pleased with the meeting.

"None of the railroad representatives expressed any active objections to the plan," the alderman said, "and a few went on record as believing it feasible."

The plan calls for the new terminal to house the passenger facilities of 18 lines, including 17 railroads now using four stations, which will be abandoned, and the Alton, which will move over from the Union station. The four stations to be abandoned and the lines using them are:

CENTRAL—Illinois Central, Michigan Central, and Big Four.

Cites Need for Study.

S. C. Murray, general counsel of the New York Central lines, said yesterday at the committee meeting that "many problems are involved and it will take a close study and some time to determine what is best for the city, the passengers, and the railroads."

"I don't approve of all this report, but I think it is a good plan," William H. Lyford, counsel for the C. and E. I., told the committee. "The Illinois Central has a wonderful opportunity here if we can pay the bill."

Fred L. Thompson, vice president of the Illinois Central, said that the other roads might be assured that there would be no disposition on the part of the Illinois Central to "hold up" the others on charges. He assured the meeting that the Illinois Central could furnish sufficient land for the terminal, but said that he had not gone into the other details as yet.

Sprague Backs Development.

"No railroad has ever recovered from a depression by retrenching and laying off men," Col. A. A. Sprague, vice president of the Chicago Plan commission, told the meeting. "Rather, gains have been made by giving the public something better than formerly. If this terminal plan can be worked out, and I am inclined to believe it can, then this aldermanic committee has done a wonderful thing."

A. N. Williams, representing the Chicago and Western Indiana, pointed out that he believed it necessary to determine whether 20 tracks can handle the business of the roads before passing judgment on the plan. This point, he said, could be solved only by operating engineers with train sheets in front of them.

"We must also consider whether the World's Fair is to be a permanent project," Mr. Williams said. "What the federal rail coördinator will report, what place these new light trains will have in the picture also demand consideration. Also, if there is a federal loan someone must pay the interest on the investment."

Cites Revenue Decrease.

H. G. Clark, vice president of the Rock Island, said that the passenger revenue of the road had dropped from a peak of $35,000,0000 to $5,800,000 in 1933. He expressed doubt that additional expense on the passenger end of the business would be approved, but said the Rock Island would be willing to study the problem.

William A. Dudley of the Greater Central association cautioned the meeting that South Franklin street should be opened before any definite steps are taken toward moving terminals from the south of the loop.

"If this problem is not met," he said, "you may as well remove the buildings and develop a park instead, as the move would kill the territory."

Planning Pends Decision.

His opinion was echoed by those of the J. B. Clow company, owner of large holdings in the territory, and William J. Maresch of the South Central association.

"It would be impossible to do any intelligent planning for the area south of Van Buren street, even as far south as 39th street, until it is decided what action is to be taken in the terminal question," Clifton R. Bechtel, representing the Chicago Real Estate board, told the committee. "We should also know what is to be done wtih the freight terminals and also arrive at some decision about the location and elevations of street grades necessary to open the district."

PANAMA RAILWAY MAY BE GUIDE TO U. S. OWNERSHIP

Chicago Professor Sees How It Is Operated.

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 12.—Dr. Marshall E. Dimock, associate professor of public administration at the University of Chicago, arrived today and is conducting a two months' investigation of the United States owned Panama railroad. Dr. Dimock stated there are two purposes for his investigation:

FIRST, Secretary of War George H. Dern believes that periodically every type of organization should have an independent outside study regarding its operations, although Secretary Dern is convinced the railroad is very efficiently managed.

SECOND, congress recently created several government owned organizations, with the prospect that this type will be more popular in the future.

Dr. Dimock frankly admitted there is a movement in the United States for taking over telephone, telegraph, and radio systems, as well as other services. Consequently, the professor said, he is anxious to learn what principles the Panama railroad has followed which might be adaptable to other government owned corporations.

He also intends to investigate the railroad's huge real estate properties in Colon, which are on Panamanian territory, although the land is owned by the United States.

Dr. Dimock today conferred with Gov. Julian L. Schley of the Canal Zone. Gov. Schley is the railroad's president. The University of Chicago is financing the investigation.

According to Dr. Dimock the United States government purchased the railroad in 1904 for $7,000,000, and that since then its assets have increased to $34,000,000.

NEW LIGHT SHED ON ROMANCE OF BETSY BONAPARTE

Record of Maryland Divorce Found.

Cambridge, Md., Jan. 12.—(AP)—While rummaging through a 140 year old desk, Mrs. Sadie Harrington Bayly discovered the age yellowed record of Betsy Patterson Bonaparte's divorce from Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon. The papers disproved much of the pathos with which some historians have garnished Maryland's favorite romance.

Many of the stories about Betsy and Jerome had her spending the last 72 years of her life—after Jerome deserted her and his son for a throne—in sorrow as she failed time and again to reunite with the imperial family. Though there is ample evidence that she did try to find a place near Napoleon for her son, Betsy, it now appears, was not the sorrowing sort. Mrs. Bayly's discovery shows that instead of weeping, she went before the Maryland legislature of 1812, to "exert the blandishments of her beauty," and got a divorce.

Napoleon Annuls Marriage.

Jerome and Betsy, over the objection of her father and his brother, were married in 1803, when she was 18.

Two years later the Bonapartes went to France. Then Betsy learned what it meant to cross Napoleon. Not only did he prohibit her from entering the country but also went to the pope to have the marriage annulled. The pope refusing, Napoleon annulled it himself. Soon thereafter he had Jerome marry Princess Frederick Catherine of Wurtemburg and made him king of Westphalia. Betsy returned to Baltimore with her baby son.

Betsy's petition, which asked for a divorce on grounds of the desertion and remarriage of her husband, was intact. Attached to it was a memorandum by Benjamin W. Lecompte of Annapolis, who outlined the strategy.

Her Beauty Wins Divorce.

When the matter came up Lecompte wrote, "Mme. Bonaparte is to appear and exert the blandishments of her beauty and address to induce a favorable impression upon the legislature."

Betsy Patterson Bonaparte died at the age of 93. Her grandson, the late Charles J. Bonaparte, became both secretary of the navy and attorney general under President Theodore Roosevelt.

MACK'S FUNERAL AT LOS ANGELES, WIDOW DECIDES

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Charlie Mack, comedian of the "Two Black Crows" team, will be held here, according to telegraphed instructions from Mrs. Myrtle Buckley Mack, his widow. Mrs. Mack was injured in the automobile accident in Mesa, Ariz., in which Mack was killed.

Besides Mrs. Mack, who was driving the heavy automobile when the blowout of a rear tire caused it to overturn several times, others in the car were: George (Searcy) Moran, Mack's blackface partner; Mary Jane Mack, 18 year old daughter by his first marriage, and Mack Sennett, motion picture producer, who had plans for starring the "Black Crows" team on termination of their automobile trip west. None of these was seriously hurt.

AIMARO SATO, 77, JAP ENVOY IN U. S. DURING WAR, DIES

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Aimaro Sato, 77, Japanese ambassador to Washington from 1916 to 1918, died today, a victim of arteriosclerosis.

Sato, during his career one of the most widely respected members of the Japanese department of state, was a former minister to Holland and Denmark, Mexico and Belgium, and a former ambassador to Austria before representing his country in the United States. He was honorary president of the Japan society of New York and an alumnus of De Pauw university of Greencastle, Ind. In 1917 he was given an honorary degree of doctor of laws by Princeton university.

Sato was a firm advocate of fast friendship between Japan and the United States. In an address on his arrival in Washington as ambassador he expressed the hope that friendship and commercialism would knit the two nations so closely that "there will be no room left for the criminal work of mischief-makers."

FATHER HUDSON, EDITOR, IS DEAD AT NOTRE DAME

Father Hudson was ordained in 1875, at which time he joined the faculty of the University of Notre Dame. He became editor of the Ave Maria, one of the leading Catholic weeklies, and held the position until 1930. He was an occasional contributor to secular and religious journals and the publisher of numerous Catholic books, some of which he edited.

Born of Methodist parents in Nahant, Mass., Dec. 18, 1849, Father Hudson became a convert to the Catholic church early in life. He once wrote to his close friend, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, that he wanted to be "a Catholic priest and missionary among the Indians."

Rites for B. J. Humphrey in Jackson, Mich., Today

Bissell J. Humphrey, 5452 Kimbark avenue, will be buried today at Jackson, Mich., his boyhood home. Mr. Humphrey died here Thursday at the age of 78. He was retired by the Illinois Central system in 1926 after 53 years of service with the company, being auditor's chief clerk at that time. Married in 1834, he is survived by his wife, two daughters and three grandchildren. The daughters are Mrs. Winifred Spith of Chicago and Mrs. Russell Foley of Flint, Mich.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Sensational Models Need the Right Head.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

More than slightly rakish new hats continue to shock the wandering shopper, but just try and find a person who doesn't yearn to try one of the most sensational models. These hats certainly do something for your spirit . . . tipsy affairs give you that enviable air of dash that only a hat can achieve . . . sharply upturned and often funny looking models do daring and different effects on the right head and if a new hat is the panacea needed for a drooping morale.

There are brilliant collections of white hats, straw, fabric, and silk crêpes as well as some stunning felts, and even though you are lingering around home this winter some of these white hats will be a good contrast for your dark suits or coats.

One shop has some charming striped hats with ruffled ascot scarfs to match, made of semi-rough silk crêpe . . . stripes that are neat, anything but gawdy, but unquestionably effective as a colorful rejuvenator of otherwise drab headlines or necklines.

The newest hats are new because of the quantities of fine stitchery . . . many of them are fashioned and deftly molded because of the rows and rows and the manner of intricate stitching. One exceptionally lovely creation of pat beige straw to pack in a southbound trunk is completely covered with tucked net. Another crêpe is stitched from the peak of the gay little crown to the last edge of the brim and then for an extra bit of swank three narrow strips of pigskin leather are buckled at the side with three small golden metal buckles. It's the detail this season that marks the smartest hats.

Something else to wear on your hair are the newest flowered bandeaux . . . half hoops of scarlet, gardenia white, sooty black, and chartreuse green full blown velvet flowers that are quite the loveliest things you have ever seen. They are particularly nice for slim young party frocks and dance dresses of pastel shades. Just what you want for something a bit different from the more dignified and rigid diadems and halos of metal.

Co-eds at Butler Will Pay Dance Date Expenses

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The men of Butler university here have been invited to the "Riters' Roundup," a dance to be given by Theta Sigma Phi, woman's professional journalistic sorority, next Friday. All expenses will be met by the co-eds. They will buy cigarets, provide transportation, pay for tickets, and take charge of bills for refreshments. Butler's most popular man student will be chosen at the party and will receive a loving cup.

Swashbuckling Felts Dominate Paris Hat Styles

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Felt hats that have dashing, swashbuckling rims are the newest Paris millinery style. They are worn with the supple brims rolled up at the side front in the dashing manner shown here and appear with both dressy and tailored clothes on the streets of Paris.

This shape looks like a future winner of the millinery styles sweepstakes, replacing the tiara hat that threatens to get into the dollar-ninety-eight class pronto. It has the virtue of being flattering to faces that show the wear and tear of the years as well as to the 18 years kind.

At the top is Rose Descat's new swashbuckling hat, made of fine, soft antelope felt, in rose red. Its rather wide brim is tucked at the side front, over the left eye, so it makes wing-like swoops up at the sides. The back brim, which is considerably narrower than the front, is tucked in the same way.

The Le Monnier hat sketched at the bottom is worn askew in the same way and pulled dashingly low and forward at the right side. It turns up across the front in a slanting line and has a shaving brush of black tipped ostrich for trimming. It is made of black felt.

Hampden Gives 'Macbeth' First Time in Chicago

Actor's Figure Perfect Fit for Role of King.

"MACBETH."

Shakespeare's tragedy, given by Walter Hampden and his repertory company in the Erlanger theater Jan. 12, 1934, under the auspices of the American Theater society.

THE CAST.

Duncan	Franklin Salisbury
Malcolm	John D. Seymour
Donalbain	Edwin Ross
Macbeth	Walter Hampden
Banquo	Dallas Anderson
MacDuff	Ernest Rowan
Fleance	Erna Rowan
Siward	Hannam Clark
Seyton	Hayden Rorke
A Porter	F. J. Kelly
Lady Macbeth	Mabel Moore
First Witch	LeRoi Operti

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Walter Hampden's interpretation of "Macbeth," given last night in the Erlanger theater, is a novelty for Chicago playgoers, unless my memory is having one of its lapses. He assumed the rôle of the murderous, witch haunted Scottish king twelve years ago in New York, but made little use of it on his tours. Therefore this performance came as a new chapter in the education of the Shakespearean audience in this city.

His treatment of this tragic rôle is impressive. His fine, virile figure is exactly suited to the legend of Macbeth's military prowess, and his voice, always noble and commanding in the heroic vein, gives sweeping effect to the superb speeches that Shakespeare put into the mouth of this mediaeval killer. So far as visual persuasiveness and the poetry of the text are concerned, I have never seen a beter Macbeth.

But, on the other hand, the character demands fire and frenzy and a sinister quality—elements that are not marked in the Hampden personality. He is the ideal Hamlet, but he lacks the dash of devilry that would make him the perfect Macbeth.

However, my playgoing experience has not yet discovered a perfect Macbeth. Traditionally regarded as a great acting rôle, the assassin of Duncan and Banquo has never appeared on the stage, for me, in the full splendor of his horrifying record. He fails to communicate the intense thrill that comes from the printed page. Perhaps he is too violent a character for the modern stage, and when he occasionally found a violent interpreter, such as Sothern was, the inspiration was lacking and the reading was defective.

Hampden's reading is magnificent. His intelligence and lucid utterances free the text from its obscurities and gives the great passages of verse the full value of their haunting and ominous tone-color. His gifts are performing a much needed service to the contemporary stage; they are restoring poetic drama to the affection of the average playgoer.

Lady Macbeth, another rôle that has tempted and baffled many players of the first magnitude, is ably acted by Mabel Moore [Mrs. Hampden]. There is strange music in her voice and a deathly calm in her manner. She treats the character quietly, without seeking to reach its melodramatic flashes. She communicates the eerie quality of this dangerous woman but misses her grim and fatal dominance.

The other members of Mr. Hampden's company, who are getting to seem like old friends as this repertory progresses through its catalogue, are well cast. Ernest Rowan is properly vehement as Macduff, and the three witches [acted by men] are elaborately supernatural.

Mr. Hampden's only other performance of "Macbeth" in this engagement will be given next Wednesday afternoon.

The Duncan Sisters will bring their engagement in a new version of "Topsy and Eva" to a close at the Apollo theater tonight.

Eva Le Gallienne will drop "Alice in Wonderland" and "Romeo and Juliet" out of the repertory of her tour two weeks hence. She will continue her travels toward the Pacific coast in three dramas by Ibsen—"Hedda Gabler," "The Master Builder," and "The Doll's House." Josephine Hutchinson, the Alice of her company, will play Nora in the latter.

Bill Is Changed as French Ask Opera Royalty

An announcement of a change of program for today's matinée of the Chicago Grand Opera company was made yesterday afternoon. Instead of Massenet's "Manon," as scheduled, Gounod's "Faust" will be presented with Dimitri Onofrei in the name part, Chase Baromeo as Mephistopheles and Edith Mason singing the part of Marguerite.

The cancellation of "Manon," in which Marion Claire would have sung the part of Manon, followed receipt of a cablegram from the French publishers who control the score rights. The publishers demanded $1,500 royalties for the use of the score in addition to the $500 paid for rental. Opera company officials stated that this demand was "outrageous."

The substitution of "Faust" should not disappoint any music lovers, it was pointed out. It is, like Manon, an opera in French.

N. U. Co-eds Hold Preview of Junior Prom Gowns

Eight pretty co-eds paraded yesterday in the lobby of the Georgian hotel in Evanston in a fashion preview of gowns to be worn at the Junior prom of Northwestern university in the Aragon ballroom on June 19. The preview was public. Men's styles were modeled by five male students. The co-eds were Helen Garvey, Charlotte Werth, Betty Lapp, Ann Mason, Nancy Getty, Joyce Snider, Beatrice McCurdy, and Mary Manley.

Woman's Board of Passavant Plans Benefit

Sponsors Opening Night of Ballet Troupe.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THOSE clever women—there are about forty of them—who compose the woman's board of the Passavant hospital, don't believe in that old adage that "the early bird catches the worm" for all winter they have watchfully waited for something very special to come along that they could utilize as a benefit, and, lo and behold, at last they have secured just what they wanted—something spectacular and unusual and sure to be a success.

They have taken over the first night of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe in the Auditorium, and if Chicago's first night is as brilliant as New York's was on Dec. 22, Friday, Feb. 16, will be gala night at the popular old theater. And in the golden horseshoe of boxes will be seen many of the same faces that used to be seen there in the days when grand opera was produced in the Auditorium, for there isn't a doubt but that the boxes will be filled with socialites.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, president of the board, is inviting the board to tea at her apartment, 1430 Lake Shore drive, next Tuesday afternoon, to discuss ways and means of filling the theater that night. Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is honorary president of the board, Mrs. James R. Offield and Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, vice presidents; Mrs. Gardiner B. Van Ness, treasurer; Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, recording secretary.

Among others on the board are Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, Mrs. Mark W. Trude, Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Adolph O. Hartmann, Mrs. Orville E. Babcock, and Mrs. James Murray Washburn.

The ballet, which will close a successful engagement of four weeks in New York the end of next week, is said to be full of thrills and enchantment. There are 64 dancers and a full symphony orchestra presenting a répertoire of twelve modern and classic ballets.

Miss Margaret Carr to Be Bride Today.

Four young matrons who are to be guests this afternoon at the wedding of Miss Margaret Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Carr, to Marshall G. Sampsell, son of Marshall E. Sampsell, will feel a proprietary pride in the stunning rosepoint veil Miss Carr is to wear.

It has been worn by each one of them . . . Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr., Mrs. Albert Elliott, Mrs. Roger Q. White, and Mrs. Edward Hibben . . . on their wedding days and it will probably be used by several more brides in days to come. The veil, a handsome piece of lace, was made in Sorrento for an Italian princess and was first worn in Chicago by Mrs. Hibben.

Dr. Dudley Stark, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, is to read the service at 5 o'clock in the drawing room of the Carr apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive before an improvised altar banked with rubrum lilies and lighted with slim white tapers.

Mrs. Norton Conway [Charlotte Vanderlip] is here from New York City to attend Miss Carr as matron of honor. Her bridesmaids will be her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert S. Carr [Katherine Cowin] and her cousin, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins.

David Sampsell is to serve his brother as best man and ushering will be William A. P. Watkins of Lake Forest and Philip Taber of Buffalo.

Touch of Spring

There was a feeling of spring in the lovely pyramids of jonquils, crocuses, and narcissi used as table decorations yesterday for the luncheon given by Mrs. Louis Henry Risser for her daughter, Miss Jean Risser, at the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Forty members of the younger set, many of them debutantes of this winter season, attended the party which was held in one of the private dining rooms effectively decorated for the occasion with screens of smilax. Against these stood huge urns of American beauty roses that matched the armload of roses carried by Miss Risser.

Pick Head from Crowd Photo for Book Jacket; Rabbi Sues Publishers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The picture of a bearded Jew on the paper jacket of the recently published book, "Jew at Bay," has resulted in a damage suit against Philip and Alan, publishers.

The head was selected from a crowd picture taken at random around a soap box orator in Hyde park. It was seized upon because it was thought to be replete with racial characteristics.

Now steps forward one Rabbi Reubin Eichenstein, well known in the Jewish quarter in west London, who says the picture is of him. Moreover, readers claim the picture on the jacket jibes with the character in the book. The firm withdrew all the jackets they could find, but the rabbi is pressing the suit.

Three Radio Rogues.
Lennie Hayton's Orchestra.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This, with a running accompaniment of music and dancing, is the story of Mr. Bing Crosby as a golden apple for possession of which—or whom—a Hollywood "extra" girl and a French actress furiously contend.

Mr. Crosby, contriving to look throughout like a helpless blond archangel none too bright, goes crooning on his way. Miss Marion Davies—as an eastern schoolma'am who had fallen in love with that voice at the Briarton seminary, and forsaken all else to follow it and its owner to Hollywood, where he's scheduled to act in a movie—pursues the singer passionately but purely.

Mlle. Fifi D'Orsay (his French leading lady, with whom he believes himself in love) does all but gobble the liter alive, after her intense (acquired) foreign fashion, and it seems as if she's going to make him and his career resemble something the cat dragged in when—the archangel does a Trilby!

As one hynotized he responds to the yearning mental call of Miss Davies—who, by this time, has been engaged to take naughty, temperamental Fifi's place in the picture, and the finale discovers—honey, go on guess! What you all bet the finale discovers?

Miss Marion Davies is a charmingly generous person. She gives yards of limelight that she could quite well monopolize herself to others in her cast. Though she is apt at aping, she offers only one exhibition of her own clever mimicry and fades into the background while the Three Radio Rogues take off various radio personalities. This episode, to my way of thinking, is the best part of the show.

The star, far more attractive and able as a woman than she was as a girl, makes a nice job of an incredible rôle. For the story of "Going Hollywood" is quite the most improbable "back stage" hodgepodge that ever trickled from a scenario writer's distraught noodle. However, the music's pleasing, some of the sets and costumes are gorgeous, the supporting cast is able and likable, and Miss Davies a gracious treat to behold.

See you tomorrow!

Silk Crepe from Chicago Shop

From a Chicago shop. Clean, fresh black and white printed silk crepe fashions one of the newest daytime dresses, especially recommended by Rhea Seeger. The feminine accent of narrow white lace on the fine pleatings of the demure high jabot collar and the long pleated cuffs combine to make the dress one of the smartest early spring models. Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

IF prospective buyers and curiosity seekers thronging the home of the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick wonder as to the identity of the tall, blonde, quiet mannered, and efficient woman who seems to know more about the place than any one else, she is Gertrude Helenthal, secretary to Mrs. McCormick during the last eight years of her life. Miss Helenthal still lives in the gray stone mansion on Lake Shore drive, occupying the book-lined room off Mrs. McCormick's bedroom she always has occupied. So unspectacular has been her handling of a spectacular post—secretary to the woman once called the richest in the world—and so helpful has she been since her employer's death that the Chicago Title and Trust company has retained her to assist in the administration of the estate.

Secretary—Name—Ignorant.

* *

DURING the years Miss Helenthal was standing as a buffer between Mrs. McCormick and a world eager to invade her privacy she also was studying law. Her late employer was interested in her legal career and arranged her work so that it would not interfere with her studies. During Mrs. McCormick's illness Miss Helenthal was her constant companion and read aloud to her every day; then she would retire to her law books. Recently she was admitted to the bar.

It was Miss Helenthal who rearranged the furniture for the auction sale into some semblance of the manner in which it was arranged during the lifetime of Mrs. McCormick. It was Miss Helenthal who sat beside Muriel McCormick Dyer at the recent auction of her mother's effects in New York and supported her in the ordeal she obviously felt it to be. It is Miss Helenthal who daily straightens out innumerable problems in connection with the pending auction in Chicago. And when the newly fledged lawyer leaves the mansion on the drive to embark on her new career, two possessions of both sentimental and intrinsic value will accompany her. They are a pair of magnificently embroidered linen sheets and a great gold ladle from the famous Borghese dinner service. These the former secretary purchased at auction in New York. And these, surely, symbolize fittingly the era of her secretaryship to the woman she loved and mourns.

* *

PERHAPS you knew it all along, but we just learned why the Lake Forest estate of Mrs. McCormick was called Villa Turicum. Turicum was the name of the old Latin settlement on the site of the city of Zurich, in Switzerland, where Mrs. McCormick lived during the years of her self-imposed exile from America.

* *

THE little boy who hadn't learned all there was to know the first day at school but had to go back the next day reminded a Riverside lady of her small friend, James Baird. The day before he started to school his mother took him to the barbershop for a haircut.

"Well, James, I hear you are starting to school tomorrow," commented the barber as he snipped at his hair.

"Yes, I'm 6 years old and don't know a thing," admitted James.

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norrikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Pomeroy is allowed to join the family circle. He manages to elude his guard. Grateful, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norrikoff tells Pomeroy they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter. Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work. Pomeroy arranges through Grateful to get food supplies from Andy Mason, the caretaker. He has fallen in love with Irma Orleneff, Boris' sister. Cyril's mother dies and his father commits suicide. Cyril had left before the tragedy in a leaky boat to get help from the mainland. Meanwhile, in New York, Herbert Schuyler, a witness to Pomeroy's abduction, comes forward. He traces the license number of the car that was used. It is owned by two brothers in Maine, of good reputation. Schuyler goes to Maine to see them. Pomeroy has put up a signal of distress on the island, which has been sighted. The Bradleys and Schuyler sail to the rescue. Other business associates of Pomeroy's follow.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

IN LUCK.

Pomeroy handed Grateful a bank note. "Besides what you get for us, replace all you got from Andy and double it for the accommodation."

"But I paid him!" Grateful was outraged.

"So much the better. The new supplies will be a present. Get a lot of cigarets for your boss and anything you want in the tobacco line for yourself. And here's another bill. This one is for you—to get whatever you need."

"Say, gov'nor," Grateful spoke huskily, "am I goin' back to New York wit' you an' the family?"

Pomeroy hesitated, but only for an instant.

"I'm going to ask you a question, Grateful," he said then, "and I want the truth. Have you a prison record?"

Grateful's shoulders sagged a little but he answered at once.

"Yep," he said crisply.

"What is it?"

"Two terms—for burglary. One for two years, one fer t'ree. Bot' commuted fer good behavior."

"Anything else?"

"Not a t'ing, gov'nor."

"How long ago was that?"

"Seven years sense I got out the last time—and I've went straight ever sense—s'help me gawd. I went to California an' I stayed there till I come back wit' the boss."

Master Boris Orleneff Pomeroy.

"Any trouble out there?"

"Nothin'—I ain't done a t'ing sense I knowed the boss—s'help me——"

"Never mind that now. I'm taking your word for this. Any of the New York police got anything else against you that might make trouble or embarrass the family?"

"All right, I'm going to give you a break—a good one. I'll keep an eye on you, but it will be a friendly one."

At something he saw in the other's eyes Bruce added quickly, "Confound you, you know perfectly well we wouldn't leave you behind!"

Grateful knew nothing about coals of fire, but he was experiencing the sensation the phrase describes.

"I ain't much good, no more," he admitted.

"You're worth three ordinary men. You'll be yourself as soon as you've had some doctoring and stopped working like a dray horse. Your new job with Mme. Orleneff and her son will be an easy one. And any doctor will tell you the best way to last a hundred years is to have a chronic heart ailment. With that, a man takes care of himself and lives forever."

"T'anks, gov'nor."

Grateful's grin would have illuminated the distant harbor. Pomeroy grinned in return, nodded, and joined the others in the hall. He was feeling a bit conscience stricken about Jack Daniels. He had lost sight of that rescuer in the general excitement, and at the pier he shook hands with a fervor designed to apologize for the oversight.

"Awful glad to find you all right, Mr. Pomeroy," Daniels said. "Hope I ain't buttin' in, but the only thing I could think to do was to come up here. You see, sir," he said earnestly, "we had no clew, 'cept Mr. Schuyler's—an' now young Bradley says that wasn't no clew anyhow."

Pomeroy didn't know what he meant, but he shook his head.

"I'll never do a disappearing act again," he promised. "It's too much of a strain on the nerves of my friends. But I won't forget your interest, Jack."

"It's mighty good to find you all right, boy," Mr. Vanderhoof said earnestly, as they walked side by side along the private pier. He had been having some deep thoughts. That story of Schuyler's, now. . . . He threw out a line.

"Say, that was a peach of a girl by the fire," he said.

"You mean——"

"Yes, if I can get her. I'm working hard on that job. But so far she has turned me down."

"You'll get her, all right. And say, boy, you'll be in luck!"

"Don't tell me," Pomeroy grinned.

It was clear to Vanderhoof that Schuyler had been all wrong about what he thought he saw.

Schuyler, walking gloomily behind them, heard these felicitations but took no part in them. He knew Irma was not the girl he had seen in the park. He was ready to believe that everything was all right—everything, that is, except the Atlantic ocean. His eyes were on that restless foreground, and his expression was one of acute prejudice.

On a brilliant Saturday afternoon in June, more than three years after Bruce Pomeroy's adventure on Crosby's island, he and his wife were standing on the lawn of their summer home on Long Island, happily engaged in that popular occupation described by Mrs. Pomeroy as "watching the baby."

The baby was worth watching. He had red-brown hair, purposeful brown eyes, an enchanting little face, a plump and perfect body, and an expression of engaging pugnaciousness. His slogan was that expressed in a once popular song, "I Want What I Want When I Want It." He had never been ill a day in his short life, and all his wants were speedily met by a devoted domestic circle. This being a satisfactory condition his disposition was excellent. He was also by way of being an athlete. He liked having an audience for his performance, and there was a highly satisfactory audience before him at the moment. In addition to his father and mother, his devoted grandmother, who was spending a few weeks with the family, was hastening across the lawn to get a closer view of his activities.

Master Boris Orleneff Pomeroy obligingly gave them his best. He was somewhat handicapped, for he was locked into a twenty foot square railed inclosure, and the rail was two and a half feet high. However, the soft grass under him was covered by a rug, and there were few penalties for miscalculations. He turned somersaults. He endeavored to stand on his head. He tied himself into a knot. He rolled a ball, pursued it in a frenzy, and fell on it with a force that knocked the breath out of his body. He raced frantically with the puppy that was his companion inside the inclosure. Repeatedly, between these activities, he endeavored to climb over the rail and reach the wider spaces in which grownups moved, accepting his frequent falls and bumps without complaint.

His mother and grandmother watched him with obvious rapture. His father followed the infant's performance more thoughtfully.

"Some German scientist," Bruce said at last, "once spent a day in the nursery with his 2 year old son. He imitated every motion and action of the kid, and after the experiment he was in bed for a week. He'd have been in bed for a month if he had imitated this 2 year old for one hour."

The mother and grandmother beamed, accepting the remark as a high compliment.

Teacher Should Respect Child's Physical Needs

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A recent letter finishes in this way:

"Another thing—the teacher that he has this term [the boy is seven] does not permit him to leave the room when he finds it necessary, and on several occasions he has wet his clothes. Do you think I ought to go up and speak to her?"

Of course the answer is, decidedly, yes.

Teachers do not always realize the physical discomfort that the confinement of school frequently brings to the younger children. They are absorbed in their work and sometimes get into an attitude of mind in which they consider these natural needs of the children an interruption, or an attempt to get out of the room. If they are teachers who haven't children of their own they don't always realize that these younger children can't routine-ize their bodies so that they need to go to the bathroom only at recess or lunch time.

I know one young teacher, a recent normal school graduate, who was teaching first grade in a fine large private school and who was disapproving whenever the children wanted to leave the room and who would never let them go during assembly—to the great discomfort of the children and sometimes with accidents most mortifying to them. Yet she was perfectly kind at heart.

Other teachers are most understanding about the young children in their classes. A number of teachers I know allow their children to leave the room at any time with a simple, quiet explanation of where they are going, such as: "I'm going to the bathroom" or "I'm going to get a drink," or if it's a free period, "I'm going to the library." Children treated in this way are not apt to abuse their privileges. But even if one or two do, that is better than making a rule which is harmful to all the others.

and after this a wedding supper will be served. Mr. Sampsell and his bride are to leave tonight on a honeymoon trip to Bermuda. Upon their return to Chicago they will live at 6 East Elm street.

Famous Veil Shown at Institute.

Those who weren't among the 100 relatives and intimate friends who witnessed the ceremony that united in marriage Miss Florence Crane and William Albert Robinson and so saw the historically interesting and beautiful Brussels lace veil that the bride wore, can see it now in the Allerton wing of the Art institute, for Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. has loaned it to the institute.

The veil, an exquisite thing, was made for the Empress Elizabeth of Austria and was presented to her by the Belgium provinces upon the birth of the Crown Prince Rudolph in 1857. Mrs. Crane said yesterday that the latest news from the Robinsons, who were married last February and now are on their way to the Galapagos Islands, is that the Svaap, the small sloop in which they are cruising, will be ready by the middle of next week and that they will leave Panama at that time. The boat went aground in November and the couple was marooned for several weeks in the jungle but reached Panama in time to spend Christmas with the Cornelius Cranes. Mrs. Robinson's brother and sister-in-law.

Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne of Washington, D. C., who has been Mrs. Crane's guest, is leaving tomorrow.

Included in the same exhibition at the institute are a handkerchief, also said to have belonged to Empress Elizabeth and now belonging to the Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Ayer collection, and another veil of fine Brussels lace that belongs to the Antiquarian society.

Party Tonight for Young People.

The William H. Lyonses, who have been doing quite a bit of entertaining for the younger generation this winter, are giving a buffet dinner at their Indian Hill home tonight for Miss Barbara Bastien, Miss Marie Louise Gardner, and Miss Anne Palmer. The Lyonses had planned to take the debutantes and their beaux over to the Indian Hill club for winter sports, but the weather yesterday did not seem to hold much promise of ice skating or tobogganing.

Instead of going out of doors after dinner the young people will probably crowd around the piano to sing to Sammy's playing or to dance.

It is a certain guess that more than one prim, proud, and poised society matron will be seeing ghosts this evening after she listens to Elliot O'Donnell give his gripping tales of the haunted castles of the British isles this morning at the Drake hotel.

Mr. O'Donnell, one of the most entertaining characters in England today, is in Chicago to give the first post-holiday lecture in the popular Town Hall series. He will be introduced at 11 o'clock by Mrs. Meta Dewes Burgweger, president of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins which benefits from the lectures.

Although Mr. O'Donnell is not a spiritualist, he believes firmly that there are many things that cannot be explained by science. His father was murdered. His grandfather was a pirate. He has heard about ghosts since he was a boy. He has seen them, listened to them, and believes in them. When at home his favorite sport is ghost hunting with Lord Curzon of Keddleston and the duke of Newcastle.

Children's Swim Meet at W. A. C.

The children's swimming meet this morning at the Woman's Athletic club will start with one of the most difficult of the contests—a swimming race under water—and the next event on the program will be a solo exhibition by Mrs. David Evans, who has joined the classes recently.

Among the children swimming in the event—with their eyes turned toward two prizes—are six little brothers and sisters, Josephine, Helen, Frances, Mary, Jane, and Leo Cummings Jr. Montgomery and Benny Young are two of the youngest entrants, and others are Lila Adams, Mary McCall, Barbara McClurg, Fifi Montgomery, Sally Glaser, and Jean Wolf.

Certainly the Council on Foreign Relations could have found no one better qualified to introduce Michael Kwapiszewski at its luncheon this noon at the Palmer house than Charles S. Dewey, for he served as adviser to the Polish government and as director of the Bank of Poland.

Mr. Kwapiszewski, formerly in the Polish diplomatic service, now lives in New York City. He will speak on "Poland in European Politics."

George A. Bates, just returned from a hunting trip in the north, is to referee a polo match this evening at the Chicago Riding club between the highest rated team in Detroit and a picked Riding club team.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will address the Highland Park League of Women Voters this evening at the Elm Place auditorium. Mrs. Frank P. Hixon of Lake Forest, president of the Illinois league, will have a place on the platform with Miss Perkins. And so will Mrs. Marc Law, president of the Highland Park league, and Mrs. Norman Meiners, chairman of the committee in charge of the program.

Dr. and Mrs. Grant H. Laing are giving a small informal buffet supper in their Astor street apartment tomorrow night for Mrs. Laing's cousin Miss Florence Otis, who is to be married on Feb. 3 to Wade Fetzer Jr.

Another party to be given soon for Miss Otis is a stocking shower that Mrs. G. Curtis Bird [Barbara Senn] is giving for her.

Mrs. Bird's twin sister, Miss Dorothy Senn, and her father, Dr. William N. Senn, have just returned from Florida where they went for a brief trip after Mrs. Bird's wedding.

Miss Lura Schreiner has invited about forty-five of Miss Otis' and Mr. Fetzer's friends to come in for cocktails a week from today.

Continue Mitchell Photograph Exhibit.

The exhibition of Clarence B. Mitchell's photographs has been such a success that it is going to be open to the public tomorrow from one until six o'clock in the Lord Nelson room of the Drake hotel.

Today the Public School Art society is going to inspect the photographs. The society's president, Mrs. Walter Brewster, will head the day's hostesses in the exhibition room, and she will be assisted by Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell had planned to return to Pasadena tomorrow but instead they will stay over another day to say good-by to their friends in the exhibition room while visitors are getting a final look at Mr. Mitchell's work.

When the Le Soleil Hockey club of Quebec meets the Baby Ruth sextet, champions of the Chicago Amateur Hockey association, next Saturday evening in the Coliseum, the proceeds will benefit the Chicago Junior school by way of the Tower Town group, an organization of benefactors on the north shore.

The Chicago Junior school cares for boys between 5 and 14 years. It is located on the banks of the Fox river near Elgin.

Mrs. Boysen Forced to Cancel Dinner.

Mrs. Louis K. Boysen has been forced to cancel the dinner party she was giving tonight for Harold Bauer and Ossip Gabrilowitsch, for Mr. Bauer wired that an unexpected concert is delaying their arrival in Chicago until tomorrow morning. Mr. Bauer and Mr. Gabrilowitsch are giving a concert tomorrow afternoon at Orchestra hall.

Just how simple Mrs. Ernest R. Graham's job is as chairman of the box committee for the President's ball on Jan. 30 at the Auditorium was proved yesterday when she called twenty representative Chicago women to invite them to serve on her committee. Half of them indicated their acceptance by subscribing for boxes immediately.

All of this indicates that there is to be a very important sum for the Georgia Warm Springs foundation, President Roosevelt's pet charity, which is to receive the proceeds of the ball. The entertainment is to be a huge revue by opera, screen, stage, and radio stars.

Mrs. John C. Beadle and Mrs. George M. Silverthorne Jr., who went to New York last week, are at home again.

Capt. and Mrs. John Patrick Crehan, who have come back here to make their home since Capt. Crehan is stationed with the 3d field artillery at Fort Sheridan, are settling themselves this week in a new home at 970 Armour Circle West in Lake Forest.

BY MARY MEADE.

It does seem that choosing a sweet potato is quite a bit like choosing a husband. You look to the appearance, complexion, soundness, and general sweetness of disposition. And, as is true in the case of men, there certainly are all sorts and descriptions on the market.

But how is your stock of facts about these sweets? Not so good? Then perhaps 'twill be news to you that here's a potato that's not a potato. Or, it's fairer to say that it's one that really has more right to the name than does the white Irisher. For it happens that the sweet potato isn't a tuber at all, but a flavorful, fleshy root which started out years ago with the name "batata." Then somebody discovered that the mealy tubers looked a bit like these sugary brown fellows, so they lumped them all together and tacked on the name "potatoes."

Likely you've already discovered that sweet potatoes are sorted into two types. There are the dry meated or greenish yellow kind, and the moist meated, or orange yellow type, which are known as yams. These last are a bit sweeter than the others, but either kind makes itself into delicious treasures, all the way from soups to desserts, not to mention the muffins, waffles, salads, omelets, and casserole dishes into which they so joyfully turn up.

Take waffles, by way of a starter. The following pattern will give you enough for three waffles, so double it if you boast a big hungry family:

SWEET POTATO WAFFLES.

1-3 cup shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1 cup mashed sweet potatoes
2 teaspoons baking powder
30 soda crackers
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon, dash of nutmeg

Cream the softened fat with the sugar, then stir in the well beaten egg yolks and the milk. Add the rest of the ingredients except the egg whites, beat well, and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Have a waffle iron hot and spoon in part of the mixture. Bake until crisp and golden brown on both sides. Serve these very hot with a dusting of powdered sugar, or with hot maple sirup.

Then, who's had a sweet potato pie? And didn't you grow positively speechless over its lusciousness? The recipe I like best runs in this fashion:

SWEET POTATO PIE.

It starts off with a cracker crust. If I'm to like it the best. But if you have, instead, a baked pie shell in mind, why go right to it. The filling will be the same. To make the cracker crust follow the usual system:

16 graham crackers
1-3 cup butter
2 tablespoons sugar

Roll the crackers to fine crumbs and blend thoroughly with the softened butter and the sugar. Press the mixture in an even layer against the sides and bottom of a well buttered pie pan. Now mix the following filling:

1¼ cups mashed sweet potatoes
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of nutmeg
2 eggs, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
¼ cup butter, melted

Mix all the ingredients together and pour them into the cracker crust, which has not been baked. Bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for about 50 minutes, or until firm and browned. Serve hot or cold, with or without sweetened whipped cream.

Now to wind up the subject with a flourish, the last thought today is for a surprise that gets itself much talked about wherever it turn up. It's for—

SWEET POTATO SECRETS.

Simply whip 2 cups of cooked sweet potatoes with a little hot milk until fluffy, but not too soft. Add pepper and salt to season, and also stir in ½ teaspoon of baking powder. Now get out 12 fresh marshmallows and form two tablespoons of the potato mixture in a ball around each marshmallow. Roll the balls in bread crumbs, in diluted egg, and again in bread crumbs. Fry them in deep, hot fat [390 degrees F.] until golden brown and puffy. Drain on rough paper and serve at once with baked apple rings.

Richard Arlen Gets Back Into His Golf Stride

Loses $700 in Single Week After Slump.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Since Richard Arlen is getting back on his golf game, it must be a big relief to his wife, Jobyna Ralston. Dick was a golfer of mettle about two years ago. He won $1,700 in bets from fellow film actors who insisted on venturing a five spot on a round and a buck on a hole. On one occasion he caused the film industry to sway violently by shooting a 68. But then Dick got so busy that his game became rusty, and when he came back to the links last autumn he found certain friends, led by Bing Crosby, waiting for him with anticipation.

The anticipation became more zestful as Dick started off by going around in the nineties, and inside of one week the friends had won back $700 of the $1,700. Now Dick is back on his game, in the middle and low eighties, and holding the losses like the Frenchmen held Verdun. But it was a couple of tough months for Mrs. Arlen.

Dorothy Dell and her blonde 19 year old sister, Helen [Goff] Dell have been joined here by their daddy, Eldred Goff, former New Orleans lumberman. The Paramount makeup man says Dorothy, who is ex-Miss Universe, needs less makeup than any other actress on that lot, nothing but a bit of lipstick and some eye shade and she's fit for the camera. Reason for this is in her olive hued complexion and the texture of her fine skin. Her one inch eyelashes save the makeup department even that worry of gumming on long ones.

Clara Lou Sheridan, Dallas newcomer to films, had to have a tooth pulled and took gas. Being still a bit woozy when she got home, she stuck her hand right through the glass door instead of reaching for the doorknob. Several stitches were required.

Toby Wing is back from her sister Pat's wedding in the east, and what do you think she is wearing as a memento? Pat's engagement ring.

Joe E. Brown and Alice White had to "hold" a closeup kiss for more than three minutes in a scene at Warner's yesterday, the hood of the silent sound camera sticking when the director wanted to take a look at the couple through his finder, and necessitating some screwdriver work to unbutton the hood.

Irene Martin Gallagher, Skeets' former wife, has been acting as a stand-in for Colleen Moore. She occasionally plays minor parts. Pauline Gallagher, Skeets' present wife, has opened a style shop in Westwood Village. Margaret Lindsay's brunette sister, Helen Kies of Iowa, is acting as Margaret's stand-in.

Camera Men Get Thrill as Rhinoceros Charges Cage

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Mary, 3,000 pound rhinoceros in the newest of Johnny Weissmuller's "Tarzan" productions, became peeved and charged the length of her stockade of telephone poles against the iron protective cage of the camera men today. No one was hurt, but the imbedded iron cage was bent and five camera men got the scare of their movie careers, all being shaken and jostled.

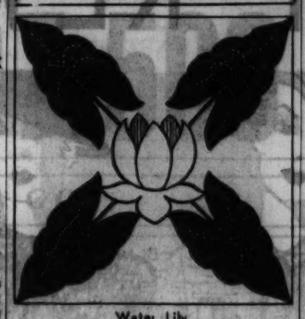
Dr. Bowman Is Installed at First Presbyterian

Dr. Harold L. Bowman, formerly of Portland, Ore., was installed last night as pastor of the First Presbyterian church, 64th street and Kimbark avenue. Dr. William Chalmers Covert of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian board of Christian education, was present. He spoke on the need for a new loyalty to the church.

Water Lily Design Makes Realistic and Dainty Quilt



Water Lily.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The water lily design is a delicately realistic block, with its soft colorings of cream, green, and touches of light blue, on a gold ground, with alternate blocks of white. The simple, clear cut lines in this floral pattern make it one that is particularly easy to appliqué. The quilted veins in the green leaves afford a pleasant variation from the less unusual quilt pattern.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn street.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt entertained this afternoon at one of the small teas of which she is giving a series. Earlier in the afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt went to Fort Meyer to witness the cavalry drill exhibition.

Tonight Mrs. Roosevelt was principal guest at the banquet of the General Federation of Women's clubs now meeting here.

Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, wife of the secretary of the interior, has issued invitations for a luncheon on Jan. 23 for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Dr. Ali Kuli Khan, former Persian minister, has accepted the invitation of Northwestern university to give a series of lectures there from Jan. 20 to Jan. 27, during which time he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham at their home in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Sturges of Chicago and Washington have as their guest David Hawkins of London, who is spending a month in this country with his mother, Lady Hawkins, widow of Lord Anthony Hawkins. She is remaining in New York.

WEDDINGS

Announcement is made by Mrs. Anne J. Wyneken of Evanston of the marriage on Dec. 30 of her daughter, Jean Mac Kenzie, to Vaughn Harrison Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarion DeWitt Hardy, also of Evanston. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Alan Wyneken, and was attended by Miss Elisabeth Walker as maid of honor, and by Miss Mary Louise Hardy, Miss Ruth Brock, Miss Corolyn Clark, and Miss Elizabeth Freudenreich as bridesmaids.

DeWitt Hardy Jr. was best man for his brother, and ushering were Benjamin and Shaller Philbrick, Volney Wilson and Walter Knopfle. The service was read by the Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle in the chapel of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. and Mrs. Hardy will be at home after Jan. 25 at 719 Mulford street, Evanston.

Mrs. Patrick J. McDermott of 5556 West Jackson boulevard announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Maurine, to Harry A. Bengal of Jackson, Mich., which will take place on Feb. 10 at 9:30 o'clock at the Church of the Resurrection. Mr. Bengal and his bride will make their home in Hot Springs, Ark.

Exercise, Not a Diet Alone, Reduces Hips

Antoinette Describes Some Good Ones.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Her height is five feet four. Her bust measurement 34, which according to height would be all right. But hips are forty inches, which is where inquirer's symmetrical desire is impaired. Thirty-six inches would be enough hip, according to the rule that says two inches more than bust measure for hips. Inquirer would be much better proportioned at five feet four, with bust 34 and hips 36.

A number of women are disproportioned so. The bust is normally and nicely in line with height but immense hips are developed. It would really be better to be overdeveloped in the upper part of the body than through the hips in this year's clothes anyway. But we're not arguing overdevelopment for any season. And planeing down the hips is no great trick with the exercises that can be performed without too much strain on time or muscle. I don't know any surplus weight that responds more easily than a diet one. Where only one part is overdeveloped or overweight, diet is not necessary and were better not indulged in.

You can stretch an inch of those hips simply by getting down on the floor and stretching full length, lying on back and then turning on sides and stretching like everything. Arising to feet, more stretching is urged. And then, the hips will quickly assume normal proportion:

Then, the bicycle movement, than which there is nothing better for hips and thighs. Lie on back, arms by sides, palms down. Raise legs up toward head, with buttocks off floor. Support buttocks on hands, elbows resting on mat. Now do bicycle pedaling movements with both feet and with verve and action.

Princess de Polignac Attributes Health of Child to Champagne

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Champagne as a part of baby's diet is recommended by Princess de Polignac of Paris.

The princess, who is vacationing here, said her 2 year old daughter, Diane, was baptized in the beverage and it has been a standard item on her diet for many months.

The princess said the two or three teaspoonfuls Diane gets at meal times were largely responsible for the child's "perfect health."

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Does it pay to entertain boys in the home?

The question is absorbing two young women, sisters, who found themselves on the shelf, so to speak, during the holiday party rush. Theirs was the young heartache to sit at home evenings while other girls in their group, who never entertained once during the entire year, got all the party breaks.

You boys will have to answer the question for us.

Do you appreciate the home hospitality, or is it one of those things in which you'd rather not be included? It cannot be the latter in the case we refer to, for the young men did accept the hospitality extended in a handsome manner by the parents of the girls in question. They came frequently and often to the girls' house, drank the drinks provided, smoked the cigarets, danced to the radio tunes, sang and made merry generally. In fact, they frequently called the girls up to know if they would be home in order that they might repeat the good times.

But holiday time came on, and not a boy extended to either girl one dance invitation. The girls who didn't give a care whether the boys had a place to hang their hats o' Sunday and Saturday and free week evenings were the popular ones during the rush season.

These neglected girls aren't duds. They're good looking and well dressed. It could not be their appearance that was against them.

What, then, is there about the girl who puts herself out to be nice to the boys and in return gets the cold shoulder when there is a chance of making a return.

We think it is pretty ungrateful, and were we the girls the hospitable doors would be forever closed against the unappreciative ones. And, in the future, we'd be pretty sure before we went in for repeated invitations to young men that they had the makings of return entertainers in them.

It brings up the question of just how much a girl can do for the boys, whether there is something in male makeup that resents a little the courtesies extended, even though they do accept and apparently enjoy them.

It's a question we are not qualified to answer. But if any of you young men can throw light on it, we'd be most grateful to hear from you.

AMUSEMENTS.

I HAVE SUCH A HEADACHE—I KNOW I WON'T BE ABLE TO SLEEP
YOU'RE ALWAYS EXHAUSTED ON MONDAY NIGHTS, ANN. I WISH YOU WOULDN'T SCRUB CLOTHES—YOU'RE NOT STRONG ENOUGH
WELL, SOMEBODY HAS TO DO THE WASH. WE CAN'T AFFORD A LAUNDRESS
NEXT WASHDAY
...AND YOU TELL BILL TO TELL HIS WIFE I'M SORE! SHE SHOULD HAVE TOLD ME ABOUT RINSO LONG AGO. I DIDN'T SCRUB OR BOIL TODAY, YET MY CLOTHES ARE 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER
AND YOU LOOK AS FRESH AS A DAISY
Rinso
RINSO MAKES CLOTHES LAST 2 OR 3 TIMES LONGER—I KNOW THAT WILL SAVE ME LOTS OF MONEY
I'LL never use a washboard again—that's what ruins clothes! The Rinso way is such a gentle way—yet clothes come whiter, brighter than ever. I'm using Rinso for dishes, too, now. I'm using it for all cleaning—it's so economical.
No wonder the makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso! And it's tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Try Rinso. See what rich, lively, long-lasting suds it gives—even in hardest water.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

CLASS DAY.

"I'm suffering from a lapse of memory this morning, I guess," Fordney remarked to his students. "A young chap, his name evades me, wrote me the other day asking me to have you fellows settle an argument that caused quite a stir in his office."

"Not a lapse of memory but too much holiday, professor," said Bill Balswick, secretary to the chief of detectives in the largest city in the middle west. His visit to the university was a delightful surprise to the criminologist who asked him to wait until class was over and then they could spend the day together—unless Inspector Kelley thrust an unexpected murder case under his nose!

Balswick's remark started a round of good-natured bantering. The professor's camaraderie was one of his many lovable traits that endeared him to his class.

"If you'll allow me to continue," Fordney interrupted with a mock expression of sternness, "the problem is this. For the hypothetical case our friend wants an answer to, we will eliminate all technicalities such as air velocity, wind resistance, etc. In Chicago, for example, a balloon rapidly ascends directly upward to a height of 20 miles into the stratosphere where it stays motionless for awhile and returns in a direct course to the ground in 8 hours time. Will the people who saw it take off and who patiently waited, see it land? Quickly now! Only halt a minute for this!"

WHAT'S YOUR ANSWER?

A Best Seller with the "Younger Set"! Kid Shoes with Lizard

What is a best seller in shoe fashions? It's a shoe that walks out as fast as it walks into our Moderate Price Section. That's the way these "younger set" straps and ties do. We attribute their popularity to the fact that they're perfect for street, with their straight heels. They're practical, too, because the genuine lizard keeps them from scuffing. Black or brown.

RUTH TO SIGN YANKEES' $37,500 CONTRACT

CHICAGO C. Y. O. FIGHTERS TIE ON COAST, 8-8

Intercity Bouts Are Evened by Rally.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Chicago Catholic Youth organization boxers broke even with a combined Los Angeles-San Francisco team tonight. Each team scored eight victories, Chicago coming through to tie the score with a pair of knockouts in the heavyweight division. The crowd numbered 10,000.

Freddie Schultz of Chicago put his team out in front by taking the first fight of the evening from Manuel Fuste, San Francisco flyweight. The crowd voiced its disapproval vociferously, but the decision of Referee George Blake and the two judges apparently was correct as Schultz scored with his straight punching.

Fuscaldo Wins Opener.

Henry Fuscaldo, Chicago flyweight, counted the second point for Chicago when he stopped Jimmy Smith of Los Angeles in the first round. He had Smith on the floor three times for counts of six and nine. The third time Smith went down Referee Joe Gorman stopped the bout.

Andy Scanavino, 118 pounds, made it three in a row for Chicago by beating Tino Derama, Los Angeles Mexican boy, in three rounds. He had his opponent staggering at the finish.

Jim Mace, 118 pounds, descendant of the original Jem Mace, father of boxing in England, whipped Johnny Scanavino of Chicago in the next bout chiefly through a no count knockdown in the third round. The punch caught Scanavino off balance and he was up before the timekeeper could begin the count.

Christy Is Victor.

Jimmy Christy, through superior boxing and hard punching, gave Emilio Magano, Los Angeles Mexican, a beating in a featherweight battle. Mickey Martin, San Francisco, six pounds over the featherweight limit, took a decision over Sam Scaglio of Chicago. Martin used his weight advantageously.

Norbert Meehan, San Francisco southpaw, took a decision from Phil Kenneally of Chicago in the first lightweight fight—a decision that was so bad it was funny to even San Francisco fans, who roared with laughter when the verdict was announced. Kenneally outboxed and outpunched his opponent, especially in the third round.

Lamonte Loses Decision.

The West took the lead and Bob Lamonte of Chicago lost to Andy Bozzano in the first welterweight bout. Lamonte did practically all the leading and most of the punching, but the verdict went to the west coast Italian.

Nestor Bruggman, Chicago welterweight, put his team on even terms when he gave Nick Petralia of Los Angeles a beating. In the second round, with Bruggman far ahead, he ran into a wild right hand punch to the chin that turned the tide of battle completely. He revived during the intermission, however, and had Petralia tired when the third round ended.

Wozniak Is Beaten.

Fred Apostoli, San Francisco middleweight, gave Charlie Wozniak a pasting all through the three rounds. Wozniak stood up under a stiff barrage of right and left hands and wound up with a slight cut over his right eye.

Jerry Breslin, Los Angeles middleweight, had too much experience for Tom Cahill of Chicago and took a decision. Cahill tried hard and came back for more all the time, but could not cope with Breslin's better boxing and straight punching.

Raymond Wozniak gave the Chicagoans another point when he whipped Leo Greenhalg of Los Angeles in three rounds. Greenhalg apparently was the much better boxer, but Wozniak carried the fight to him and outgamed the Southern California lightweight.

Girard De Clerq of San Francisco won an unpopular decision over Stanley Luzak of Chicago in the other light heavyweight bout. It was a slow contest.

Chicago Heavies Win.

John Logan, huge Chicago heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Larry Petrome of Los Angeles in the first round when, after Logan had knocked down Petrome twice for counts, Referee Toby Irwin stopped the unequal battle.

Jules Bracke, Chicago heavyweight, gave the Chicagoans an equal number of points in the final bout of the evening when he knocked out Joe Duffy of Los Angeles in the first round.

Western Teachers Beat North Central, 42 to 22

Macomb, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Western Illinois Teachers trounced North Central tonight, 42 to 22, to win their third straight Little Nineteen conference basketball victory. North Central scored first, but Western grabbed the lead and never was threatened. Western led, 21 to 5, at the half.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: An outstanding event of my mother's girlhood in Chicago was the death and burial in February, 1852, of David Kennison, Chicago's 115 year old revolutionary war hero, last survivor of the Boston "tea party." He had fought at Bunker hill and in other battles, carried dispatches for Gen. Washington, and saw the surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

Mr. Kennison's military funeral was a great public affair. Burial was in the City cemetery, located in what is now the southern part of Lincoln park, opposite Wisconsin street. A bowlder marks the approximate location of his grave, which was not disturbed when burial cases and bodies generally were removed to other cemeteries in 1865.

A neighbor of my mother in those years is yet living in the Englewood district—Mrs. Caroline M. Willets, widow of an early Chicago carriage manufacturer. She celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary in December at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Grace, and greeted over 100 callers with a handshake and personal remarks, mentally alert and well informed on current topics. The late Bishop Frank Bristol was her nephew.

Fred A. Ebersold.

I read a Helper's recent comment on the Keeley and Cooke breweries in the '80s. I knew Mike Keeley and John Cooke long before they were in that business. Keeley had a pop and soda water factory in the '60s and '70s at Harrison and Canal and was burned out in the Chicago fire. Cooke drove a bakery wagon and delivered bread in our neighborhood, around Canal street and Canalport avenue, in the '60s. I was born at Clinton and Van Buren streets in 1856. If my memory is correct, Keeley bought the Union brewery, started in the '60s. He was a west side alderman.

Medical Science.

Physicians, with their technical knowledge, always have confounded and mystified us. Now they have added to our confused awe. A member of The Wake household has been in a hospital for a week while daily consultations were held whether or not a difficult surgical operation should be performed.

Arriving at the hospital hollow eyed and weary after a sleepless night worrying over the possible decision, we found a cheerful patient in bed, with an open box of candy on the adjacent medicine stand. A goodly portion of the contents already had been consumed and the patient certainly was a participator.

Final decision, it seems, had been against surgery in favor of medical treatment. And candy was part of the cure. Candy? Yessir, generous amounts of hardy candy, to be dissolved in the mouth and not chewed. Why? Aw, we never could understand all that hard to pronounce doctor lingo, anyway.

Visitors are permitted to partake of sympathetic treatments. So we sympathized anew and partook of candy, immensely relieved by the final decision not to operate and approving heartily the subsequent treatment of patient and visitors.

CURTISS TROPHY RACE WON BY EASTERN FLYER

25,000 See Thrilling Air Program.

BY HUGH SEXTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 12.—Averaging 149.74 miles an hour over a 15 mile triangular course, Alton B. Sherman of Hyannis, Mass., today won the Glenn H. Curtiss trophy race, feature event of the All-American air races before a crowd of 25,000. His victory also was worth $200 in prize money.

Second place went to Tex Lagrone of Kansas City, whose speed was 145.69 miles an hour, which earned him $100. W. H. Grevemeyer of Miami was third with 145.20 miles and $75 in cash. L. J. Povey of Schnectady, N. Y., finished fourth with 134.90 miles an hour and won $50. Art Carnahan of Bloomington, Ill., collected $25 for fifth place by averaging 134.39 miles an hour.

Grevemeyer, who flew from Viking airport here, had the thrill that comes once in a lifetime. Rounding the home pylon on the second lap of the Curtiss trophy race he lost flying speed and his plane slipped off a vertical bank until his left wing trailed on the ground.

Grevemeyer Escapes Crash.

By all rights, the plane should have crashed, but Grevemeyer regained control miraculously and flew on to finish in third place. His plane is a Cessna monoplane [Wright J-4 motor]. Not content with his luck on the second lap, he tried to run his wheels on the top wing of Legrone's Waco biplane [Continental motor] at the finish. Lagrone finished in second place after nosing out Grevemeyer.

Louis De Florez of Roosevelt field, New York, was forced out of a race for light planes when he dragged his undercarriage through several strands of telegraph wires while trying to overtake Harold Voelter of Miami at the second pylon. De Florez landed his Fairchild [Cirrus motor] plane safely on the airport.

The third thrill of the day was provided by Roger Don Rae of Lansing, Mich., who almost crashed into a line of army pursuit planes while taking off in a fast Keith rider racer [Menasco motor]. Zooming sharply and banking steeply, the small plane darted between two of the parked army planes and shot away to take part in a race in which Rae's status was to be announced later by contest officials.

Wedell Shows Speed.

James Wedell, who set a new world's land plane speed record of 305 miles an hour at Chicago last summer, flew his 44 racer [Wasp Jr. motor] in a demonstration of his record breaking flight. He is entered in a free for all race at tomorrow's closing day of the sixth all-American air races.

A realistic demonstration of a night air battle was staged this evening. Nine large army bombers roared overhead while a dozen searchlights shafts picked them up. The rapid fire of a battery of three inch anti-aircraft guns shook the field. High above, lost in the black sky, three squadrons of pursuit planes droned ominously and the drone grew to a scream as they roared down several thousand feet in a diving attack on the bombers.

Arriving over their target, a papier mache village in the center of the field, the bombers simulated the destruction of the town. The show had all the startling color, light and noise of a real combat.

450 cubic inch piston displacement race, three laps of five miles—Won by Art J. Davis, East Lansing, Mich.; Davis plane [Warner motor]. Average speed, 133.478 miles per hour.

Speed dash—Won by James R. Wedell, Patterson, La., in a Wedell-Williams racer [Wasp junior motor]. First lap, 234.222 miles per hour; second lap, 219.988 miles per hour, and third lap, 220.075 miles per hour. Average speed, :225.705 miles per hour.

Silver Skates Meet Off Till Cold Weather

The Silver Skates Derbies, which were scheduled for this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon, have been postponed. The Derbies will be held, tournament officials said yesterday, on the first week-end when conditions are favorable.

All contestants who submitted their entries for the Derbies will be eligible to compete on the later date which will be announced in THE TRIBUNE. Two thousands three hundred and forty-six boys and girls are listed in the competition in the seven races which embrace all ages.

There's no doubt but that some time this month or next Chicago will have its share of skating weather. In the meantime the Silver Skates' candidates are urged to practice as much as possible indoors. The Coliseum, through the offer of the president of the Amateur Hockey association, Emil Iverson, has made it possible for those on the list of Derby eligibles to practice there without charge.

PETROLLE GETS DECISION OVER PETE GULOTTA

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Frankie Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., won a ten round decision over Pete Guiotta of New York here tonight. Petrolle weighed 147½ pounds and Guiotta 143¼.

The brother of Billie Petrolle, the Fargo Express, opened up in the last three rounds and clinched the decision only in the late going.

SMITH, BOESEKE JOIN HITCHCOCK AS POLO'S BEST

Western Stars Given Ten Goal Rating by U.S.P.A.

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—For the first time in the history of the sport polo has a ten goal player from west of the Hudson river.

At today's meeting of the United States Polo association Cecil Smith of Texas and Elmer J. Boeseke Jr. of California were raised to the top rating of the game to end the isolation there of Thomas Hitchcock Jr. of Long Island, international captain and since 1928 the only ten goal player in the country.

The discussion of handicaps consumed so much of the time of the delegates in session that final action on rules changes were deferred and a statement accompanied the naming of the new handicaps, saying that a "later release would announce the action taken on the rules recommendations.

The decision to leave Hitchcock at the top and to raise the two other to his level ended the speculation as to what might take place following a season in which both the Texan and the Californian played sensationally. Both Smith and Boeseke were members of the victorious west team in the east-west matches at Chicago last summer.

The raising of Smith lifted him from 9 goals and left the country with no player at that level. Boeseke's lift was from 7 goals, whence he had been dropped at the July meeting of the handicap committee. Both of the other members of the winning west team were also raised, Rube Williams and Aidan Roark going from 7 to 8.

All the members of the Aurora team which won the open and the Monty Waterbury Memorial cup games also were raised. Boeseke was at back on this team and the other members were James P. Mills, who goes from 7 to 8 goals on the new list, and Seymour H. Knox and Elbridge T. Gerry, who go from 6 to 7 goals.

The new list of American polo players has eighteen names rated at 7 goals or better. This is two more than was the case last year, despite the fact that the veteran E. W. Hopping and Raymond R. Guest were both dropped from 7 to 6 goals.

Guest Rated at Eight.

Five men are now rated at 8 goals. In addition to those named above Winston Guest and Eric L. Pedley are both left at that point. There are ten rated at 7 goals. Gerald Balding, Devereux Milburn, Michael Phipps, and William Post II. were left at that figure. Stewart Iglehart and the younger Hopping, Earle A. S., were dropped to it from 8 goals.

In addition to the handicap changes, three new offices were created, the posts being those of vice chairmen. Carlton F. Burke has been appointed for the west, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin of Chicago for the middle west, and F. Skiddy von Stade for the east. Other officers were continued, Louis E. Stoddard as chairman, J. Ford Johnson Jr. as honorary secretary, George H. Mead as honorary treasurer, and F. B. O'Reilly as secretary-treasurer.

TEXAS CONSIDERS CHEVIGNY AND HANLEY AS COACH

Austin, Tex., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Austin American says the University of Texas athletic council will present to the board of regents for consideration for football coach the names of Pat Hanley, present assistant coach at Northwestern university, and Jack Chevigny, coach now at St. Edward's university in Austin.

Both Hanley and Chevigny appeared before the athletic council, which is seeking a successor to Clyde Littlefield, resigned. No member of the athletic council would comment on the matter tonight, chairman W. E. Metzenthin saying he did not wish to say whether one, two, or three men had been proposed.

The regents will meet tomorrow to consider the recommendations.

Thornton Junior Five Whips North Park, 33-27

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

ALLEN [DUSTY] COOKE, Red Sox outfielder, claims credit for making an outfield star out of Ben Chapman of the Yankees. . . . Cooke substituted for Hoag, who had relieved the injured Ruth, and then was hurt himself. . . . In the excitement of a wallward dash for a long drive Dusty swallowed his chew of tobacco. . . . He was still so dizzy the next afternoon that he fell chasing another drive and fractured a collar bone. . . . Manager McCarthy had to move Chapman from second base to the outfield and no one has been able to get him out since. . . . Yale's football captain, Bob Lassiter Jr., is a candidate for a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford. . . . Benny Frey, pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, has just developed a knuckle ball after five years in the major leagues and he expects to win a lot of games with it next season. . . .

Nelson Metcalf, athletic director at the University of Chicago, promises more ticket windows and more entrances for the Illinois basketball game at the Maroon field house tonight. . . . The unexpected throng at the Ohio State game found the facilities inadequate and many were still in line when the game started. . . . Three thousand passed through the single door that was open. . . . Clem Crowe, captain of the 1925 Notre Dame football team, is the father of seven children, the youngest of whom arrived just before Christmas. . . . Clem is assistant coach at Xavier's university. . . . Dutch Lonborg, Northwestern basketball coach who participated in three sports in his student days at Kansas, had his greatest thrill in the Kansas-Nebraska game of 1920. . . . Lonborg was quarter back for Kansas and his team went into the fourth quarter trailing, 20 to 0. . . . In the last 15 minutes Dutch threw three passes, each of which connected for touchdowns. . . . Two points after touchdown were made and Kansas escaped with a 20 to 20 tie. . . .

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees never wears a vest. . . . Prescott Jordan, a guard from La Grange high school, has been elected president of the '37 club, composed of numeral winners, at Chicago. . . . If Ohio State engages a new football coach for 1934, there is a good chance it will be Blaik of the Army. . . . The Literary Digest wonders when other institutions will follow the example of Yale, Harvard, and Princeton and do something about intramural athletics. . . . This will be most interesting to schools in the Big Ten and other universities in this section where intramural sport has been booming since the war. . . . One of the pioneers was Illinois, which was visited by scouts from eastern schools who looked over the system a decade ago. . . . Then there is that intramural field house that Yost built at Ann Arbor. . . .

Marchmont Schwartz, who lost his job in the athletic shakeup at Notre Dame, is working in Chicago for Ed Garvey. . . . Wisconsin's three basketball defeats have been by teams coached by former stars of the Badgers' leader, Doc Meanwell. . . . The teams and pupils who whipped the old master were Marquette, Bill Chandler; Illinois, Craig Ruby, and Iowa, Rollie Williams. . . . Capt. Woodrow Weir of Indiana's basketball team holds the university ping pong championship. . . . Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the Belmont Futurity, was the only horse in 1933 to approach the circle of $100,000 money winners. . . . Four horses—Burgoo King, Faireno, Gusto, and Ladysman—did it in 1932. . . . When the New York Giants train at Miami Beach they will use a field where polo is played. . . . When they are at home they use the Polo grounds, where no polo is played. . . .

The University of North Dakota basketball team made 390 points in its first nine games, an average of more than 43 a game. . . . One of its players, Ted Meinhover, is 6 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 250 pounds. . . . Mayor Edward J. Kelly, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, and County Commissioners Peter M. Kelly and Daniel Ryan will be among the synthetic alumni who will attend the Notre Dame football dinner Monday night. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Howard H. Jones' resignation as football coach at the University of Iowa was accepted by the athletic board. . . . Sammy Mandell, junior lightweight, went ten rounds to a draw with Jack Berstein, former champion. . . . Bud Taylor knocked out Frankie Jerome in the twelfth round on the same card. . . . Willie Hoppe was leading Welker Cochran by 160 points in their world's 18.2 balk line championship match.

POMP OF OLD, HIGH PAY PASS INTO DISCARD

Babe Takes Pen in Hand Monday.

Ups and Downs

1920—$20,000. 1930-31—$80,000.
1921—$30,000 1932—$75,000
1922-26—$52,000. 1933—$52,000.
1927-29—$70,000. 1934—$37,500 [?]

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—A grand American institution toppled today.

There will be no protracted holdout by Babe Ruth this year. The home run king and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, came to terms today on the Babe's contract for 1934. The contract, calling for a reported $37,500 a year, will be signed next Monday morning at Ruppert's brewery.

The meeting between the Babe and the colonel, quietly arranged and as quietly held, in Col. Ruppert's office at the brewery, lasted only a few minutes. Each had a well defined idea as to what the Babe should be paid, and when they sat down to exchange ideas it developed that they were almost identical. Such adjustments as had to be made were made quickly and the pair shook hands and parted.

Time Brings a Change.

The secrecy and speed with which an agreement was reached this time was in sharp contrast to the publicity that attended the conferences between Ruth and his employer in years gone by. Generally terms could not be agreed upon until the Yankees were in training at St. Petersburg, Fla., and, during the negotiations—always held behind closed doors but with a crowd of newspaper men just outside the door—covert threats usually were issued by each side.

The Babe would threaten to quit and the colonel would threaten to let him quit, but each did his threatening with his tongue so obviously in his cheek that nobody ever took either of them seriously.

Part Time Performer.

The salary acceptable to the Babe this year is based on the presumption that he will be only a part time performer, fortunate if he can play in as many as 100 games—the goal which he, conscious of his lessening speed and stamina, has set for himself. But it is a far greater salary than ever was paid to a part time performer before—far greater than many of the game's brightest stars ever drew for full time service.

At that, Ruth drops for the first time from the position of top man in baseball in the matter of financial rewards for his playing. If reports are correct, Bill Terry has signed a contract as playing manager of the New York Giants, winners of the world's series last fall, that will net him $50,000 a year.

Babe's 21st Season.

Ruth, who has made approximately $900,000 in salaries, bonuses and world series shares, is entering upon his 21st year in baseball, major and minor. He has been in training in a midtown gymnasium for the last couple of weeks and plans to depart shortly for St. Petersburg, reaching there a month or so in advance of the rest of the squad, as is his custom, to play golf and go fishing until time for the squad to start practice.

Ruth is heavier than he has been at this time of the year since 1923, but, between huffs and puffs in the gymnasium, he promises to be down to weight by the time he takes his first swing in batting practice.

Training Ballyhoo Off.

An interesting revelation in relation to Ruth's salary was made by Col. Ruppert when he said that the Babe had made more money out of baseball than the owner of the Yankees had made out of the stadium outfit since 1915.

Ruth's quick settlement will take the big story out of the stay at St. Petersburg and Manager Joe McCarthy will not be sorry, as the Ruth holdout always has had a tendency to overshadow and slow up the work of the Yankees into shape for the pennant drive.

Notre Dame Five to Play C. C. N. Y. in Charity Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Notre Dame's basketball team, winner of 21 straight victories, tying its all-time record, today accepted an invitation to play the City college of New York in a charity game at Madison Square garden. George Keogan, coach of the Notre Dame quintet, said the game hinges on finding a date suitable to both teams.

De Pauw Quintet Beats Franklin, 23 to 18

Greencastle, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—De Pauw's basketball team defeated Franklin tonight, 23 to 18. Both teams played a tight defensive game, most of the points being made from the middle of the floor.

JOHNNY ROGERS MAKES PACE IN GOLF ON COAST

Cooper of Glen Ellyn Wins from Ghezzi.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—While the medalist, Johnny Rogers of Denver, still set the pace though other favorites toppled, survivors worked through first and second rounds today in the San Francisco national match play open golf championship.

The long-hitting Denver pro added two victims to his list in brilliant fashion. He swamped Cliff Groven of Tacoma, Wash., 8—6 in the morning round and put out Jimmy Hines of Great River, Long Island, 5—4 in the second match.

Four up at the ninth of the afternoon eighteen, after a weak 38, three over par, to Hines' poor 42, Rogers hit his stride again on the incoming stretch to chalk birdies on four holes and finish one under par.

Olin Dutra Is Beaten.

In the list of amazing upsets that followed in the trail of the par snatchers, the greatest one saw Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, former Professional Golfers' association champion, tumble into a second round defeat before the slightly superior stroking of a newcomer to the pro ranks, Oliver Sleppy of Long Beach, Cal.

Sleppy, who turned professional about a month ago and is half the size of the 230 pound Dutra, matched stroke for stroke to the eighteenth. There Sleppy ran down a putt for a birdie four.

Dutra's older brother, Mortie, of Royal Oak, Mich., reached the third round by a 69, three under par, to defeat George Schneider of Ogden, Utah, one up. Schneider turned in a 70.

Diegel Falls by Wayside.

Craig Wood of Deal, N. Y., defending tournament champion, and Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn, N. Y., winner the previous year, moved through the two rounds, but Leo Diegel of Philadelphia, victor in the Inaugural in 1931, went out in the morning competition.

Wood took the measure of Bill Jelliffe of Los Angeles, 4 and 3, and of Dick Fry, Oakland, 2 and 1. Cox won from Dewey Longworth of Oakland, 1 up, and from Abe Espinosa of Hollywood, 2 and 1.

Darkness had fallen when Harry Cooper of Glen Ellyn, Ill., edged out Victor Ghezzi of Rumson, N. J., on the twentieth. Cooper jumped a short stymie to win. Tomorrow's third round pairings:

UPPER HALF—Rogers vs. Torfin, Mac Kenzie vs. Minch, Creavy vs. Mehlhorn, Munday vs. Sleppy.

LOWER HALF—Wood vs. Earl Fry, Cox vs. Parks, Perelli vs. Thompson, M. Dutra vs. Cooper.

Loyola Faces Western State Five Tonight

Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich., Loyola's oldest basketball rival and the only team that holds six victories over the North Siders, will bring another great team to Chicago tonight. Loyola has won 4 out of 10 games from the Kalamazoo Teachers since 1925.

Co-Capts. Bill Perigo and Harold Leiphan, and John Miller, regulars last season, will appear in Western's starting lineup. Perigo, though he only measures 6 feet, controls the tip-off in practically every game. This is his third season at center, and in the last two years he outjumped both Joe Wagner and Hal Motz of Loyola, who had a three inch advantage.

In two games last year Perigo held Motz to three baskets and four free throws while he was collecting five baskets and six free tosses. Motz, who has been traveling a fast pace this season with 52 points in four games, expects to pick up on his rival. Leiphan, runnerup for Western scoring honors, is also starting his third season as a regular.

Western State teams are noted for their fast breaking offense, their ability to control the ball, and a shifting man to man defense. Leiphan is the keystone in this style of play. Loyola's style, which is almost professionallike in its execution, employs a slow, blind pass and block line offense, and a zone defense.

LOYOLA SWIM TEAM WINS FROM NORTHWESTERN U.

The Loyola university swimming team yesterday defeated Northwestern university, 44 to 31. Capt. Ertz of Loyola was high point man by winning the 100 yard and 40 yard free style swims in addition to being a member of the relay team which took the 160 yard swim. Next Thursday Loyola will meet the University of Chicago at the Midway pool.

MICHIGAN CITY WINS.

MOON MULLINS—THE UNDER-COVER MAN

SMITTY—BACK TALK

Shore Returns from Bermuda Ready to Play

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Eddie Shore, defense man of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey league, tanned and apparently refreshed by three weeks in Bermuda, today landed from the Monarch of Bermuda ready to return to his place in the Boston lineup when his suspension is lifted on Jan. 28.

Shore was suspended on Dec. 13 following a game at Boston the night before in which Irvin [Ace] Bailey, Toronto winger, sustained a fractured skull when knocked to the ice.

Shore himself was injured in a fight a moment later, suffering a severe gash in his head, and was in a highly nervous state for several days while Bailey lay near death in a Boston hospital.

Shore was reluctant to discuss the accident and attempted to leave the boat under the name of "Harris." He was affable enough once his identity was learned, however.

He said there never had been any bitter feeling between himself and Bailey and that the accident to the latter "was just one of those things that are liable to happen in any hotly contested hockey match."

HAWKS WORK HARD

The Blackhawks were given two hours of shooting practice by Manager Tommy Gorman at the Stadium yesterday afternoon and will go through the same kind of drill today. In the last four games at home the Hawks have scored only three points.

Johnny Gottselig has not made a point in the last two games, but he is still sharing his second place position in the United States section scoring list with Marty Barry of Boston, who has also gone scoreless in recent encounters, as has Nels Stewart, his teammate, who tops the division.

If the Hawks do not emerge from their scoring slump in their game with the New York Americans tomorrow night and win the game, they will be toppled into second or possibly third place, as both the Rangers and Detroit Red Wings are battling on their own ice against the Montreal Maroons and the Boston Bruins, respectively.

Should both win and the Hawks lose, the Hawks will depart on their next week's trip in third place.

Tuesday they take on the Maroons at Montreal, Thursday the Rangers at Madison Square Gardens and Saturday they tackle the league leading Maple Leafs at Toronto. They leave immediately after the Leaf encounter for Chicago and a game with the powerful Montreal Maroons Sunday, Jan. 21.

WONDERBOLTS TO MEET SWEDES IN FIRST CUP MATCH

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts soccer team will play its first round National Cup match with the Swedish-Americans, champions of the International league, at De Paul field, Sheffield and Webster avenues, tomorrow. The Swedes eliminated the Wieboldts, then known as the Brickies, from the United States title chase in one of the fiercest games of last season. The Wieboldts, then known as the Brickies, entered the national open finals twice in the last four years, while the Swedish club is the only Chicago organization ever to have reached the United States amateur cup final.

LOCATELLI IS EASY WINNER OVER KID BERG

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—A crowd of about 6,000 in Madison Square Garden tonight saw the passing of an old Garden ring favorite when Jackie [Kid] Berg, the erstwhile "Whitechapel Windmill," went down to defeat before the tireless, light-punching Cleto Locatelli, Italian invader who holds the European lightweight title. Berg was beaten in ten rounds of ordinary fighting.

Lewis Given Full Rein in Stadium Bouts

Joe Foley, general manager of the Chicago Stadium Operating company, yesterday announced that he has severed his connections with boxing and in the future Matchmaker Nate Lewis will have sole jurisdiction over that sport in the west side arena. Foley said he will continue to preside over wrestling and fulfill his other duties at the Stadium.

"There is no reason for alarm, for everything will be settled eventually. Foley spoke to me several months ago about a reorganization and this is part of the plan. Since we started operations last October under the management of Foley we have done well.

"While we are disappointed in failing to arrange the Max Schmeling-King Levinsky bout I believe all is for the best. Joe will go ahead with plans to present a wrestling show at the Stadium Jan. 31 featuring Joe Savoldi, and by that time I predict that everything will be settled."

Foley's refusal to have any further dealings with the Stadium boxing department followed definite cancellation Wednesday night of the proposed Schmeling-Levinsky contest for Feb. 16. Joe was blamed by some for this. They contended that if Foley hadn't attempted to help arrange the match Matchmaker Lewis would have obtained signed contracts.

When the match was first considered Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, refused to do business with Lewis and his contact was with Foley.

ENLARGE SEATING CAPACITY FOR TILDEN MATCH

Plans to increase the seating capacity of Broadway armory for the tennis match between Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines next Saturday night were made yesterday. Erection of additional seats will make it possible for 4,000 to see the two professional stars in their only appearance in Chicago.

The match is expected to provide a better comparison of the relative ability of the two players than their first encounter in New York. In that match Vines obviously was at a disadvantage playing on indoor courts for the first time. With additional experience he is expected to be more of a match for Big Bill.

Vincent Richards and Bruce Barnes also will appear on the program in a singles match. A doubles match featuring Tilden and Barnes against Vines and Richards will conclude the program.

Vines Wins a Set but Loses to Tilden

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Although Ellsworth Vines, young Californian, managed to win a set from Big Bill Tilden tonight, Tilden carried off the match 6-4, 8-10, 9-7, 6-3. It was his second victory over Vines in the two matches played in their present tour.

Close to 6,000 persons, a capacity crowd, saw Vines, former national amateur champion, give a marvelous exhibition in the second set, but the

BEARS CHARMED BY WEST; THEY CHARM COAST

Fans Clamor to See Long Tosses by Doehring.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 12.—By the time the Chicago Bears get back from their coast barnstorming football tour two or three of the boys are likely to break out and run for aldermen. At least, they may go on the chautauqua. There never has been a group of athletes so fought over, with demands to make speeches, in Los Angeles sports history.

Two radio programs and one dinner yesterday—that of Joe E. Brown, the movie comedian—topped by an eloquent address made by George Halas, president and coach of the national professional football champions, to a critical coast sporting editor, were followed today by three more speech making radio programs and a very verbal salon in the movie studio quarters of the film queen, Mae West.

The Boys Break Down.

That blonde and buxom charmer boaxed Halas, Red Grange, Bill Hewitt and Ookie Miller to break down and tell her how they did it. When the boys acquiesced to the point where some of them were penciling lateral passes on old envelopes, they found they had a goodly slice of Hollywood waiting to entice their autographs for posting alongside Barrymore's and Garbo's.

The Bears granted the Los Angeles public a preview of some pass throwing and ball carrying formations in an open practice at Wrigley park this morning, and were more than mildly astonished when more than 1,000 fans turned out. The Bears have stimulated a great surge of pro football interest in Los Angeles, so much so, in fact, that their current coast tour has set a local group to pondering the possibility of launching professional football in the far west next year, with some kind of a loose affiliation with, or sponsorship by the National Professional league, so that the eastern circuit will send some of its squads to be seen here during the regular season.

In Shape; Expect to Win.

Capt. Red Grange and Bronko Nagurski of the Bears said today they are not underestimating the strength of the All-California team which Ernie Pinckert has banded to play against them. The Bears expect to win the game, but Halas said, "We know we wouldn't win it if we weren't in shape. We've heard those fellows are in good shape. They have been drilling hard for three weeks. I've watched most of them play in the past, so I know how good some of them are. That fellow Jim Musick, as a plunger, for instance."

Much interest in the open practice centered today on Bull Doehring, who experienced the strange sensation of hearing a wave of handclapping when he shot a practice forward pass from his own zero line to Bill Hewitt, on the opposition 30 yard line. It was such forward passing as Los Angeles grid fans—redhot as they are—had never seen.

Want Doehring to Play.

A local clamor has arisen to have Halas guarantee Doehring play part of Sunday's game. The fans want to see if he can shoot such passes so far and so accurately in the heat of battle, and they want to see if the California ends, who are likely to be Ted Shipkey of Stanford and Morley Drury of Southern California, are equal to the job of getting down the field and breaking them up.

The Bears concentrated during their secret drill of the last week, which ended yesterday, in lateral passes and forwards from laterals. They also showed a wide spread formation that indicates a design to give the coast fans an eye filling demonstration of the tricky open game as they could desire.

The Bears go to San Francisco for another game next week and then will return to Los Angeles to play a combined team of the best players who meet them here on Sunday and the best of those who face them in San Francisco. The tour should result in a financial cleanup for the Chicago squad, as it was announced today that the Los Angeles ball park is practically sold out.

That Passenger Pigeon Letter Brought Results

BY BOB BECKER.

When G. N. Gurler of De Kalb, Ill., appealed to this department for information on the passenger pigeon and the appeal was printed, he stirred up a lot of stories about this extinct bird from residents of the central state. So far we have had letters from five states offering suggestions and information on the passenger pigeon for Mr. Gurler's studies.

Although ornithologists have maintained for a number of years that there are no more passenger pigeons in this country, we still hear 4-11 alarms being sounded every once in a while by outdoor fans who believe that they have seen specimens. For example, B. Baumgardner of Chicago writes us of a bird which his father saw and though was a passenger pigeon when he was fishing in Michigan. Mr. Baumgardner writes:

I was born and raised in Manistee, Mich., and as a boy remember my father telling about the migrations of the passenger pigeons when he first went to Manistee about 1875. He often told how the hundreds of thousands of birds darkened the sun like a cloud. They flew low—so low that people were able to get them without guns.

About ten years ago while trout fishing near the Six Mile dam on the Little Manistee my father became very excited, exclaiming that a pair of pigeons that flew over looked like passenger pigeons. We were very familiar with mourning doves and they certainly were not doves.

I have just called my uncle—an old timer from Michigan—and he recalled that about three years ago while up the Little Manistee river he saw two pigeons that he would swear were passenger pigeons. He said that he wouldn't be surprised if they were coming back."

DICK TRACY—The Hornet's Nest

Waller Beats Sullivan in Opener, 28-27

Twelve more teams in the heavyweight division of the City High School Basketball league opened their schedules yesterday afternoon in all sections of the city. More than half of the schools started play on Thursday afternoon.

Yesterday's outstanding game was Waller's 28 to 27 victory over Sullivan in an overtime period. With the score tied at 25-25 at the end of the regulation time and again at 27-27 in the extra period, Prater sank a free throw to win the game. Anderson and Schenk scored eight points each for Waller.

Kelvyn Park, new member of the City league, nosed out Schurz, 18 to 16 and another new member, Foreman, lost to Austin, 28 to 16. In the only lightweight struggle on the schedule, McKinley defeated Kelly, 42 to 26.

RIVERSIDE, GLENBARD SPLIT

Riverside and Glenbard, fighting for first place in both the lightweight and heavyweight divisions of the West Suburban league, split even last night in their twin bill.

The Riverside heavyweights swamped Glenbard 25 to 12, while the Glenbard heavies evened the count by winning, 36 to 27.

In the other league games Hinsdale and West Chicago also split even, the Hinsdale heavies winning, 30 to 23, and the West Chicago ponies won, 15 to 1. Maine was the only school to turn in a double victory, the lights winning, 17 to 12, and the heavies, 18 to 16. Lineups:

St. Leo Wins 2 Games from De Paul Fives

St. Leo's lightweight and heavyweight basketball teams handed De Paul a double defeat last night at the St. Leo gymnasium. The lights won, 36 to 27, and the heavies, 29 to 16. McElligot scored 12 points for the Leo heavies.

Fenwick heavies nosed out St. Mel, 20 to 19, and Loyola heavies defeated St. Rita in the last minute by 20 to 19. Lineups:

GUS SONNENBERG THROWS SMITH IN 43 MINUTES

Gus Sonnenberg, Boston heavyweight wrestler, was awarded a decision over Jack Smith of Chicago after 43 minutes and 33 seconds of their windup bout last night at Arcadia Gardens. A flying tackle by Sonnenberg knocked Smith out of the ring and he was counted out. The match was scheduled for 90 minutes.

Buckets Goldenberg, Green Bay Packer full back, threw Jack Zeravitch in 11:45 with a series of tackles and a body slam. Other results:

George Mack threw John Mason, 13:37.
Zack Malkov won from Joe Wolf, foul, 10:04.
Ole Oleson threw James High, 5:00.
Gus Clem and Jim Demetral, drew, 20:00.

FOUR INDIANA ATHLETES ENTER MILLROSE GAMES

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The entries of four University of Indiana athletes, among them Charles Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, today were received for the annual Millrose games in Madison Square Garden Feb. 3. It is the strongest and most representative Hoosier team ever sent east for the meet.

Hornbostle, national collegiate 880 yard title holder, will compete in the 1,000 yard run and Fuqua, National A. A. U. 400 meter champion, will run in the 600. With two teammates not yet selected they will compete in a special matched mile relay against an eastern school.

Illinois Wesleyan Beats Southern Teachers, 30-28

Carbondale, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Illinois Wesleyan maintained its perfect record in the Little Nineteen basketball race by defeating the Southern Illinois Teachers tonight, 30 to 28. It was the Teachers' first defeat by a conference opponent. Illinois Wesleyan led at half time, 19 to 12.

Rich Mix with Poor

Underprivileged boys from the city's poorer neighborhoods hobnobbed last night with lads from the Gold Coast at the first annual jamboree of the Chicago Boys' clubs, a philanthropic organization serving youth of the congested districts. The meeting was held in the gymnasium of the Chicago Athletic association, 12 South Michigan boulevard. Three hundred members of the C. A. A. and their families attended the entertainment.

Representatives of 11,000 boys' members of the four main branches of the Chicago Boys' club in various sections of the city, staged a program of wrestling, tumbling, acrobatics, music, art, and debate. Jack Holden, announcer at radio station WLS, presided over the festivities.

The champion 40 piece boys' club band of the United States, directed by four year old Joseph Gill Jr., provided the music. The program was interspersed with entertainment by radio, stage, and opera stars. A social hour in which youngsters mingled with prominent business and professional men in inspecting handiwork made by boys concluded the program.

Another gathering of boys was held last night by the Boys' Brotherhood Republic in their clubrooms at 1830 South Hamlin avenue. A report of unfavorable conditions in the boys' reformatory at St. Charles was made by an investigating committee of seven boys. It was announced that a delegation would present the reformatory findings to Gov. Horner next week.

22 in a Row Goal Tonight of Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—An all-time Notre Dame record will be at stake tomorrow night, when Butler invades the Irish court. Notre Dame has won 21 straight contests, 10 of them this season, to tie the previous all-time basketball mark, in 1908 and 1909.

Tomorrow's game is so important to Butler fans that the Bulldogs, champions of the Missouri Valley league last year, will bring their 40 piece band with them, something unique in local annals. Notre Dame and Butler each has won 10 games in the 25 year old series. The Irish have scored 529 points to 527 for the Bulldogs.

Notre Dame will have its strongest squad available tomorrow night. Big Don Elser, star half back, is ready to play, after recovering from a football injury, and his 6 feet 3 inches may be used to advantage under the basket at guard. Joe O'Kane, speedy junior forward, has returned to the game after an injury, giving Coach Keogan a set of speedy forwards to alternate with Joe Voegele and Marty Peters. Peoria giants. Johnny Ford, former Indianapolis Cathedral High school star, works with O'Kane in the front line.

Colleges Optimistic Over Outlook, Griffith Says

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Maj. John L. Griffith, Western conference commissioner of athletics, reported an optimistic attitude toward business conditions in college athletic circles in a talk before the Rotary club here today. Maj. Griffith is here to confer with Athletic Director Frank McCormick of the University of Minnesota and Prof. C. H. Updegraff of the University of Iowa in an attempt to frame plans for securing exemption of college athletic receipts from federal taxation.

Charlie Dressen, Ill of Typhoid, Is Improving

Houston, Tex., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Charlie Dressen, ill of typhoid fever for more than two weeks in a hospital here, was reported "doing nicely" today. Hospital attendants said the manager of the Nashville baseball team of the Southern association had shown considerable improvement in the last two days.

Indiana and Purdue Head Big Ten Card

BY WILFRID SMITH.

At least one of the three undefeated Western conference basketball teams will lose its perfect standing tonight, for Purdue meets its Hoosier rival, Indiana, at Bloomington in the feature battle of the five games scheduled. Iowa's fast traveling Hawks, already boasting victories over Northwestern and Wisconsin, seemingly are assured of continuation of their tie for the leadership with either Purdue or Indiana as they engage Minnesota at Minneapolis. The Gophers have lost to Purdue and Northwestern.

Norm Cottom of Purdue, the Big Ten's leading scorer, and Willard Kehrt, Indiana sharpshooter, who is trailing him, will meet for the first time. Cottom has rolled up 26 points in Purdue's two Big Ten games, while Kehrt has 21 to his credit. It has been two years since Indiana and Purdue met. The round robin schedule kept them apart last year.

Illini Meet Maroons.

While these games get the spotlight, Chicago fans will have a look at the Illini against the Maroons at the Chicago field house. Northwestern travels to Columbus to meet the Buckeyes. Each team has won and lost a game. Michigan, the other team in the conference with a mark of .500, takes on the twice defeated Badgers at Madison.

Chicago's lineup, according to announcement from the Midway, will remain unchanged for tonight's game with Illinois. The Maroons did quite well on offense against Ohio State, scoring 32 points, but the Michigan defense checked Chicago's sophomores. However, Coach Nels Norgren believes that Chicago must improve on defense in order to break into the victory column. Although he has spotted the trouble, there's nothing that can be done about it in way of replacements. Oppenheim's height and weight are needed, while Lang, the other guard, is the best long distance shot of the defensive men on the squad.

Hoosier Teams Evenly Matched.

Chicago fears Illinois' fast breaking offense built on the speed of Froschauer, Lindberg, and Hellmich, who also is one of the best sprinters in the Big Ten. Hellmich is exceptionally effective under the goal and the Illinois attack centers around him.

While Iowa is the choice to beat Minnesota and Wisconsin, back on its home floor, is favored over Michigan, Purdue and Indiana will start with wagering even. Purdue's speedsters will be on a foreign floor and Indiana's attack has been sufficient to win home games against Michigan and Ohio State. The 38 to 22 triumph over the Buckeyes labels Indiana a championship contender with the outcome largely resting on the Purdue series.

Purple Welcomes Brewer.

The return of Don Brewer to the Northwestern lineup has given Northwestern added scoring power which they lacked in their practice games. In two conference games Brewer has scored six field goals. A foot injury early in the season forced Brewer out of the lineup and he was inactive until the Iowa game last week. Lacking practice, he was able to play only one half against the Hawkeyes and during that period the Wildcats battled the Hawks on even terms.

DE ORO DEFEATS WOODS, 50 TO 39, IN CUE TOURNEY

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The veteran Alfredo de Oro, former national three cushion and pocket billiard champion of New York, tonight defeated Arthur Woods, 50 to 39 in 65 innings in the national three cushion billiard tournament.

De Oro joined Marc Catton, Oakland, Cal.; Len Kenney, Chicago, and Kinrey Matsuyama in the undefeated ranks after the second day of play.

Only twice during the entire 65 innings was De Oro behind Woods. At the end of the first five innings he trailed, 3 to 1, and was tied at 12-all at the 20th marker. He lost the lead again in the 25th, but regained it in the next few innings after running 1, 1, 3, and 2, when he led, 20 to 16 at the 30th inning. From then on he was continuously out in front by a comfortable margin. He chalked up his first victory with an unfinished run of 3.

Kansas State Upsets Iowa State, 28 to 23

Manhattan, Kas., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Playing without a substitution, Kansas State's basketball team added another to a growing list of Big Six conference upsets by defeating Iowa State, 28 to 23, tonight. Graham collaborated with Boyd, a guard, to lead Kansas State to its first Big Six triumph of the season and to leave the Cyclones, regarded as a strong contender, without a conference victory to date.

Red Lucas Undergoes Operation on Tonsils

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Charles [Red] Lucas, ace of the Cincinnati mound staff who was traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates, today underwent an operation for removal of his tonsils.

North Shore and Artillery Trios to Clash

The North Shore Polo and Hunt club's trio, captained by Frank Bering, will make its first appearance tonight in the Metropolitan Indoor league, opposing the 124th Field Artillery team, led by Maj. Richard G. Hunter, in the 124th Artillary armory at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The duel will be for senior division honors.

Two other title contenders in the junior division, Fort Sheridan and the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals, will clash in the opening match.

Tonight's battles will engage teams that finished high in national championship play. Bering and Jim Hannah, members of North Shore, comprised two-thirds of the Chicago Riding club three which won the title in the high goal B class, downing the eastern challengers, the Commonwealth Polo club of Boston, at the local armory.

Maj. Hunter's 124th F. A. outfit was a finalist in class C. Lieut. Chris M. Schuh, who completes Maj. Hunter's team, was then a member of the Cardinals, who finished as runner-up in class D in the national championships.

DETROIT MEETS CYCLONES.

Polo fans who attend tonight's game at the Chicago Riding club will find another attraction in addition to the contest between the Grosse Point team of Detroit and the Riding Cluo Cyclones. They will see how a string of Kentucky Derby candidates is trained in the back yard of the city's business district.

Whereas most race horses go through their training in a pastoral setting, the Ike Weil string of ten thoroughbreds steps out of the Chicago Riding club stable each morning to look at a horizon crowded by skyscrapers. When the weather permits, they exercise in the paddock behind the club. Otherwise they take their workouts in the tanbark arena.

Capt. Paul Butler, commanding officer of the Black Horse troop, has invited Weil to show his horses to the polo fans. Accordingly, Essie Wessie, Wing Over, Blue Lillian, and the other members of the string will prance into the arena tonight during the intermission between the games and will be sent through their training paces.

JOHNNY PHAGAN WINS DECISION OVER M'FARLAND

Johnny Phagan, west side 153 pound boxer, defeated Jimmy McFarland of Terre Haute, Ind., in an eight round bout last night at Rainbo Fronton. Phagan's superior boxing and generalship gave him the victory. Tod Kelly beat Art Mitchell in a featherweight match at five rounds. Other results:

John Mirabal and Joey Bozak, drew [4].
Eddie Ward beat Scotty Sylvano [4].
Les Schultz beat Bill Steffel [4].
Fred Ledebuhr threw John Holds [wrestling], 7:19.

National Ski Stars Meet Tomorrow in Central Tourney

A preview of the national championship ski jumping tournament, to be held on the Fox River Grove, Ill., slide of the Norge Ski club on Jan. 21, will be staged tomorrow at the central title meet at Devil's Lake, N. D. Most of the skiers who will match their skill in the national contest here are entered in that event.

The keen rivalry between Roy Mikkelson, present national champ, and Casper Oimen, who held the crown three consecutive years beginning with 1929, will be revived in the central meet and ski fans will base their selections in the national tournament on the performances of these two tomorrow.

This also will furnish a gauge for determining the ability of Guttorm Paulsen and Gunnar Oman of the Norge club to compete with Mikkelson and Oimen. They will carry the hopes for Chicago's first victory in a national title meet in the coming contest at Fox River Grove.

COAL PRICE WAR BELIEVED THREAT TO CODE CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Gen. Johnson, much concerned over the price cutting war now raging in five of the major bituminous coal producing states, has sent out summons by telegraph to members of the national bituminous coal industrial board to meet here Tuesday.

This emergency meeting, first to be held since the soft coal code was signed three months ago, will be informed by Gen. Johnson that the wage structure, built up after several months of laborious negotiation, is now imperiled.

Fears for Safety of Code.

At the same time the administrator is expected to voice his fears that the code itself may collapse if the industry does not act promptly to govern itself.

Gen. Johnson acted when his attention was called to the price cutting situation in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana.

If the members of the bituminous coal board transmit to Gen. Johnson the frank views and criticisms expressed last week at a meeting of the divisional code authorities in this city, they will seek to place the blame on what they call lack of cooperation from the office of Kenneth M. Simpson, divisional administrator in charge of extractive minerals.

Quarrels Not Settled.

At these meetings the complaint most often heard was that while the industry was organized from the bottom into subdivisional code authorities, each group was at war with its neighbor and no authority existed to settle these jurisdictional quarrels which now revolve chiefly around price cutting.

Unable to obtain rulings from Mr. Simpson's office, the operators have been saying for weeks that the coal code will collapse unless the administrative structure which heads up the coal division in Washington acts promptly.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—United States government bonds continued their recovery and domestic corporation bonds their general advance on the stock exchange today. Total dealings of $18,229,000 for the listed bond market, although heavy, compared with $20,094,000 on the previous day and with the unusual total of $24,305,000 on Wednesday.

The long term United States government issues, although they closed down from the highs of the day, nevertheless showed gains of 1-32d to 27-32ds point, except three issues which were unchanged to 2-32ds down. The turnover for this group today was $2,177,000.

Cause of Advance.

Hints that dollar stabilization was under active consideration led to the rise in federal loans. These were based on reports from Washington that Attorney General Cummings had submitted an opinion to the President on the legality of impounding some $3,600,00,000 in gold held by the federal reserve system.

Many issues of the domestic corporation list were bid up 1 to more than 6 points, with the rails again leading. As usual, the more speculative issues showed the best gains on the day.

Foreign loans moved irregularly lower, German issues being especially weak. United Kingdom, French government and Dutch East Indies loans showed fractional variations at the close. Commonwealth of Australia issues were unusually active and closed at fractional gains.

Brazilian Issues Jump.

A jump of 1⅜ to 3¼ points in Brazilian government bonds, which was the feature of the South American group, was attributed to buying from Brazilian sources, as these issues are selling at less than 30 cents on the dollar due to defaults.

There was a brisk demand for domestic bonds on the curb exchange with resultant gains on the day ranging up to more than 7 points.

Loft, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in Loft, Inc. Kindly give me a report and rating on same.—Mrs. C. J. H.

Answer: Loft, Inc., manufactures candy, ice cream and other confections, which it sells at retail and wholesale. At the close of 1932 it operated 200 retail outlets, most of which were in New York City.

Sales in the first quarter of 1933 totaled $2,911,000; in the second quarter, $3,273,000, and in the third, $2,817,000. Net income in the first quarter was $24,000 and in the second $82,000. Loss of $64,000 for the third three month period of 1933 cut net income for the first nine months to $42,000, or 4 cents per share, against $58,000 or 5 cents per share, for the corresponding 1932 period.

Sales of $14,094,000 in 1932 resulted in net income equal to 9 cents per share, against sales of $14,317,000 and net income of 34 cents per share for 1931. Sales in 1930 aggregated $9,658,000, against $7,001,000 in 1929, and $7,266,000 in 1928. Net loss in 1930 equaled 8 cents per share, against net income of 1 cent per share in 1929 and 30 cents per share in 1928.

At the close of 1932 current assets, including cash of $747,000, totaled $1,743,000 and current liabilities, including $420,000 mortgage installment due, totaled $1,414,000. Working capital was down about one-third from the year before.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 1,073,259 shares of no par capital stock on which nothing has been paid since 1922. The stock is just a speculation.

French Inflation; Greenbacks.

Investors' Guide: I should be very happy if you will answer for me two questions. [1] Did France have currency inflation since the world war and what was the result? [2] With regard to greenbacks of the civil war finally getting back to par. How was this possible with no gold to back them? Are there any in circulation? —K. O. A.

Answer: [1] Following the world war France entered a period of currency inflation. Prior to that, the French franc had a par value in terms of United States currency of 19.2948 cents. The stabilization act of June, 1928, reduced the gold content about 80 per cent. Par of exchange was reduced to 3.9179 cents.

[2] Although there was no gold earmarked to back the greenbacks, the treasury, while the United States was still on the gold standard, redeemed them in gold on demand. This enabled the notes to circulate at par. On Oct. 31, 1932, there were $289,171,000 of these in circulation.

RISING FREIGHT VOLUME SHOWS FURTHER GAINS

Week's Total 13.8% Above Year Ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—The movement of revenue freight over the railroad systems of the United States continued to increase in the week ended Jan. 6, when total car loadings were 499,939 cars, a rise of 10.9 per cent over the immediately preceding week and 13.8 per cent over the corresponding 1933 period, according to figures released today by the American Railway association.

The largest increases came in the movement of coal and miscellaneous freight, but less than carload lots also showed a sharp gain over the week before and the corresponding week a year ago.

The total of loadings in the first week of the new year compared with 439,469 cars in the same week of last year and 471,678 in the corresponding 1932 period.

Comparative Statistics.

Miscellaneous freight loaded for the week of Jan. 6 totaled 170,851 cars, an increase of 11,754 above the preceding week and 28,713 above the corresponding week in 1933; less than carlot merchandise, 134,367, increase 10,006 and 711; grain and grain products, 23,389, increase 3,064 over the preceding week but 810 below 1933; forest products, 14,878, increase 3,183 and 2,465; ore, 2,826, increase 748 and 1,587; coal, 130,373, increase 16,089 and 25,684; coke, 7,627, increase 527 and 2,246, and live stock, 15,628, increase 3,946 above the preceding week but 125 below last year.

In making a comparison the association said consideration should be given to the fact that the week of January this year and the corresponding week in 1933 contained the New Year holiday, while the corresponding week in 1932 did not.

Submit Plans to Reinsure National Life

Proposals of eight companies for reinsurance of the policy holders of the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A., which went into receivership on Oct. 17, 1933, were submitted yesterday to Judge William J. Lindsay in the Superior court by Patrick J. Lucey, receiver of the company.

The company, which has its headquarters at 29 South La Salle street, was the largest life insurance company in Illinois. At the time of receivership it had policies of a total face value of $197,000,000 in force.

Receiver Lucey gave Judge Lindsay detailed analysis of the bids of all companies, two of which submitted two proposals, which were prepared for him by consulting actuaries. The report included general recommendations as to the features desirable in a reinsurance contract, and detailed comment on the various proposals. Judge Lindsay will open hearings on the bids Monday afternoon.

Five Bids Are Recommended.

Receiver Lucey recommended that the court give serious consideration to the proposals of five of the bidding companies. These are the Central Life Assurance Society of Des Moines, Continental Assurance Company of Chicago, United Benefit Life Insurance Company of Omaha, United Mutual Life Insurance Company of Indianapolis, and the Washington National Insurance Company of Chicago.

The receiver recommended that special consideration be given the fact that the Continental Assurance and Washington National companies both are Illinois corporations, subject to the recently revised Illinois insurance law, and that neither company owns the building where its headquarters are located, making it possible to use quarters in the National Life building, which the defunct company owns.

Insurance Alliance Shown.

The Washington National company had a rather close alliance with the National Life, whose business it is proposing to reinsure. Organized in 1926 by merger of other companies, it took over the accident and health insurance business of the National Life the same year. At the time that the National Life went into receivership the Washington National owed it $200,000 on a loan which has since been repaid.

A. M. Johnston, chairman of the board of principal stockholder of National Life, was a director of Washington National until recently, and Kenneth Mullins, assistant to the chairman in National Life, is still a director. Control of the company, however, rests in the hands of the Kendall family, of whom five members are officers. H. R. Kendall is chairman of the board.

Propose to Write Off Losses.

The proposals of the Continental Assurance and Washington National companies, as well as those of the three out of state companies, all contain provisions for writing off the losses due to the investment mismanagement of the National Life. This would be done by placing a 50 per cent lien against policies' reserves.

This lien would act just as a policy loan, except that instead of the policyholder getting the money, it would be applied to write off losses and he would be charged interest at 4 or 4½ per cent. Each company would set up the National Life business as a department separate from its own insurance business, but with varying privileges for National policyholders to transfer their policies to the reinsurance company.

During a period of 15 years, the various reinsurance proposals provide, the earnings on the National Life assets and its profits on insurance would be applied to the reduction of the liens. If the liens were not wiped out at the end of that period, each contract provides that thereafter they shall become permanent, and all future profits on National Life business shall go to the reinsuring company.

Death Claims to Be Paid.

All pending death claims and all death claims arising during the first 15 years of the reinsurance contract shall be paid in full, each of the five bidders proposes. After 15 years, any permanent liens remaining against policies would affect death benefits. All five proposals provide a five year moratorium on policy loans and cash surrenders of policies.

Receiver Lucey offered objections to the proposals of the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance company of Monmouth, Ill., and to the two proposals by the Life and Casualty company of Chicago.

The eighth proposal was that of the Hercules Life Insurance company, which interests connected with Sears, Roebuck & Co. proposed to form for the purpose of reinsuring the National Life policyholders. Receiver Lucey's objection to this plan was that the time involved would be vital. He dismissed as impossible of legal fulfillment a proposal for reorganization of National Life as a mutual insurance company.

FIRST LARGE UTILITY ISSUE UNDER NEW ACT TO BE OFFERED SOON

New York, Jan. 12.—The first important public utility bond offering since the securities act became law last July, will soon be made by W. C. Langley & Co., when they register with the proper authorities in Washington, $15,000,000 ten year 5 per cent convertible trust bonds of the American Water Works and Electric company, it was learned today.

The new issue will be registered within a few days and will carry a common stock conversion privilege, the ration of which the bankers will not be able to determine until the day of registration, as it will depend upon the market price of the stock.

Particular significance attaches to the fact that it will be convertible, in view of President Roosevelt's recently announced plan to have all corporations include sinking fund provisions in their new offerings. No sinking fund provision is made in the American Water Works issue, as the bankers feel that the conversion privilege will have the same effect.

Proceeds from the sale of bonds, which will be offered publicly twenty days after filing of the registration application, unless objections are raised by the authorities, will be used to refinance $12,569,100 of American Water Works 5 per cent collateral trust bonds which mature April this year. The new offering will be dated March 1 and will mature March 1, 1944.

Congress Gets Bill to Control Buses, Trucks

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Legislation to bring bus and truck transportation under regulation by the federal government, was introduced in the house today by Chairman Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], of the interstate commerce committee.

Although not an administration measure in its present form, the bill may become the nucleus for later legislation bearing the sponsorship of Federal Coördinator of Transportation Joseph B. Eastman, who is understood to be engaged now in a study of the bus and truck transportation problem as it affects the railroads. Mr. Rayburn said his bill represents the views of the house interstate commerce committee. Mr. Eastman, he stated, had no hand in its preparation, although the measure follows closely a previous bill sanctioned by the federal railroad coördinator.

Hearings to Start Next Week.

Hearings will be started on his bill next Wednesday, Mr. Rayburn announced, at which time Coördinator Eastman and other interstate commerce commission officials, as well as spokesmen for the bus and truck companies, are expected to express their attitude regarding the proposed legislation.

The Rayburn bill would bring both freight and passenger carriers under control of the interstate commerce commission as to rates, schedules, and organization. Earlier legislation, passed by the house in the seventy-first congress but never adopted by the senate, provided only for the regulation of passenger carriers.

"Since the passage of that bill," said Mr. Rayburn, "there has been a very great increase in freight transportation upon the highways, with a corresponding increase in the demand for regulation of freight truck operations. This comes from the public, from competing transportation agencies and from established responsible truck operators.

Covers All Interstate Carriers.

"This bill, accordingly, has been drawn to cover both passenger and freight carriers. All motor carriers engaged in operation across state boundaries, transporting either persons or property for compensation are embraced within the regulation provided, except school and hotel buses, taxicabs, and other carriers enumerated in section 1 [B]."

Broadly, the function of the interstate commerce commission with regard to regulation of highway carriers, would be "to supervise and regulate common carriers by motor vehicle." The bill would require common highway carriers to file schedules of rates and charges with the commission. Upon complaint, or on its own initiative, the commission would be empowered to "determine and prescribe what will be the just and reasonable maximum or minimum rate, fares, or charges thereafter to be observed in such case."

STOCK MARKET EYES CAPITAL; PRICES UNEVEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—There was a sizeable budget of favorable trade news to encourage the bull's endeavor on the stock exchange today, but traders generally had their ears tuned on the monetary riddle at Washington and the statistics on Steel, carloadings and the like were passed up. The market therefore displayed a tendency to ease to lower levels.

Losses of from a fraction to a point or more were the rule in the recognized leaders such as American Can, General Electric, United States Steel, Atchison, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, Western Union and Westinghouse. A good sprinkling of secondary issues countered the pivotals for net gains. The result was an irregular looking finals table with plus and minus signs pretty evenly divided.

Expect Money Decision.

The street was pervaded by a strong feeling that something far reaching on the money question might be forthcoming from the nation's capital either tonight or over the week-end. But with the secrecy surrounding the so-called White House conferences on the subject the rank and file were unwilling to do any plunging in either direction until the atmosphere is clarified.

The bulk of trading on the exchange was in the lower priced issues.

The farm implement group displayed some strength in sympathy with wheat, and the silver stocks turned up on news that a bill had been prepared by the solons for the use of a billion dollars in the white metal as a money base. United States Smelting rose 2 points, and American Smelting half as much. Cerro de Pasco, the South American silver producer, added about a point to its rating.

Liquor shares promised things in the early trading, but the close found them somewhat mixed in appearance. National Distillers lost about a point on the day, American Commercial Alcohol gained about as much, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol stood pat on its previous quotation.

Price War Hits Oils.

News that the gasoline price war which has been raging here in the east had spread to Canada brought an easier tone into the oil shares. Standard of New Jersey, Consolidated, Atlantic Refining, and others slipping off fractionally.

In the automobile group, Chrysler proved a target for considerable selling and wound up some 2 points lower. Nash, the feature of yesterday's dealings in the section gave up most of its newly won ground. Reports of an impending advance in tire prices failed to help the rubber stocks—especially when word emanating from usually well informed sources apprised those concerned that the rumor was a bit premature. Sponsors of the denials insisted that the manufacturers are not likely to give serious consideration to any price markup suggestions until after the retail tire dealers' code has been consummated at any rate.

Picture stocks were favored, Paramount being turned over in heavy volume to advance to the best price in over a year. Fox, Warner, and Loew were also conspicuously active.

Utilities lacked the spirit they have been displaying of late.

Retail Trade Total Exceeds Expectations

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—Business trends thus far in January forecast a more favorable first quarter than was previously estimated, the Dun & Bradstreet weekly trade review said today.

"In all parts of the country," asserted the review, "there is pronounced uniformity to the reports of the unexpectedly high level at which retail sales are being maintained, in spite of the nearly record proportions of the December business.

"While the movement of staple merchandise has continued to receive fresh impetus weekly as employment totals swell, it is not this division which forms the bulk of the new buying, as the demand for high price goods, with quality the prime consideration, has attained a force unequaled since 1929.

Best Record in Several Years.

"Industrial developments thus far this year confirm the plans that were announced at the end of 1933, following the gains in practically all major lines and the increased corporate earnings.

"The rapid rate at which business has been moving in retail channels since the last week in December is without precedent in the last few years. No post-holiday season since 1929 has been marked by such a steady week to week increase in retail sales.

"Buying of spring merchandise in wholesale markets has broadened widely, with the number of visitors larger than in the week preceding and above the total for the corresponding period of 1933. Purchases of wearing apparel ran about 15 per cent above last week's commitments, and the gain in shoe orders was nearly as large.

Stronger Will to Spend.

"The public's severance of the last fetters of stinting economy finds proof in the stronger will to spend, which has supplanted the determination to save so generally practiced during the opening months of 1933."

The Business Week says, in part:

"In Boston and St. Louis, shoe manufacturers think response to their presentations forecasts noisy factories for months to come. Furniture shows have excited hopes similarly high. Crowds of buyers have flocked to primary centers armed with more liberal spending allowances and the outlook is the best in four years. Department stores did 7 per cent better business in December than they did in the same month of 1932, so budgets are being expanded 15 per cent for the first quarter."

CHAIN STORES' SALES IN DECEMBER SHOW GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the four weeks ended Dec. 30, 1933, surpassed those of the like period in 1932 in dollar volume but fell below them in quantity of merchandise.

Sales were $64,479,397, or a little less than 1 per cent above the total of $63,864,440 for the corresponding weeks of 1932.

American Stores company reported sales of $109,387,177 in 1933, against $115,453,529 in 1932. December sales, however, gained over the previous year, amounting to $9,387,818, compared with $9,250,46".

Interstate Department Stores sales for December aggregated $2,417,973, against $2,280,929 a year earlier, a gain of 6 per cent, while volume for the first eleven months was $16,848,732, against $17,387,439, a loss of 5.1 per cent.

C. E. Holzworth, district manager of the S. S. Kresge company, said Christmas business in Chicago was the best in several years, gaining 16 per cent over 1932 and carrying local sales for the year 9 per cent above 1932. The current volume here is running 15 per cent over last year, while pay rolls are 10 per cent higher, he added.

CUMMINGS MADE NEW CHAIRMAN OF CONTINENTAL

RFC Choice O. K.'d by Stockholders.

BY THOMAS PURLONG.

Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, was elected chairman and a director of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday, and seven other new members were added to the board. The action of the stockholders put formal approval on the program agreed to early this week in Washington between a committee of directors and officials of the RFC.

All other officers of the bank were reelected.

Cummings appeared before the meeting a few minutes before his formal election and told stockholders that his first purpose in taking active direction would be to make the Continental not the largest bank in the country but the safest. He received a noisy greeting from the 200 stockholders who attended the meeting.

RFC Backs New Directors.

Preliminary tallies indicated that at least 1,800,000 of the bank's 2,200,000 shares were voted in favor of the new directors. This includes the 1,500,000 shares owned by the RFC, which were voted by F. T. Gallagher, Chicago manager of the government agency.

In addition to Mr. Cummings the other new directors named are:

John Quincy Adams, farmer and land owner who has important holdings in Iowa. He resides in Chicago.

S. T. Bledsoe, president, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway.

Reuben G. Dantelson, cashier, Continental bank.

Judson F. Stone, agent of the McCormick estates.

Seventeen Reelected, 17 Retire.

Chauncey B. Borland	James R. Leavell
Robert E. Carr	D. R. McLennan
Alfred Cowles	Wm. H. Mitchell
D. A. Crawford	Fred W. Sargent
Herbert G. F. Deans	M. A. Seandrett
Lawrence A. Downe	Albert A. Sprague
Louis Eckstein	W. B. Storey
J. Fletcher Farrell	Herman Waldeck
William F. Hayes

Sewell L. Avery	George F. Getz
Eugene J. Buffington	Frederick T. Haskell
Clifford D. Caldwell	Albert M. Johnson
William J. Chalmers	D. F. Kelly
Henry P. Crowell	Charles W. Nash
Edward A. Cudahy	George M. Reynolds
George B. Everitt	Chas. H. Schweppe
Marshall Field	Robert W. Stewart.
Charles F. Glore

D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store, is one of the retiring directors who submitted his resignation several weeks ago. He was prevailed upon to finish his term. The limiting of the board to 25 members is made in compliance with the banking act passed last year.

New Board Chooses Officers.

The directors were chosen at the stockholders' meeting, after which the new board met and elected officers for the coming year.

President Leavell presided at the meeting. At the opening of the meeting a ballot containing the names of the 25 new directors was circulated among those present. After an inspection of the list, W. P. Schermerhorn, a stockholder, moved that the nominations be closed. The motion was carried and the secretary was instructed to cast a unaminous vote for the list.

S. S. Hiesenfeld, another stockholder, objected, and the previous motion was withdrawn and each person voting was allowed to write in the names of persons not appearing on the printed ballot.

Just prior to the balloting one stockholder sought to question Mr. Leavell as to which divisions of the bank had lost the most money in recent years and which departments had shown a profit.

Leavell Speeds Up Meeting.

Mr. Leavell said he would be glad to give this information to any stockholder after the meeting and suggested that an explanation would seriously delay the business at hand. The stockholder was satisfied and the business proceeded.

President Leavell addressed the stockholders' meeting in explaining the new directors' slate. The names were agreed upon, he said, at a conference between representatives of the board and RFC officials in Washington this week.

"We had a most satisfactory visit," he declared. "Our views coincided perfectly, all to the end of making this a better bank. We submitted our recommendations to Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC. He made some suggestions and we came to an agreement.

"We decided that if we could prevail on Mr. Cummings to become chairman it would be fortunate for the bank. I think it was a wise course when the stockholders at a re-

F. I. KENT RESIGNS AS U. S. FOREIGN EXCHANGE "CZAR"

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Resignation of Fred I. Kent as head of the special foreign exchange division of the New York Federal Reserve bank was announced today. It is effective Jan. 15.

Mr. Kent has been known as the foreign exchange "czar" inasmuch as he has had control of dealings in foreign currencies since the banking holiday. It was one of his tasks to prevent flight of capital during the recent banking difficulties.

The bank's announcement said that he undertook this work for a temporary period last March "because of the emergency then existing" and that he had now asked to be relieved of his duties "since the work of the foreign exchange division is now organized so as not to require the continuation of his services and since he desired to devote his entire time to his other activities."

Mr. Kent, a director of the Bankers' Trust company and former acting chancellor of New York university, held a similar foreign exchange position during the world war.

ALL OFFICIALS OF FEDERAL LIFE ARE RE-ELECTED

All officers of Federal Life Insurance company of Chicago, 168 North Michigan avenue, were reëlected at the annual meeting, according to announcement made yesterday. In addition, J. F. Williams was elected assistant treasurer and a member of the board. T. Loyal Anderson was also elected a director.

During 1933 the company's assets increased from $14,506,482 to $14,574,250. Contingency reserve increased $100,000 to $400,000, capital at $375,000 remained the same, and net surplus on Dec. 31, 1933, was $427,000, against $314,047 on Dec. 31, 1932. Cash and United States government bonds also showed increases.

Atlas Brewing Plant Here Augments Working Forces

The Atlas Brewing company added 60 employes to local plant forces in November and December, boosting the pay roll by $7,500 monthly, Anton Laadt, vice president and general manager, said yesterday. The plant is operating on a two shift, six day week basis and at present about 400 employes are working.

U. S. Steel Stock in Names of Brokers Shows Increase

The floating supply of United States Steel corporation common stock, as indicated by holdings in brokers' names, was 1,636,349 shares on Dec. 31, an increase of 12,398 shares since Sept. 30 and 18.80 per cent of the total issue.

MANUFACTURERS OF NATION NAME NEW OFFICERS

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Clinton L. Bardo of Camden, N. J., who rose from a telegraph operator to become head of the New York Shipbuilding corporation, today was elected president of the National Association of Manufacturers. He succeeds Robert L. Lund of St. Louis.

The association pledged itself to cooperate with other agencies in the program of national reconstruction.

Legislation which the association will try to promote includes a "constructive" program of taxation, practical economy in public expenditures, and a sound monetary and banking system.

Manufacturers' Advisory Unit Headed by Hammond

Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, president of the Whiting corporation of Harvey, was elected chairman of the advisory committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday. Other members named to the group were: Samuel M. Hastings, Paul F. Beich, William Butterworth, James D. Cunningham, O. Gullicksen, E. C. Heidrich, E. L. Mansure, George R. Meyercord, William Nelson Pelouze, and Ward M. Willits.

DOLLAR VALUE EASES SLIGHTLY AGAINST FRANC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12—Trading in foreign exchange held within a narrow range today. The dollar was slightly weaker, closing about 1-5 of a cent lower against the French gold franc, at 63.96 cents.

Sterling ranged between $5.08 and $5.09½ and closed at $5.08½, unchanged from the previous session. The franc ranged within two points and closed at 6.125 cents, up 2 points. The Canadian dollar closed unchanged at par.

Cunningham Quits Grain Board Clearing House

Illinois Central Names Iowa Man Chief Attorney

Fort Dodge, Ia., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Appointment of Charles A. Helsell, Fort Dodge, as general attorney for the Illinois Central railroad was announced here today. Helsell will go to Chicago to take his new post next week.

BRITISH RAYON TRUST OUTPUT LIFTED, PRICE CUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Courtaulds, Ltd., the $162,000,000 British artificial silk trust, made the important announcement tonight that production will be extended over 30 per cent and reductions averaging approximately 6 cents per pound will be made in the company's viscose yarn prices. The price cuts are rendered possible by increase of production and recently effected economies.

Courtaulds, which has a substantial interest in the American Viscose Corp., recently announced a reduction of prices in leading acetate products, the object of which it is believed was to enable the firm to compete with Japanese and other rayon producers in the overseas markets.

ROOSEVELT O. K.'S PLAN FOR WORLD PARLEY ON SUGAR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Overtures have been made to the United States for a preliminary world sugar conference and President Roosevelt has replied he would be glad to have this country participate.

The suggestion is simply for an informal meeting of the principal sugar producing nations to talk things over and see if a successful world sugar conference is possible.

PRIMA COMPANY OMITS DIVIDEND ON SENIOR STOCK

The Prima company has omitted its quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on the cumulative convertible preference stock, it was learned yesterday. An initial disbursement of 50 cents was paid on the common stock on July 1, last, but no distributions have since been made.

Directors of the Great Western Electro-Chemical company ordered payment of $1 a share on common. In the previous quarter an initial dividend of 50 cents was paid. The Iron Fireman Manufacturing company placed its capital stock on an annual basis of 80 cents by approving four quarterly distributions of 20 cents each. The last dividend was paid Sept. 1, 1932, and amounted to 10 cents.

The Interstate Department Stores resumed dividends on the preferred stock with the declaration of $1.75 a share quarterly, similar to the payment made Feb. 1, 1933. The International Utilities corporation voted 87½ cents on the $7 preferred and 43¾ cents on the $3.50 preferred, cutting payments to 50 per cent of the previous rate. Both dividends are cumulative.

MAIN STATE BANK REDUCES BOARD; PLANS TO MOVE

The number of directors of the Main State bank was reduced to five at the stockholders' meeting yesterday. The directors elected are L. Shirley Tark, M. R. Becker, Gustave Dammann, Louis Porter, and William Rusnak. They will meet next week to elect officers.

The stockholders also ratified plans to move the bank from its present location at 2654 West North avenue, to the quarters formerly occupied by the Second Security State bank, at 1965 Milwaukee avenue.

The board of directors of the First National Bank of Cicero yesterday elected Eugene W. Kaspar president, succeeding Charles Krupka. Mr. Krupka retains his position as chairman of the board, and other officers were reelected.

Cuban Sugar Export Chief Ousted by Grau San Martin

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Thomas L. Chadbourne, originator of the international sugar control plan which bears his name, was ousted today from the presidency of the Cuban Sugar Export company in a decree issued by President Grau San Martin. The decree accepted the resignation of four members of the corporation and called for elections.

Western Union November Loss Less Than Year Ago

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Western Union Telegraph company reports net loss of $169,561 for November, compared with loss of $550,110 a year ago.

Bryn Mawr State Bank to Pay 5% to Depositors

Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, yesterday announced that he had authorized a payment of 5 per cent, amounting to $24,000, to the depositors of the Bryn Mawr State bank. This is the second payment since the bank closed June 9, 1931, bringing the total paid to 15 per cent.

Montgomery Ward to Have Larger Store in Duluth

A long term lease has been made on a larger and more central location for the Duluth, Minn., store of Montgomery Ward & Co. The building is to be remodeled at once and will be occupied in the near future. Additional personnel will be employed.

NICHOLS' BANK TO PAY DEPOSIT FEE—CUMMINGS

J. M. Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, must pay the bank's pro rata share to the new Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, regardles of his wishes in the matter, Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the corporation, told reporters last night, following his election as chairman of the Continental bank.

"The deposits of the First National of Englewood are now insured, regardless of the speeches of Mr. Nichols," said Mr. Cummings. "The premium owed by the bank constitutes an assessment against the bank, and must be paid whether or not the bank decides to liquidate tomorrow. Congress decided all that last year."

"If the bank decides to withdraw from the reserve system it will still have to pay the insurance premium it now owes. I think Mr. Nichols is just trying to make the first page."

CUMMINGS MADE NEW CHAIRMAN OF CONTINENTAL

RFC Nominee Is Approved by Stockholders.

cent meeting voted in favor of a recapitalization and the sale of 50 million dollars of stock to the RFC.

"These things, all added together, I think, should give us all courage. Mr. Cummings will have the solid support of the organization and all the members of the new board."

Stockholders Applaud Cummings.

The stockholders stood up and there was long and noisy applause when Mr. Leavell escorted Mr. Cummings into the room. The applause grew in volume when Mr. Cummings, addressing the meeting, said: "I hope that at our next meeting conditions will be sufficiently favorable to make dividends a possibility.

"I hope a year from now," Mr. Cummings continued, "that I can appear before you and report on my stewardship to the satisfaction of everybody. If not, I will get out and make way for somebody else."

The retirement of George M. Reynolds from the board eliminates the last of the Reynolds family, which long dominated the management. Mr. Reynolds quit as chairman last year, a position to which he had returned after the retirement of his brother, Arthur Reynolds, from the bank. The position of chairman, which Mr. Cummings fills, has been vacant since the retirement a few months of Stanley Field. Since that time Mr. Leavell has been carrying the load of both executive posts.

Cummings Returns to Capital.

Mr. Cummings left last night for Washington. He will resign his posts as chairman of the deposit corporation and executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury next Monday and will return on Feb. 1 to take over active direction of the bank.

All changes in the executive personnel have been delayed until Mr. Cummings has become acquainted with his new job, it was said. The board yesterday made no changes in salaries.

After the meeting the new chairman told reporters that he has no definite plans and did not care to discuss specific policies until he is familiar with the situation.

The reelection of Chauncey B. Borland and William H. Mitchell continues representation on the board of two families which have long been important stockholders in the bank and its predecessors. Both men have investment banking connections and must obtain special permits from the federal reserve board to serve as directors.

Mitchell in Brokerage Firm.

Mr. Mitchell is partner of Mitchell, Hutchins & Co., brokers, and a son of the late John J. Mitchell, who for years was head of the Illinois Merchants bank, which was merged with the Continental National in 1927 to form the present institution. Mr. Borland is a special partner of Alfred L. Baker & Co., stock exchange brokers.

The retirement from the board of Marshall Field and Charles F. Glore leaves the Field estate without apparent representation on the new board. Field and Glore are both investment bankers and publicly announced that they would not seek re-

HOGS LOSE MOST OF EARLY GAINS AS PORK DROPS

A decline in the wholesale market for fresh pork yesterday made packers buy hogs cautiously, and the early 10 to 15 cents higher quotations failed to hold. Federal buyers were aggressive in the 210 pound averages and lighter weights at the early advance, and met fair competition from eastern interests, resulting in a cleanup of animals of good to choice quality within the weight limit of "government" stock.

Seven packers obtained about 5,000 for the Federal Surplus Relief corporation largely at $3.50 and $3.55, although paying $3.60, the extreme top, for a few lots. The purchases of government buyers and eastern packers accounted for about 10,000 head, leaving very little of the "upper crust" in the pens after the start.

Heavy Hogs Not Cleared.

However, upwards of 20,000 head exceeding 210 pounds in weight still remained after these orders had been filled, including holdover stock from Thursday. Packers refused to flow at higher prices for "house" hogs, and these kinds weakened to about a steady basis during the closing rounds. The general average for the session at $3.40 was 5 cents better than Thursday's price.

Top sales for the day showed 10 cents gain, but quotations still are mostly 15 cents under the high point early in the week. The bulk of the hogs weighing 230 to 300 pounds sold yesterday at $3.25 to $3.45, with very few hogs intended for trade channels here selling above the latter figure.

Prices of lower grade cows rose to the highest level since last June on government support of suitable stock. Buying at all points continued at the rate of about 2,200 a day.

Canner and Cutter Cows Active.

Canner and cutter cows, the kinds packers are buying for the relief corporation, comprised a large share of yesterday's receipts, but competition in this class continued brisk at the higher prices. In many instances good grades of cutter cows were sold for a little more than fair quality beef cows that did not quite suit federal buyers, a situation without a precedent in the cattle trade.

Beef cows have declined about 25 cents since midweek, while canners and cutters ruled strong to higher all week, and are closing 25 to 50 cents higher than a week ago. Hardly enough steers were in the receipts yesterday to test quotations. Prices were about in line with the average of Thursday, the top being $6.25. The bulk brought $4.50 to $5.50.

Lambs scored a mild recovery yesterday, advancing 10 to 15 cents on lighter receipts. Eastern packing houses were aggressive at the upturn, taking wooled stock at $8.30, but local packers reluctantly followed around $8.15 in the good grades.

LARD ADVANCES ON LATE BUYING; MEATS ACTIVE

Lard trading was best at the close yesterday. There was an unexpected rush of buying in the last hour, apparently from outside interests, which absorbed offerings and carried prices for new May lard 7½ cents; July, 10 cents, and September, 7½ cents net higher. Old January was weak and 15 cents lower, and new off only 5 cents. There were deliveries of 300,000 pounds on January contracts.

Cash demand for meats was more active, particularly toward the last, and prices were stronger. Cash lard was in fair demand. Regular was 2½ cents lower at 5.37½ cents; loose advanced 7½ cents to 4.67½ cents; leaf closed at 4.75 cents.

Bellies for old style May advanced 7½ cents, 2½ cents on new January, 10 cents on new May, and 2½ cents on new July. Fresh pork loins were 8 to 10 cents. Prices:

Learn Beauty Culture
At DeLEE

Insure yourself a permanent income for life by learning beauty culture and hairdressing at DeLEE. A well trained beauty operator is always able to find a good paying position, and there is no other field where a girl can qualify in such a short period of time.

CLASS NOW FORMING

A new class is now forming and will start receiving instruction immediately. Come in and talk with the DeLEE dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, and with the head of the instruction staff, Madame Louise. See this marvelous, beautiful school for yourself. If you can't come in, write for interesting FREE Book, "Your Career in Beauty Culture."
